

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

City Hall Proposition Still Discussed by the Various Officials.

THOUGHTS TURN TO OLD HIGH SCHOOL

Connell May Appoint Committee to Begin Negotiations for the Purchase with the School Board.

Since the decision of Judge Sears in the matter of bonds for a city hall site attention has been turned to the purchase of the building now occupied by the schools at Twenty-fifth and streets. While no definite proposition has been made the school board it is thought that the property can be purchased for about $25,000. It will take about $10,000 to remodel the building and make it suitable for city hall purposes. The only way to bring about this purchase seems to be by an increase of the levy. Mayor Koutsky and Treasurer Howe seem determined to keep the 1905 levy down to the lowest notch. With the scavenger tax coming in, it is thought that possibly the levy this year might be held down to 7 mills. With the purchase of property for city purposes the levy would have to be increased and the increase would wipe out what is expected from the scavenger fund. Some of the members of the council favor appointing a committee to confer with the Board of Education with a view to ascertaining what price would be put on the property. The high school is to be moved before long to the new building at Twenty-third and J streets. It is figured that with a reasonable sum paid the school board could erect one or two grade school buildings and thus do away with the present building entirely. More than likely this matter will be taken up by the council in committee during the week and discussed.

Railroad Changes Coming Soon.

On March 1 all freight trains on the Chicago & Great Western road will be run through from Fort Dodge, Ia., to South Omaha. No stop will be made at the transfer in Council Bluffs. This change will be greatly appreciated by the packers located here, as it means a saving of from five to twelve hours in the return of empty refrigerator cars.

It also means that the freight crews working on this line will be located in South Omaha. All trains will be made up in South Omaha yard. It is expected that this plan will be adopted by other roads running into South Omaha just as soon as sufficient trackage facilities are furnished.

Retail Merchants Tonight.

This evening the members of the Retail Merchants' association will meet at Engle's hall to talk over business affairs and make further moves towards boosting South Omaha in a business way. While the directors of this association meet once a month there is a general meeting once a month. Quite a number of merchants have applied for membership and these applications will be acted on at tonight's meeting. Some matters of importance are to be considered and all members are invited to attend this meeting tonight.

Disobey Public Orders.

Two saloons were closed by the police yesterday because the proprietors did not pay sufficient attention to the orders of the police board in relation to the regulations. Herman Anger, who runs a saloon at Twenty-sixth and Q streets, was closed for keeping open after midnight Saturday. It was reported at police headquarters that Anger used insulting language to the patrolman who went in and notified him that it was past the closing time. The Bazaar saloon at Thirty-sixth and V streets is also closed pending an investigation into the cutting scrape that occurred there yesterday.

Little Stabbing Affray.

There was a little ruse among some Polish people at Bazar's saloon, Thirty-sixth and V streets, yesterday. Alexander Holkowski, who lives at Thirty-fourth and T streets, was cut twice during the fight, and one man, Mike Ukowicz, is in jail with a mark back of his name to hold for another investigation. Mike Ukowicz says that on Saturday night after the saloons closed he had a little party at his house and that the beer was flowing freely. All at once things commenced to go wrong because there was no beer in sight, the saloons being closed. A rough house followed. Yesterday when Ukowicz went to Bazar's saloon for a can of beer he was set on by some of the guests of the night before and badly beaten. The injured man is not seriously cut and Dr. Bapp, who is waiting on him, says that he will come out of it all right. The police have not been able so far to get any direct evidence as to no one.

Dyspepsia of Women

ABSOLUTELY NEEDLESS AGONY

Caused by Ulcered Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. M. Wright

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar uterine-tonic effects also.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Maggie Wright, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes: "For two years I suffered with dyspepsia which so degenerated my entire system that I was unable to attend to my daily duties. My stomach was so weak and nervous, and nothing I ate tasted good and it caused a disturbance in my stomach. I tried different dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me. I was advised to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest food. My recovery was rapid, and in two weeks I was a well woman. I have recommended it to many suffering women. No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement, or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

seems to know how the fuss started or who started the affair.

Alumni Meeting Tonight. This evening the alumni of the South Omaha High school will meet at the high school building. One of the objects of the meeting is the talking over of plans for an entertainment to be given shortly for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the alumni for the year. Some of the alumni suggest that a comedy be given, while others hold that an entertainment of the musical and literary sort will attract more people. This question will be decided at tonight's meeting and every member of the alumni is invited to be present.

Vikings Organize.

Sunday afternoon at the Workmen Temple Bazaar lodge No. 26, Independent Order of Vikings, was organized. Fred L. Pearson, grand organizer, of Chicago and Grand President Herman Carlson were present. Over half a hundred South Omaha men were initiated into the order. After the initiatory services these officers were elected for the local lodge: Edward Sodenberg, president; Alexander Dahlgren, vice president; Albert Petersen, financial secretary; G. Anderson, recording secretary; Nils Farnquist, treasurer. Swan Larson of this city was elected grand deputy organizer for Nebraska.

Magie City Gossip.

J. M. Fowler, city jailer, is again laid up with the grip. P. J. Connors is anxious to succeed Patrick Hanigan as chairman of the democratic city central committee. Dr. T. H. Ennor has returned from El Paso, where he has been looking after business matters for about three months. Luke Brennan is here from South Dakota, where he has taken up a residence. Brennan was formerly a member of the South Omaha police. The South Omaha fire department was called to Twenty-seventh and A streets yesterday afternoon to put out a blaze started in a vacant building.

TALES OF EARLY WYOMING

Former Clerk of an Indian Agency Recalls Session with Cowboys and a Massacre.

Captain W. E. Ashbrook of Millersport, O., was in the city Sunday on his return from a trip through the west in the interest of a colonization scheme in the new irrigation districts. "I intended to go up into the central Wyoming country," he said, "but was prevented from doing so by press of other business. I had one experience up there at the town of Glen Rock a few years ago that makes me a little shaky of striking that section in a dull season. A good many years ago, in the '90s, I was a clerk at the Indian agency at Deer Creek, now called Glen Rock, and I went up there in 1902 on a vacation visit to see if anything was left of the old trading post. I intended to stay a couple of weeks, but stayed only two days. Might have stayed longer but my wife was with me. It happened this way: "When I arrived at Glen Rock I naturally asked for a good hotel. The one that was recommended to me was run by an old gentleman and his wife who had lived in the country many years. I was glad to stop with them, as I expected to profit by his experience and knowledge of the country in enabling me to find some of the old landmarks about Deer Creek. It happened that at the time of our arrival there had been some trouble with the employees of the A-Bar sheep ranch and the boys having been discharged, and paid off by the ranch boss had gathered at Glen Rock for a time. They were all on a good-natured drunk and were painting the town all sorts of red. Having nowhere else to go they were all quartered at the hotel at which I was to stay. Well, they just simply ran things their own way, particularly at meal times. "I could stand their picking the meat out of the platter with their fingers, but I had to draw the line at their drinking out of the coffee pot and cream pitcher, and it was when they began to bombard me with biscuits because I declined to take my coffee half whiskey, which they generously and generously insisted on contrasting from their bottles. The landlady hinted that the boys meant no harm and that they were all right; it was just a way they had for a little fun. But you see, I didn't know how soon the gun play would begin, and as my wife was ready to go, we decided to move out while we could until that region became less strenuous. "Glen Rock, or Deer Creek Station, as it was formerly known," continued Mr. Ashbrook, "was one of the most interesting points on the old Overland trail. One of the bloodiest tragedies of the west occurred there. I think in 1863 or 1864. A Mormon emigrant train was waylaid there and a dozen or more of the party killed, the rest being taken to Horse Shoe Station, where a body of troops was stationed. The bodies of the dead were horribly mutilated and the station house burned. One or two of the women were captured and, after suffering untold tortures, were killed and scalped. A baby scarcely more than a year old was impaled on the sharp end of a tree a few feet from the ground and left there to perish. That it suffered intensely was shown by the agonizing expression of its features and contorted limbs when for a few moments of soldiers the following day. All else that happened about there was the smoking ruins of the station and the mutilated bodies of the dead emigrants."

HOW TO KEEP INDIANS SOBER

Old-Timer in Oklahoma Says Saloon Owners Must Be Routed Up and Punished.

"It makes me weary to hear the stories told here in Omaha of the impossibility of stopping the sale of liquor to Indians on the Winnebago and Omaha reservations," said David Ammendown of Hobart, Okl., at the federal building Saturday. "I have lived on the reservation for the past forty years and know the saloons, and the government has succeeded in preventing the sale of liquor to Indians there. "In the Oklahoma rush in 1902 I was at the town of Chickasha, L. T., during about all the time of the rush. That town was right on the edge of the Kiowa and Comanche reserve that was being thrown open, and it was next to impossible for a white man to get a drink there of anything but spy water. No man dared to try to sell or give a drop of liquor to Indians, and the town was full of Indians all the time, as was the town of El Reno. It was a little different at El Reno, for that town was in Oklahoma Territory, and there were no restrictions regarding the sale of liquor to white men there, but no one ever thought of undertaking to sell or give a drop of liquor to Indians. I never saw a drunken Indian in the Indian Territory. "The trouble with you fellows up here is that there is too big a thing in the sale of liquor to Indians and there is too strong an influence interested in its sale to them to try to stop it. Let after a few more of these saloon keepers and owners and waiters, the men that run them, and you will soon break up the sale of liquor on the Indian reservations in Nebraska. The bootleggers would soon have nothing to do if you only keep on getting after the right parties, the fellows that put up the money to run the saloons."

Burglars on Walnut Hill.

Burglars broke into the grocery store of A. K. Nuckolls & Co., at Fortieth and Cumming streets, Saturday night and secured $200 in cash and a quantity of cigars and smoking tobacco and canned goods. Only $1 in cash was in the cash drawer and they took that. Entrance was effected by breaking through a window in the rear of the store. The robbery was not discovered until noon Sunday.

RANGERS OPEN IN DENVER

First Game to Be Played in the Colorado City on April 26.

AT HOME JULY 4 FOR DOUBLE-HEADER

Manager Rourke Expected Home from Chicago Today and May Bring with Him the Flag Won by Omaha.

The Omaha base ball team will open the season at Denver on April 26, according to the schedule adopted at the spring meeting of the Western League, held at the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago Saturday. The Rangers will play two games on Decoration day at Sioux City and on July 4 will meet the Sioux on Vinton street in a double-header. Des Moines will open at home with Colorado Springs and Sioux City opens on their new grounds with the Saints. Manager Rourke of the Omaha team is expected home from Chicago today. It is expected he will bring back the pennant that was won last season by the Rangers and officially awarded at the annual meeting of the league here recently, but which emblem of victory the members of the team have not seen. The flag will soon be floating from the pole at Vinton street. Manager Rourke has also been arranging for the new uniforms while in the Windy City. If the present weather continues a number of the Omaha players and other base ball men who have been wintering here expect to begin to work out at the Vinton street grounds this week or as soon as the ground will permit. "Butch" Freese is having a cage made for his monkey, which will be taken on the first trip of the Rangers to the west. If the simian proves a hoodoo he will be killed.

INDOOR CIRCUS OPENS TONIGHT

A Pleasing and Novel Entertainment for Winter Will Be Presented at the Auditorium.

Shipp's indoor circus, which is just closing a winter tour of the leading cities of the country, will open at the Auditorium tonight. This will be the first real indoor circus ever seen in Omaha and judging from the press notices which this show has received in other cities it will score a big success before the week ends. The performance is an entertainment selected by Mr. Shipp from the great summer circus organizations and are said to be the very finest in their various lines of circus entertainment that the country affords. The trained horses, and other animals capable of performing entertaining stunts, carried by this show, are not to be excelled in the world, while the clowns—and what would a show do without clowns—are famous for their fun-producing ability. The boxes will be filled tonight by society and prominent people of Omaha, as the sale on Saturday plainly indicated. The prices of seats for this show are within the reach of all, and a large attendance may be reasonably anticipated.

Announcements of the Theaters.

The first joint work of George Ade and Gustave Lueders, the Korean comic opera, "The Sho-Gun," will be Henry W. Savage's offering at the Boyd for two organizations commencing Tuesday. A matinee will be given on Wednesday. For almost six months the "Sho-Gun" has been the attraction at Wallack's theater, New York, and the critics in endorsing it said it was the most beautifully staged production had yet given to the American stage. The book is brilliant and the score is one of the most exquisite things Mr. Lueders has yet done. A cast of rare worth has all along interpreted the different roles and those who will be seen here will include John S. Henshaw, Christie MacDonald, William C. Weeden, Agnes Crane Brown, Thomas C. Leary, May Ten Broeck, Edward Martindell, Henry Taylor, E. P. Parsons and one of the largest, prettiest and best drilled choruses ever organized.

Arrangements for a memorial service in honor of the late Councilman R. W. Dyball in the council chamber at the city hall will probably be made by the members of that body this morning. It has been proposed that the eight associates of the Seventh ward councilman, who died Saturday afternoon after a long sickness, act as pallbearers at the funeral. This will be under the direction of the Masonic order and likely at their temple Tuesday afternoon. The council chamber will be draped in mourning and the ordinary usages will govern in expressing the esteem and respect in which the city government held the late councilman.

Vaudeville at the Creighton-Orpheum.

The Orpheum road show has the stage at the local Orpheum house for the week and it was given a most enthusiastic welcome yesterday. Seven good acts make up the offering. Probably the most interesting in the lot is that of the Four Hards, who do some really wonderful feats with astonishing ease and cleverness. These agile young athletes are certainly entitled to their place at the head of the acrobatic procession. Harry Smiri and Rose Kosmer present a combination act; he does some difficult and gracefully executed tumbling, while she does some whirlwind dancing, and they conclude it with a little comedy stunt in which a clever poodle dog figures. The Madcap, novelty dancers, are well known here. So is Charlie Vance, and she is popular. Miss Vance made a decided hit yesterday with her songs. Spessard's bears and ponies are another novelty. Seven well trained bears and two ponies make up the act, and some interesting results are achieved by the four-legged performers. The Latonas mingle some good music with some laughable comedy, and McIntyre and Heath, locally popular for lo, these many years, offer one of the favorite sketches, "The Man from Montana." This is still a cause for laughter. For the latter half of the week they will present "The Georgia Minstrels."
