Representative Foster of Douglas today took the initiative for a general overhauling and revision of the freight rates of Nebraska and therefore to carry out the policy announced and being pursued by President Roosevelt for more equitable freight rates.

In a recent interview Representative Kyd gave this explanation of his bill: It has been argued that the immediate relief would be to put existing societies out of business until special sessions of the legislative body could be held.

Commenting on this today, Hon. E. J. Harris, member of the legislative committee of the National Fraternal congress, said: "This statement is erroneous and not borne out by the bill itself."

"Nearly all the fraternal organizations of this state, as well as of other states, convene their legislative body only once in four years."

"If extra sessions were called in the form of a special session, which would have to be called by the legislature, it would cost not less than $100,000."

"All these questions have been gone over very thoroughly and provisions made in the uniform bill to take care of each and all societies to the end that the members of the several societies will have fully protected their rights in the premises."

"The statement that the American Order of United Workmen, Modern Woodmen of America and other societies carrying about three-fifths of all the fraternal insurance now in force in this state are now in harmony with every requirement of this act is not true, and those societies, as well as all the fraternalists of the state, are protesting in no uncertain terms in denunciation of the drastic provisions of the Kyd and Shreck bills."

"These bills are based on no abuses to be corrected, but simply on the fear that something may happen manifestly a poor foundation for legislation."

district, where minute records are kept, show that in breaking up the demonstration of January 23, of the thousands of troops on guard only 60 actually fired. FIRE CONSUMES STOCK FOOD Blaze Starts in Alfalfa Company's Plant from Exploding Lantern.

LOW PRESSURE HANDICAPS FIREMEN Streams from Steamer Only Once Which Are Effective—Intense Cold Also Makes Work of Firemen Difficult.

The explosion of a lantern in the rear of the building occupied by the Alfalfa Meal company on Jones, between Fourth and Fifth streets, started a fire that damaged property in that vicinity to the extent of $35,000.

The fire was discovered by the watchman of the Alfalfa Meal company at about 6:45 last evening. The principal losers by the fire will be the Alfalfa Meal company and the International Manufacturing company, located next to the meal company. H. G. Payne, president of the Alfalfa Meal company, estimated the value of his company's stock at $25,000.

It is thought that the stock carried about $150,000 insurance. The value of the stock of the International Manufacturing company was placed at $15,000, fully covered by insurance.
