This is to higher than it was two months ago and within 1% of the high point for this crop. It is 3% above the low point which was reached last June. The May today was reached last June. The May today was not so strong as the close Saturday to the winter was a bearish factor known when trading began, but apparently underestimated until later in the day. All the influences named had a depressing effect on the May delivery, but the demand for July was sufficient to prevent temporary futures. At noon today it was so higher than the close of Saturday. Laverpool was from % to lower to % estronger. The revolution in Argentina and the unfavorable weather in India, were the strong features and unexpectedly large Russian shipments offset them.

The snows are increasingly good for the winter wheat. However they were light west of the Mississippl, in most places, and in the southwest where maich needed were slight. There is some anxiety expressed over the prospect of winter killing in Kansas and Okiahoma and in Texas it is said replanting is necessary. East of here the crop is probably in good condition, but in the Atlantic states the wheat has been covered by a sheet of ice and killing is feared.

The word's shipments of wheat are 2, 600 on against 2 000 down to the preceding week and is care a year ago.

The corn market was subjected to considerable selling by cash houses, but prices showed only a silent decline. CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Dispeiling of fear that fall-sown wheat had been damaged brought out liberal liquidation in the wheat pit today. At the close May wheat was off 140%c and July 30%c. Corn and oats are practically unchanged. Provisions are are practically unchanged. Provisions are up 25675c.

The weakness in the wheat market developed late in the day, a fairly firm tone being manifested early. At the opening May was unchanged to be higher at $1.1791.175; and July unchanged to be higher at $1.091.096. An active demand for July by shorts was the feature of trading during the first hour. Pit traders, nevertheless, showed an inclination to sell May, owing to the fact that cables were only a trille higher in the face of a 2c advance here Saturday. Weekly statistics were generally construed as rather bearish, world's shipments being large and the amount on passage being considerably increased.

Market is Dull and Heavy and the Closing is Easy. ISSUES ARE NEGLECTED

Speculative Appetite Feels the Lack of Highly Seasoned Rumors by Which It Was Braced Last Week.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The speculative appetite today feit the lack of highly seasoned rumors by which it was braced last week. Somewhat languid attention was paid in corffeequence to raliroad stocks which were concerned in most of last week's rumors. There was a diversion of interest to the list of specialties and in that department there was some striking movements. Stock of that class, however, have less influence upon general sentiment than the standard raliroad stocks. The sympathetic effect today was confined to a power of resistance developed against the early depression, which pretty well restored the level of prices, but did not carry it above Saturday's closing. The selling was in part a continuation of the Saturday movement which evidently was due to misgivings over the progress of the agitation for control of raliroad rates and to the poor bank statement. The early decline was insignificant outside of some of the stocks which had been unduly stimulated last week. A number of the minor Vanderbilts were in this category and showed the effect of the failure of confirmation stories which circuiated last week. Today's substitute for the customary deal story was a revival of old reports of a combination under one control of the New York City traction companies. A spurt of twelve points to the new high record by Interborough Rapid Transatt on the curb gave color to rumors, although the movement was effected on light transactions in the stock. The Metropolitan properties and Manhattan make a ready response however, on the stock exchange on this outside movement, notwithstanding the lack of official sanction of any of the reports. The only other advances of any great amount were in stocks so little conspicuous as to have little influence on general sentiment. Most of the list was sluggish and uncertain in tone, but reflected no active pressure to sell. Attention was kept awake to the subject of federal rate control by various measures of agitation against the proposition on the part of railroads themselves, the m exceedingly cold weather and the grain rate war which succeeded in diverting large grain traffic from Chicago to the gulf ports, but at not very profitable rates. Gross earnings of railroads for the fourth week of January made a generally favorable showing. The heavy tone in the railroad department was unrelieved and the closing was easy. department was unreleved and the closing was easy.

PRIME MERCANTILE PAPER—34.6644 Exports of Corn to Europe are 1,080.000 Bushels per Day. Stocks of Oats are Decreasing Rapidly, With Demands Excellent.

> CORN Volume of business in Corn has been quite important. The news as regards supplies and demands was decidedly bullish and a sharp advance was prevented only by increase in offerings after the announcement of a cut in freight rates in the west to take effect February 4th. The feature just now is the heavy exports. The present rate at which our corn is going abroad is 1,000,000 bushels a day against receipts of but 500,000 bushels. The visible supply is being added to only in a small way, and stocks of contract corn are not as heavy as the trade expected after all that has been said about the good quality of the last crop. So far our advices do not indicate that because of the low rates granted by the railroads that farmers are enlarging their deliveries, but should this occur the corn would be rushed to the seaboard where there appears to be unlimited orders from Europe for corn to take the place of the large shortages abroad. These orders will be large and continuous, and we must be prepared to furnish the bulk of the world's shipments until the Argentine crop is ready months hence. Without question, the drain on our supplies will be enormous and all fears that large reserves will be carried over to next year have disappeared from the mind of the well informed trader. Sentiment is strongly in favor of higher market for corn. The price is about 12c under a year ago and 5c less than the average for 1904. As little recessions in the price occur, buy May corn and trade from this on in anticipation of an advancing rather than a declining market.

> OATS The market for Oats is now attracting interest and general attention. With the enlarged trade, there is a noticeable increase in investment orders filled on all slight recessions. Concensus of opinion is that elevator and cash interests are more bullish than hertofore, and, as receipts keep light and stocks disappear, a great deal better feeling prevails among holders as to future supplies and demands. The visible supply has been reduced from 24,478,000 bushels on December 3rd to 18,888,000 bushels, with every indication that it will be reduced to a point that will look very bullish between this and spring, especially when the price oats are now selling for is taken into account. Rumors of a revival of export demands, and estimate that farmers' holdings are not in excess of a year ago, along with the fact that consumption is the largest on record, are certain to be strong helps in the future. Along with this there comes up for the trade to consider at this time the knowledge that during the spring months is the regular time for establishing high prices for this cereal. A year ago the bull movement started earlier and May oats at this time were worth 46c to 47c. Another advantage in favor of the buyer is the strength and upward tendency in the wheat and corn markets, and those looking for a safe investment should not overlook the opportunities afforded purchasers on the present temporary declines > PROVISIONS The feature in the Provision market has been the attitude taken by the packere, and through the interest and buying by the manufacturers of the products the market has had quite a material advance during the past month, in which May Pork sold up to MALS. On all fluctuations under that price there appears to be orders on hand to pick up offerings which are afterward held off the market. Best advices are that we are nearing a time when big decreases in the movement of hogs will be met with, and this, with improvement in cash demand, will tend to surround the market with a set of strong conditions. Therefore, the time would seem to have arrived for taking hold of the entire list on weak spots for a sharp advance. Quotations abroad are higher and stocks small. Our clearances are large. The total exports of all means for week ending January 28th were 32,28,000 pounds, compared with 28,281,000 pounds for the corresponding time a year ago. In view of the increased cost of all foods except means, with dealers supplies light, we look for large distributive sales and higher cash markets and do not antictipate much if any decline. Should this reaction extend lower, think it will be a good place to make your purchases and hold for substantial returns.

SHEEP—There was a light run of sheep and lambs here as compared with a year ago, but as compared with a week ago there was but little change. The table above will show the exact figures.

The demand from packers was brisk this morning so that buyers were all out early and took overything as fast as offered. The market could safely be quoted active and strong, though the scarcity of strictly choice grades does not make the market on paper appear particularly strong. There were ewes good enough to bring $4.85 and yearlings sold up to $6.25. There were no choice lambs offered, the best price being $7.00. The demand was fully equal to the supply so that everything was disposed of at an early hour.
