SOCIETY TURNS TO BRIDES

Girls Who Are Getting Married Now Have Their Inning.

DEBUTANTES LOST SIGHT OF FOR TIME

Affairs in Sight Are for Wearers of Orange Blossoms Rather Than for Those Who Carry Violets.

A Twentieth-Century Love.

What to us is time or space,
Hours of absence, days or grace;
As we rule and reign alone
In a kingdom of our own?
Love like ours is up to date,
Sneers at fortune, conquers fate;
Makes the loves of early times
Look like three bright, shiny dimes.
Couldn't we give Cæsar and Spades
Tu historic lovers' spades?
Easily our love can beat
That of Faust and Marguerite.
Heloise and Abelard
Stooped to tricks that we'd discard;
Orpheus and Eurydice
Only knew a simple way;
Launcelot and Guinevere
Wondering would our love songs hear,
And a few things we might show
Juliet and Romeo.
Hero we'd give pointers to,
Teach Leander how to woo.
I could coach Semiramis,
Trojan Helen teach to kiss.
You'd teach Laura and Petrarch,
Distance Cleopatra's Mark.
Oh, the loves of bygone days
Were not up to modern ways!

The brides and prospective brides are having their inning at last, and the debutantes, the visiting girls and the rest of society have to take a back seat, figuratively, for them. The greater part of last week's entertaining was done in their honor. And this recalls the fact that one hears practically nothing of the debutantes of late. They have been little in evidence since before the holidays—in fact, since the strenuous round of gaiety that launched them—and except for meeting them occasionally at receptions, one hears little of them—that is, as a set.

People who walk out Farnam street at noon or after business hours in the late afternoon have been witnessing a tryst between two very prominent young society people for the last few months that has given rise to the general impression that there is an announcement due. Sometimes they meet on Harney street, but usually on Farnam, and always east of Twenty-fourth. Apparently their meeting is accidental, but its regularity suggests the truth of that old saying, that their is nothing so deceiving as appearance. She is the daughter of one of Omaha's most prominent families, living in the vicinity of All Saints' church. He is connected with a local hardware house, and, living only a block or so from her home, these little walks can be conveniently fitted in at the noon hour.

Extensive preparation is being made among the university set at Lincoln for the Junior Prom., which will take place at the Lincoln hotel February 10. The Prom. is the conspicuous social event of the university year and is the occasion of a general gathering of alumni from all parts of the state. The committee in charge of this year's arrangements includes G. M. Tunison, chairman, and Leigh S. Krake, master of ceremonies, and associated with them a score of prominent fraternity men and girls, who are making elaborate preparation for the event.

The death of Mr. Clinton D. Orcutt, which occurred Friday morning, removes from society, temporarily, three of its most popular young women, his daughters, Mrs. A. J. Beaton, Miss Anna Bi Orcutt and Miss Jane Orcutt. The fashionable set has been sadly depleted this season. One of the debutantes, Miss Pauline Schenck, having been withdrawn by the death of her uncle, J. H. Evans, and the Misses Hamilton and their family by the death of their uncle, Mr. Frank Murphy.

The wedding of Miss Nellie Kreider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Kreider, to Mr. George Green Tayloe of Memphis, Tenn., will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening at Westminster Presbyterian church. The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Mary Kreider, as maid of honor, and Misses Ruth Binford of Marshalltown, Ia., Lila Kurtz of Indianapolis, Nell Brinker and Alice French as bridesmaids. Mr. Fred Ryner will act as groomsman and Messrs. Joel Wright, Tom Moore, William Mulvihill and Charles Wright as ushers. A reception will follow the wedding from 8 to 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kreider, 1922 South Thirty-third street.

The thirty-seventh annual convention of the American Woman Suffrage association will be held this year at Portland, Ore., June 29 to July 5. Special railroad rates have already been arranged for a round trip rate of $56.50, having been announced from Chicago. Because of the postponement of the convention the association has issued a few announcements concerning its work during the last year. The gain in membership for the year of 1904 is the largest in the history of the association, an increase of 30 per cent being shown by the treasurer's books, which closed with fewer convention pledges unpaid than ever before. The same gratifying conditions prevail in the state associations, which are on a more substantial basis than ever before. Nebraska stands fourth and Iowa third on the list of states paying the largest auxiliary dues, New York being first, Massachusetts second, California fifth and Kansas sixth. Illinois, Iowa and Kansas stand second, third and fourth and Nebraska eleventh on the list of states for gain in members during the year. This unusual increase in membership is accounted for largely as resulting from the enlightenment of women generally in their attempted legislative work through the various women's organizations, and their success in bringing about more satisfactory school conditions where they have been granted school suffrage.

The pope has issued a medal of honor to the Society of Christian Mothers of Chili and the Argentine Republic for the part they had in establishing peace between those two countries, and the czar of Russia has requested an account of their work and of the "Christ of the Andes." In compliance with this request the story is being prepared in letters of gold upon white satin, and when finished will be sent to the czar, with a miniature model of the Christ statue. The story is brief, but very interesting. For seventy years Chili and Argentine Republic had been quarreling over their boundary lines, and finally decided to resort to war. Great preparation was made, but finally it was decided to settle the difficulty by arbitration and devote the money intended for war to improving roads and making other internal improvements and to erecting on the disputed boundary, 14,000 feet above the sea level, a statue of Christ made from the metal from old cannor. The statue is called the "Christ of the Andes." This happy adjustment is credited largely to the influence of the women of the two republics, who were tireless in their work of agitating and educating for peace.

Forty-five new members were recently added to the Beatrice Women's Christian Temperance union by means of a membership contest that lasted six weeks. The losing side provided a delightful entertainment to the entire union, which now numbers ninety-eight members. The initiation of new members was a part of the program of the evening, and before the meeting adjourned another contest was arranged, sides chosen and each woman promised to bring at least one new member into the union before March 1. The Table Rock union recently entertained the ministers, teachers, members of the school board and county superintendent of instruction at a social evening, held at the home of Mrs. Walter Smith. There were addresses from the various representatives, followed by a musical program.

Decided interest is becoming manifest among the Daughters of the American Revolution in the successor to Mrs. Charles Fairbanks as president general of the national society. It is said that Mrs. Russell A. Alger of Michigan, Mrs. Donald McLean of New York and Mrs. Charles Warren Lippitt of Rhode Island lead the race at present. Mrs. Daniel Manning has been spoken of for the office but Mrs. Manning says she does not approve of ex-presidents being elected again. Most of the minor candidates are wives of United States senators, among them being Mrs. Dolliver of Iowa, Mrs. Burrows of Michigan, Mrs. Elkins of West Virginia, Mrs. Stone of Missouri, Mrs. Foster of Washington and Mrs. Burnham of New Hampshire.

The musical department of the Woman's Club will present a miscellaneous program under the direction of Mrs. G. W. Noble, Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The rehearsal of the Enchanted Swan chorus will be held at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the club rooms.

Mrs. Henry McDonald will act as leader at Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the current topics department. In addition to the regular discussion there will be papers on "Frenzied Finance" and "Public Ownership."

Superintendent Davidson of the city schools will address the social science department of the Woman's Club at 3:30 Monday afternoon on "Parental Schools." All interested in the subject are invited to be present.

Maine and South Carolina are the only states where all of the clubs in the state federation belong also to the General Federation.

Mrs. C. S. Carscadden of York, vice president of the Fourth district of the Nebraska Federation, expects to arrange for a convention of the clubs of that district before long, though the date of the meeting has not been definitely fixed as yet.

MANUAL TRAINING EXHIBIT

Instructor Wigman Installs Display Made at St. Louis for Local Inspection.

Instructor J. E. Wigman of the manual training department of the Omaha High school has just installed in the basement of the high school the collection of manual training exhibits that was on exhibition at the Louisiana Purchase exposition. Mr. Wigman's idea in placing the collection on exhibition here is to give every one interested in the work a favorable opportunity of seeing it and forming a better idea of the scope of the manual training work at the high school. The parents of the children are particularly invited to call and visit the collection, which will be open every afternoon next week from 2 until 5 p. m.

Mrs. J. R. Musick, D. O., who has had an osteopathic office in the Douglas block for five years, has removed to a handsome suite of rooms in the Neville block, Sixteenth and Harney. This office is equipped with all conveniences for osteopathic work, and Mrs. Musick's popularity and successful practice in the past insures a continuation of patronage in her new location for the future.

Miss Belle Knowlton, formerly of the millinery department at Bennett's, is now ready to show spring millinery in great quantities at the millinery department at Hayden Bros.'

OUR LETTER BOX

A Pair of Jolly Jeffersonians.

OMAHA, Jan. 28.—To the Editor of The Bee: A pair of jolly Jeffersonians met in the White House a few days ago. One was the president of the United States and the other was our own vaulting and voluble W. J. Bryan. The evident object of this personal mass meeting was to swap effusive compliments and congratulations over their mutual efforts to put the railroads of the country into control of the federal government, the president demanding control and regulation, and the more jolly Jeffersonian favoring absolute federal ownership.

It has not escaped common observation for nearly 100 years that Thomas Jefferson founded the national democracy on the principle of a government of the people, by the people, for the people, in opposition to Alexander Hamilton, who desired a government of the money power and centralization vested in the federal government. Upon that issue Mr. Jefferson triumphed in his own election to the presidency in 1801. The great issue of that struggle was never misunderstood by anybody, but time and events have made this government Hamiltonian in spirit, Hamiltonian in form and Hamiltonian in fact—complete, invincible, irrevocable. Mr. Jefferson contended all his great life for the reserved rights of the people of the state and for strict construction to maintain them against federal encroachment. He stood in relentless opposition to the centralization of power to the federal government and for its widest diffusion among the people of the states. Nothing was ever true if this is not true. And yet, after all that has been wrought in ignoble peace and fratricidal war to demolish and destroy state rights in the past sixty years, what do we not see in this spectacular personal convention in the White House of Theodore Roosevelt and W. J. Bryan swapping effusive congratulations over the final slaughter of everything for which Mr. Jefferson contended that is worth preserving in popular government?

Secretary Paul Morton is one of the strong men in the present government of our country. Nobody need doubt it. He is our own Nebraska boy. He not only knows things, but he does things. As a matter of principle, I do not think that he believes either in the regulation of railroad freight rates by federal statutes any more than he does in federal ownership, or than I do in either. But what he recently said I respectfully commend to the attention of the pretty pair of jolly Jeffersonians who assembled in massive convention in the White House the other day, as follows:

"If I were president of the United States with government ownership of railroads I could succeed myself in that office as long as I pleased," or words to that effect, said Secretary Morton, and, in my opinion, he was entirely right about it.

GEORGE L. MILLER.

Push It Along.

FLORENCE, Neb., Jan. 26.—To the Editor of The Daily Bee: "Regulate the Mother of Trusts" is the leading editorial in Orange Judd Farmer January 28, strongly urging the farmers and everybody to write urgent letters to Hon. W. P. Hepburn, chairman interstate commerce committee, house of representatives, Washington, D. C., also to Hon. S. B. Elkins, chairman senate committee, Washington, D. C., requesting in polite but emphatic language that their committee promptly report an effective bill governing railway rates. The matter is now in the hands of these two committees, and these two men can smother this great reform if they so desire.

Will you kindly give your valuable influence in same direction for the benefit of your readers? A blank form for this purpose would be of much help. Let everybody come forward and hold up our courageous president's hands in the coming struggle with "The Mother of Trusts."

J. F. DRABEK.

Chicago Tries Twelve-Hour Shift.

OMAHA, Jan. 28.—To the Editor of The Bee: The city of Chicago by vote of the city council has decided to try the twelve-hour shift for firemen by putting it into effect in one of the downtown battalions. This is the same plan which the firemen of this city are advocating. The Chicago firemen were only on duty eighteen hours per day, while those of this city are on duty practically twenty-four.

In Chicago one of the principal fights against it was made by Fire Marshal Campian, on the ground that the firemen in asking it were guilty of insubordination, but the council was unable to see it in that light.

All the Omaha firemen ask is to have a portion of the opportunities for home life and time to themselves that is accorded men in other avocations. A FIREMAN.

The distracting headaches from which so many women suffer make life a daily purgatory. If men suffered with headache as women do, business would be almost at a standstill. Does not the fact that women only suffer from these severe headaches suggest that there must be a womanly cause for them?

When the womanly organism is diseased, headache, backache, nervousness and sleeplessness are consequences which are sure to follow.
