Story of the Omaha Press Club and Its Present Prosperity

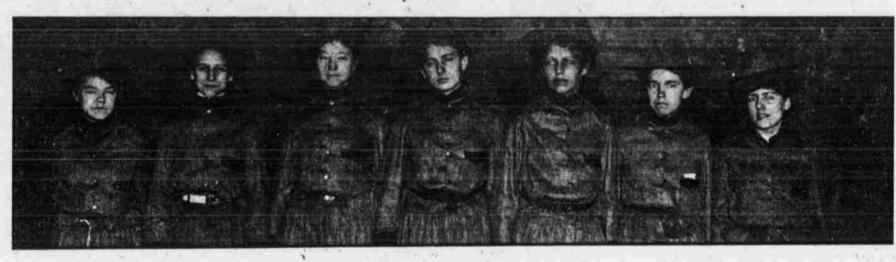

CLARENCE THE COP AND HAPPY HOOLIGAN.

TIVE OF THE COOKS WHO SAVED THE BROTH.

GIRLS IN RED WHO CAME IN BLOCKS OF FIVE.

SEVEN LITTLE TEDDY GIRLS ALL IN A ROW.

TOODLES AND THE TOM CAT.

not expect so much he would not be dis-moments while he was a member of The appointed so often. After a long period of Bee's staff. Therefore one March day in look, and with the ability to make quick sandwiched with announcements that the they become aged grow to prefer the so- would be presented to all who assisted. ciety of their own meditations and books to Thus broke the clarion call: that of their fellows, but they have some other reason than the long hours, the hard work and the constant buffeting of the newspaper tollers.

so much for his attitude toward the pub-He. With his own kind he does not cherish half the rivalry and the anxiety to "beat so much a matter of propinquity and luck onward: that ferocity toward men on the other papers does not pay. Oftentimes by working together only can the news or the advertising, or whatever it may be, be gotten-So the fellowship exists that is bound to come with knowing something about the other's parallel vissitudes. As proof of make a decent membership roll.

Omaha's Latest Press Club.

Omaha has its press club-has had it regularly for more than three years, and it is in a prosperous condition, too. Finances have been the least of its troubles. How to woo the worker away from his fireside and needed recreation during some of the brief hours that are not spent in earning his salary has been the cardinal problem. But by simply existing and doing a few things now and then, the club is finally arranging things so that it will fit in neatly with every member's workday life and he won't have to make a special effort to make himself believe that he is doing his full duty. Improvements are planned that will put the ties on a par with any except the very biggest press clubs in the country. In short the leading spirits declare it is to become a veritable institution that every Omahan will awear by and the bralhs, beauty, wit, genius and skill that visit the city will renember with a smile.

So long ago that its memory is velled in a haze almost mystical there there was an Omaha Press club. The gay times it had, the jokes it cracked and the good feeling it manufactured are eminently things of the past and should not be dug up. It is not on record that any attempt has been made to dig them up and spread them for the edification of these generations. Like good men who have passed away their bones, per force, will rest in peace.

Burst of a New Bloom.

But in the present era a new club was formed-one with large chunks of ginger in it and a remarkable capacity for leaving certain legacies to its successor-the present organization. Of which it is spoken was born October 2, 1930, and drew breath valiantly until and including the 2d day of November in the same year. On this memorable date a theatrical performance was given at the Boyd by the members of "The Burgomaster" company, Orpheum show and whatever was in blossom at Minco's old Trocadero. It was a gittering. howling success. Much money was coined for the Press club. After the mint closed there were two banquet-one for the Theaplans who so kindly milled the dollars, the theatrical people, the ushers, orchestras and all hands. The other was a strictly club affair. In the aftermath there were the payment of expenses and exit club-until the reorganization in 1902. Of the lamented body Smith E. Hall, then managing editor of the News and now deported from our midst, was president; Will M. Maupin, now a factor on Bryan's Commoner, was vice president; E. B. Smith, then city editor of The Bee and now to this vicinity minus, was chairman of the executive committee. Will B. Weishans, one of the brightest of Omaha's native newspaper men and who died in California, was secretary. J. W. McCamand true deductions. Some, it is true, as Press club was to be again and that cigars

Hear, ye! pushers of the Faber, Get a move on Tuesday next;
But when finished is your labor Please remember the old text;
"Too much work, too small leisure, Filleth Jack with stupidness," Let us then be in for pleasure
When the paper's gone to press.

Still impressed with the educational value the other fellow to it," that misconcep- that might come from such a condition, tion publishes. Triumphs in his work are Wickizer whipped up his muse and moved onward:

That our thinktanks may be brightened,
And our sluggish blood be warmed:
That our burdens may be lightened,
There has been a press club formed.
Then relax your nerves a minute,
Let there be surcease of stress:
And you'll find there's comfort in it,
When the paper's gone to press.

It will be noted that the poet is careful this observe the press clubs that flourish not to suggest the sepnding of any of the in nearly every city of the United States time that rightly belongs to the employer where the craft is numerous enough to in the joys of the club, but waits until the labor of the day is done. The morality in his soul reaches its zenith, however, in the concluding appeal:

Who knows? perhaps some day hereafter,
When our forms have all "gone down,"
And we're "called upon the carpet"
By the "chilef" who wears a crown,
If there's been some little glowing
Of unselfishness, kindliness,
We may make a better showing
When OUR paper's gone to press.

Formation of the Real Thing. It matters not whether it was the cigars or the verse that did the work. Sufficient Is It to record that somewhat like two score reporters, advertising men and editors assembled in the Commercial club rooms at even poked his nose into the waste paper 4:30 on the afternoon of March 4. All that basket; but she was not to be found organization and its trappings and facili- was said is not on record, but each present there. flipped a coin on the table and enrolled his Mr. Leslie and his friend kept laughing old ones, and when they appear they rename. Later I. A. Medlar, publisher of the all the time, and the two dogs grew Hotel Reporter, was elected president; more and more puzzled. George H. Carter, city editor of the Council Bluffs Nonparell, vice president; Frank where," cried Spot; and, getting on Wickizer of The Bee, secretary, and W. H. chair, he jumped on the table, followed Wilbur of the World-Herald, treasurer. The by Scotty. first directors, who served with the officers as the executive committee, were O. E. Mc- And, sitting down in front of the trumpet rather flexible, nourished by blood and in-Cune, now business manager of the News; thing, with his little friend beside him, Edgar S. Bradley, then an editor on the they both listened with all their might, World-Herald and now printing his own looking so surprised.

commercial weekly, and J. D. Weaver of The Bee's advertising staff. After organization came the question of quarters and fitting them. A limited derstand!" she cried, as she picked them amount of cash had been inherited from the both up in her arms. "Poor, puzzled dog- skin get broken or the antier disfigured, it thought that one of these great creatures Omaha Press club-the name of the new gies, that is a phonograph. Didn't you organization was the Tri-City Press Club, know?" and it included South Omaha and Council

ANY will argue that newspaper mon, later city editor of The Bee and Bluffs-and committees were appointed to make the quarters very attractive. Men are constitutionally pessimis—managing editor of the Kansas City see about the business. Within a few weeks Here was hatched a scheme to bring the and when the train reached Omaha the on October 12 the goods and chattels of the in Posteriand" at the Boyd last Monday tid and inherently inclined to the World, was a leading light. But despite comfortable but small rooms were fur-convention of the National Editorial assoto and inherently inclined to the sour was a leading light. But despite of night. The musical comedy was put on sour was But these do not quite understand. It is really the extreme optimism of the newspaper workers that sometimes twists his mouth toward his heels and inspires his irony. The rude fracturing of his hopes by men, women and things he thought better of and could not help thinking better of, particularly when and the composition of the National Editorial association to Omaha for 1903. No time was packed and restal appearance. Literature, organization were moved in The giory of night. The musical comedy was put on nished in the Patterson block at Seventian to Omaha for 1903. No time was badgenase.

To one, Frank Wickizer, belongs much distely became well frequented. Local merting the talent the club drooped for reasons with great succession to Omaha for 1903. No time was packed and every contention of the National Editorial association to Omaha for 1903. No time was badgenase.

To one, Frank Wickizer, belongs much distributed the club could mot which no one has diagnosed.

To one, Frank Wickizer, belongs much distributed the club could mot of the credit for blowing life into the dead the convention, his heels and inspires his irony. The rude fracturing of his hopes by men, women and things he thought's politics and raising fairey of northwest directed the relation to Omaha for 1903. No time was bedgenate, cars had a festal appearance. Literature, the talent the club drooped for reasons with great succession to Omaha for 1903. No time was packed and every distributed to the the talent the club drooped for reasons with great succession to Omaha for 1903. No time was packed and estal appearance. Literature, the talent the club drooped for reasons with great succession to Hot Springs and did suct offer the talent the club drooped for reasons with great succession to Hot Springs and the the club stand the talent the club drooped for reasons with great succession to Hot Springs and the the club drooped for help thinking better of, particularly when other press club has ben reared as a monu-braska Telephone company installed a tele-their opportunities were exceptionally fine ment to his talents for organization. Hap-phone; Schmoeller & Mueller a piaho, and Wickizer, met the excursionists at Colum-in a short time few things were lacking to bus. Large bunches of cut flowers were ters must be obtained. Rooms were secured character of the entertainments as much.

POT sat down, looking as puzzled head wisely.

ter." answered Spot, "and I heard Mis- Little Folks.

Scotty, a pretty little terrier with long fur- with a quick bark of joy.

like hair. He was curled up in front of "Now come and have a race.

"Why, I've been in the study with mas-they really thought they had.—Cassel's er," answered Spot, "and I heard Mis-little Folks too bewildered to say, as he would have mide the noble bucks of the deer family-done at another time, "If I can't find her particularly the wapiti, or American elk-

I'm sure you can't," but he led the way that their branching antiers are cast off

"I don't understand it," he thinking. "Mistress has two voices, her said; "I can't make it out in talking and her singing one, and the one as ever a doggle could look.

"What is wrong now?" asked his friend tress talking quite plainly, and I couldn't

"How funny!" and Scotty jumped up from the soft rug. "Take me in to see, will Spot shook his head dolefully; he was into the hall and scratched at the study

Mr. Leslie opened it with a laugh. "Here they are again," he said to a friend who was with him; "it's quite comical to

He went to the table, on which stood a queer thing like a big trumpet. Then suddenly some one was heard singing such

"There!" cried Spot, barking excitedly,

Quite as excited as his friend, Scotty exclaimed, "Let's look!" and they both began to hunt about under the tables and chairs, behind the curtains, and Scotty

"I believe she's on the table some-

"Yes, she's in this thing. Oh, dear!"

Mr. Leslie left the room, and soon came

. "Oh, the little darlings; they don't un-back with his wife.

"that is her voice. Where can she be?"

you? Perhaps I can find her out."

the least."

find her anyhere."

watch them."

a pretty song!

"I know what it is," he said, after much she isn't using she puts into that thing."

"That's it! Now we know!" cried Scotty, glad we've found it out at last." And Elks and Elk Horns.

How many persons, among the many thousands that annually visit our zoolog-annually and renewed and well hardened

Before describing the manner in which

'horns." All the members of the deer family—the moose, caribou, elk (in Europe the animal which we call moose is known as cik), and smaller deer-possess antlers, while the appendages on the heads of goats, horns, and, with one exception-the Amer-by their owners throughout life.

sheep, cattle and the like are known as ican antelope, or prong-horn-are retained

Elk shed their antiers about February 1.

though much depends upon the locality and upon the age and health of the animal.

It often happens that one antier is carried several days after the other has been dropped. The new antlers push off the semble scars on the animal's forehead, but soon take the form of two black velvet buttons about the size of silver dollars.

As they continue to grow they gain in length only, and by July 1 they have attained their full size. If you could examine them now, you would find them soft, cased in a thick, tough skin covered with velvety fur. The antiers are now "in the velvet," as the hunters term it, a most contact with anything liable to injure

The grown-ups all laughed; but as Spot the following February. Through a -Minneapolis Tribune.

within the short period of seven months?

elk shed their antiers, I should like to explain the difference between "antiers" and ical parks, realize, as they pause to ad-combat with his rivals or enemies.-St.

Story of a Donkey.

Donkeys are almost always meek, quiet little fellows, who look as if they would stand any abuse or bad treatment, but sometimes they show that they have spirit enough. Of course, there are bad donkeys, who will kick and behave wickedly that it is a surprise to see them behave about was nearly always quiet. He was very brave also as you will see. He lived in a menageric in one of our western cities.

There were a great many savage beasts in this menagerie, and one day a fierce around to see whom she could bite, and she met this donkey, who was allowed to go loose because he would not hurt anything. She made a jump at him and took hold of him with her teeth; but the donkey was so quick and spirited that he got away from her. Then the lioness made another great spring upon, but this time Mr.

He turned his back to her, and when she came near him, he gave her a great kick with both his hind feet at once and rolled her over like a ball. She came at him again, and again, but every time his strong heels were ready for her, and every time back. At last she had enough of Mr. Donkey's kicks, and she ran away from him.

You have often heard about lions, which are so strong and courageous that they are cage when you have been taken to a wild lioness broke out of her cage.

Donkey was ready for her.

donkey could fight.

to realize it, for he is careful to avoid you have seen more of them shut up in a might result in the clk's bleeding to death could ever be conquered by a small donkey, or in his carrying a deformed antier until who had nothing to fight with but his heels.

Nichelas.

well

ran away to his dinner he shook his little process of nature the blood vessels that of the club, Wickizer, went to St. Joseph quarters and the establishment of a kitchen have fed the antlers are shut off about the middle of July, and then they begin to harden. A few weeks later the elk may be seen rubbing them against trees quiet dinner at the Millard at which most given by the club or members whenever or thrashing them about in the brush of the club members sat down. L. O. sthey wish. Additional furniture, which now while endeavoring to rid them of the velvet, and in a few days it bangs in shreds > now lord of the forest, and is ready to elected secretary to fill the vacancy. In the winter the club backed a success-first of its kind ever given here.

One of Its "Benefits." With the co-operation of the Commercial club the National Editorial association's convention was eventually definitely secured for July 8, 9 and 10, 1903. The matat any time, like some boys and girls, so ter was clinched by a trip to St. Louis playhouse for the afternoon. the brave donkey kicked her over on her theater in the summer was a big success, more than 1,500 editors from all parts of She did not know before how well a brave and every possible courtesy shown them, including a night at the Ak-Sar-Ben den critical period for the owner, who seems called the kings of beasts, and perhaps for men. Omaha got more free advertissince the Transmississippi exposition, as every delegate told about the city in his them. Should an accident happen and the beast show. But it is likely that you home paper and he was given every opportunity to see and appreciate its good points. Since the convention the club has attempted nothing out of the ordinary social taken for the women and unlimited cigars, on the second floor of the Ramge block and evenings until the production of "Toodles cars had a festal appearance. Literature, organization were moved in. The glory of night. The musical comedy was put on ways with a program to which the best directed the rehearsals and performance, musicians, singers and amateur actors of It was the most pretentious theatrical afthe city contributed. Women attended on fair the ciub ever backed.

Club as it Now Stands, if not more, than the men. Every now and In its fourth year theo flicers of the club then a well known man, a writer, a bon are as follows: President, J. D. Weaver; these shocks he adjusts himself, usually, the guise of an individual of immense or to an Omaha publication received in his the guise of an individual of immense or to an Omaha publication received in his drop in unexpectedly and enlity to make quick of the club were well known. He is not the club were well known. He is not to an Omaha publication received in his impassiveness with eyes that see when they mail a joyful poetic burst, the verses being and nights of the club were well known. He is not to an Omaha publication received in his impassiveness with eyes that see when they mail a joyful poetic burst, the verses being and nights of the club were well known. He is nown and with the ability to make quick sala nights of the club were well known. He is nown and with the ability to make quick sala nights of the club were well known. He is nown and with announcements that the gala nights of the club were well known. H. E. Newbranch, The active membership During the year the original promoter is about fifty. The new plans include larger to take a staff position on a new paper with complete cuisine equipment, so that a there. His departure was signalized by a monthly dinner can be served and dinners Simons, publisher of the Westliche Presse, includes a billiard table, typewriter, and one of the most earnest workers and couches, tables, chairs, rugs, piano, etc., is and soon disappears entirely. The elk is best membership hustlers of the club, was to be bought and more interesting pictures obtained. The picture now most valued by the club is an oil painting of O. H. Rothful exhibition and sale of newspaper art- aker, one of the most brilliant Omaha-ists' work in the club rooms, it being the newspaper men of the old days. It is by John Mulvaney. Several other paintings by J. Lawrie Wallace, Robert Gilder and others are much treasured, however.

Some Who Have Moved. Newspaper men as a class are too impatient for advancement and fame to stay long in one place if better things are offered in another and the membership of where the executive committee meeting the Press club, which more than a year was being held, by President Mediar, ago resumed its old name-the Omaha But the donkey I am going to tell you M. G. Perkins and John Utt, then Press club-is constantly changing, the persecretary - Commissioner of the Com- centage of stable members being about mercial club. To amass funds two-thirds. Considering the charter memto care for the convention and to replenish bership list at the reorganization it is inthe club treasury as well, an entertain- teresting to note the number that have ment was given at the Boyd theater on the left Omaha in the last three years. Beafternoon of February 9, 1993. Both the ginning alphabetically, John A. Ball, for-Orpheum and Boyd management and ev- merly of The Beo staff, has become aseryone connected with the houses from sistant advertising manager for the Burbox office men, orchestra to stage hands lington, George H. Carter, city editor of contributed everything they could to the the Council Bluffs Nonparell, has gone to show's success. "The Shore Acres" com- a better job in Des Moines; L. P. Covingpany, playing at the Boyd, gave a full act, ton, formerly with the News and noted for a number of Orpheum artists assisted ma- a peculiarly dry wit, is in the harness in terially and Manager Carl Reiter and other St. Paul; George M. Davis, who worked talent bearing an Omaha address did com- for the News and World-Herald, is the mendable stunts. Practically every dollar chief police reporter on the Toledo Blade; taken in was turned into the club treasury J. H. Furay, from a subordinate desk on as everyone contributed his services and the News has become night editor of the Manager Burgess simply handed over his Indianapolis Morning Star; Houston, jr., treasurer of the News, has The convention held in the Orpheum gone to Des Moines; E. O. Mayfield, the "Rex M" man on the World-Herald, has become manager of the Western Newspaper United States, with their wives, at- Union at Kansas City. H. H. Philpott has tending. They were royally entertained not left The Bee, but has become its correspondent at Lincoln; J. M. Prager, who shouldered arms in Cuba and learned about the Chinese in his native lair, has ing out of it than from any single source gone no one knows where; John Becan Ryan, one of the best known and popular commercial reporters who ever worked in Omaha, has gone to Circinnati on the staff of the Commercial-Tribune; Dana Sleeth, a gentleman of exceedingly deliberate movement, is now running a paper at some little town on the northwest coast: Albert Walkins, jr., the Beau Brummel of the profession while here, is gutting out a farm paper at Lincoln. The present attention that Frank Wickizer is giving to poultry has been mentioned. He has, however, been forgetting the chicken coops long enough to contribute an occasional story to the magazines. "Artie" Welshans, the thinnest member of the club, from last reports was enjoying the time of his life as dramatic critic for a Los Angeles paper, and Lou A. Crowell. another early member of the club, is live ing down his youth as rapidly as possible by hard newspaper work there.

Doesn't Stop the Club.

J. Laurie Wallace.

But the club keeps on. With wheelhorses like the present officers Medlar and others, it could not pass away under any circumstances, and with the new blood constantly coming in and a comfortable bank halgnee, the outlook futureward to The following have been elected honorary members of the Omaha Press club; Dr. George L. Miller, Edward Rosewater, Mai Uhl, T. W. McCullough, W. R. Watson, Benjamin B. Herbert, M. G. Perkins, G. M. Hitchcock, R. I. Metcalfe, Herbert L. Fowler, Victor Rosewater, Frank Wickissr,

FICKLE WILLIE AND THE BUNCH HE CHOSE FROM.