AT SHIPP'S INDOOR CIRCUS All the Features but the Palm Lenf Fan of the Big Shows of the Summer.

It may seem hard at first to reconcile the months of February and March with sawdust rings, gally caparisoned horses, to make up a modern circus, yet Edward Shipp and the members of his indoor circus are on the books to effect such a reconciliation in Omaha before the week is over. The Shipp circus opened a week's engagement at the Auditorium last evening to a rather meager crowd, which is not unusual on the first night of attractions of this nature. The performance is meritorious About 8 o'clock Saturday evening Mr. for the greater part it compares well with the acts seen in the large canvas-covered exhibitions that come in the summer time,

HOUSES ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

for First-Class and Medium Properties.

Never in the history of Omaha has there sen such urgent demand for rental propreal estate men with scarcely an exception at the meeting next Monday night. He has hidden himself so thoroughly that have been practically overwhelmed with applications for houses of the medium rental grades. It is almost an impossibility to supply the demand for six and were to have been married next week, seven-room houses. The demand for eight and nine-room houses is almost as great, and now they will not be used. He was so and as one real estate man puts it: "The jealous. An extra matinee will be given at the Orpheum this afternoon. The demand for seats for the Orpheum show has been the largest that has ever been experienced at the popular vaudeville house, and so many have been turned away at each performance the management decided to give this extra performance to accommodate the great demand. The show has made an excellent impression and is enthusiastically received.

"The Sho-Gun," the Corean comic opera by George Ade and Gustav Luders, presented by Henry W. Savage, with John E. Henshaw and Christie McDonald, W. C. Weeden and Agnes Crane Browne, and others as well known and popular in the cast, will be the attraction at the Boyd theater tonight and Wednesday night and at a special matinee, Wednesday. After this comes "Raffles," with Kyris Bellew in the main part. Mr. Bellew has a strong character study in the role of the gentle-manly burglar, and is assisted by the eminent E. M. Holland, who gives an equally interesting and brilliant study in the role of the detective. The dates are Friday and Saturday evenings and a matinee on Saturday.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

City Hall Proposition is Coming to Front Stronger Than Ever.

NEW PETITION FOR SPECIAL ELECTION OUT

Mayor Koutsky and Colonel Watkins at Work on Call for Submission of Proposition to Vote at April Election.

A number of people, headed by Mayor Koutsky and assisted by J. B. Watkins, are funny clowns and the other things that go circulating another petition asking the council to call an election to vote bonds for a city hall. It is given out that this new petition will be without a flaw and that all of the signatures will be able to pass muster. In the decision given by Judge Sears he found that about twenty-three property owners were lacking. Some of those who signed the petitions forgot that their property was in the names of their wives or other relatives and consequently the petition was declared void.

The intention seems to be to induce the people of South Omaha to purchase a site for a city hall building at either Twentyfourth and O streets or at Twenty-fifth and O streets. Mayor Koutsky is to be called upon to issue a proclamation for a bond election for the purpose of selecting a site and erecting a city hall build-This election, so it is claimed, will be held at the same time that the school board election is held in April.

Hauffaire Changes Front, Some time ago Henry Hauflaire served notice on the city council that he wanted paid places. $2,000 damages for falling on a sidewalk that was alleged to be defective. City Atthe walks and put an agent on the case. He reported to the mayor and council that Hauffaire had no case against the city. Hauflaire turns about and brings an action against the city in Justice Caldwell's court

School Board Meeting. A short session of the Board of Education was held last night and but little business was transacted. William Rawley was employed to check the books of the board and for this work he will be paid $50. It was decided that the annex school at Twenty-sixth and M streets would not be moved until vacation. During the vacation period the building will be moved to a site recently purchased at Twenty-third and R streets. There was no talk at the meeting last night about the opening of the new high school building. This matter was deferred for a week.

No Council Meeting. While there was no meeting of the city council last night the regular monthly bills came in just the same. For the month of February the police force cost the taxpayers $1,192, and the fire department $840. Salaries for city officials went to the same old figure, $2,200. All of the bills and claims so far filed for February will be audited erties as during the past few days. The during the week and will be passed upon Paper Files Deed. August and Elizabeth Papez filed with the city clerk yesterday deeds to the property at the southwest corner of Twentyfifth and L streets. This ground was purchased for fire hall purposes. With the filing of a deed the request was made that pleted the fire and water committee of the to put up a substantial fire hall.

Should Lay Gas Pipes. In all ordinary cases where paving is for properties of all classes. Among the to be laid some effort is made to have corroborate these statements are the Mc- paving of Missouri avenue there should naturally be the laying of gas pipes. This matter was brought up yesterday at the city hall and the suggestion made that the attention of the gas company to this matter in order that mains be laid before the pavement is laid. By putting down water, sewer and gas pipes before there there is a great saving to the city on account of making repairs to pavement torn up for service connections.

New Building Started. The construction of a brick building at Iwenty-sixth and O streets was started yesterday. The Jetter Brewing company purchased this site some months ago. Excavating was about completed when the cold weather set in. Now this digging out of dirt has ended the laying of the foundation for a substantial building will start. This building is to be used by the brewing company and will be one of the most substantial structures in the city. .a oquartersaincecmfwevbgkq hrdiuaroi

SLATE IS LIKELY TO SMASH County Commissioners May Have Look Up New List of Employes Today. There is just a possibility that there will "something doing" when the board of county commissioners meets this morning. This is the date set for the new county officers to assume the duties of their positions. As noted in The Bee a day or two ago several men who were on the slate will not accept the places to which they were appointed. In addition, a late development makes almost certain that the position of deputy auditor, for which D. M. Haverly was named, will go to someone else. At first Mr. Haverly was in doubt as to coming in from Denver to take the place. His friends so stated to members of the county board. During the last few days these friends have been notified to write Mr. Haverly that the board will make other arrangements.

Just what these are no one is willing to say in advance of the action contemplated. A change can be made by the old combination of Kennard and McDonald with Hofeldt, the democrat; but some different line-up of the commissioners is looked for. There are three places in sight to be filled-deputy auditor, assistant auditor and engineer. In the jockeying for these places it is not likely that a new combination may be sprung for some of the better

All is quiet on the surface, and the commissioners are keeping mum; still it is torney Lambert had photographs taken of quite noticeable that none of the slate appointees have been in to get posted on their prospective duties. And it is not altogether a wild guess that they feel none too sure of the permanency of the slate put through a republican board with the vote of the lone democrat thereon.

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. J. Benson. During the last conversation I had with Mrs. Benson she said to me: "Do you know this high thinking is going to do wonders for this world? Every good thought goes to build up character." And certainly her own life was a beautiful illustration of what it can do, I will give you an example of her true, faithful friendship. A bicyclist ran into Mr. Benson one day, knocking him down and hurting him very badly. Some one called in the store and told Mrs. Benson. It was a certain young woman (one who was not even riding a wheel) that she rode right on without stopping to find out the extent of his injuries. To which Mrs. Benson replied: "That alone would convince me it was not Miss -... She is too polite for that. Had he been a perfect stranger she would have stopped and offered to do some-thing for him."

With my experience as matron at the city jail I know in nine cases out of ten young woman would have been arrested, with all the notoriety such cases have, whether or not she proved herself innocent. Many people would have thought her guilty. Whereas, in this case she didn't have to appear even in her own defense. Again, in a conversation with a woman (a non-resident of Omaha), who employs a great deal of help, in speaking of them, said: "I consider them nothing more than a lot of cattle." Mrs. Benson's reply was:

consider my help my capital."

KATHARINE W. STILLWELL. WILLARD EVERETT

Popular Advertising Expert Forms a New Alliance.

Willard Everett has formed a connection with the firm of George Batten Co., advertising agents, 38 Park Row, New York. This alliance means much to newspapers and advertisers-to advertisers, as it strengthens the hands of a firm already strong and well established-that has grown steadily and strongly from a very modest beginning in 1891 to a position in the very first rank of advertising firms, and especially in the high character of business conducted, as well as for business methods and straightforward dealings.

The growth of their business is the best proof of their ability, as the majority of the large advertising accounts handled grew from small appropriations and grew One of the best known newspaper managers said of Mr. Everett in a recent interview: "There is no man in the United States that knows the daily newspapers better than Willard Everett-or knows what he wants and how to get it-can make a closer deal, and yet who is more popular with publishers and their representatives, because, close, shrewd as he is, he plays a fair game and is always ready to give the other fellows a square deal." In this opinion newspaper men will uniersally agree.

Mr. Everett has had a training and ex perience that makes him especially valuable to the customers of his firm-trained in the office of the Boston Herald, and for years manager of its advertising depart ment. Some of the most successful advertisers owe their start in the right direction very largely to his timely suggestions. His success with the advertising campaigns conducted by him are too well known to need mention here.

MMB. TALE

An Enemy to Human Ugliness. If you see a throng of women making a direct line for the Boston store do not lump at too hasty conclusions. They are not in quest of bargains; no indeed, for a far mightier subject than dry goods is on their minds. Mme. Yale is to lecture at Boyd's opera house on March 10 and all the ladies in Omaha, or the great majority of them, are trying to get ahead of each other in securing the best seats, so as not to miss the precious words that fall from the ruby lips of the "Queen of Beauty." If Mme. Yale's rules are followed a homely woman will soon be a curtosity. The Yale beauty craze is sweeping the earth of human ugliness like a challenger of evil. Woe betide the pimple, freckle or blackhead found on Milady's damask cheek or aristocratic nose once a Yale remedy has been applied. In a recent interview Mme. Yale said with considerable vehemence: "I hate disfiguring blemishes on a woman's face with all the intensity of my nature. I mean to rid all womankind of such humiliation." Ladies, do not miss hearing Mme Yale's lecture.

Never has the capacity of the Young Woman's Christian association rooms been tested and found so utterly inadequate as on last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Kelly gave "Shamrocks" as one of the numbers of the association's regular entertainment course. In "Shamrocks" Mr. Kelly has arranged the choicest bits of Iriah legendary lore, literature and song into three cycles, and with the assistance of his wife gives them a charming setting of music. The association rooms were crowded with members last night, who listened with the deepest interest to the recital of the story and the singing of the music and poetry of Ireland, and evinced their satisfaction by the most enthusiastic of applause.

In a letter concerning the announcements of the executive committee of the General Federation Mrs. Decker urges the women to support their own state federation organs, or the papers in whose club columns the announcements are regularly contributed by the executive. She say in part:

The choice of a medium of communication by the board is a necessity, if the work of the General Federation is to count in the next year and a half. For one reason (and perhaps the principal one), it will greatly save expense. For instance, a committee—let us say on arrangements for the council meeting in June—makes its report. How shall we reach the great mass of club women with that report? If the corresponding secretary sends it from her office it is not only an unwarranted tax upon fire time and strength, but the printing and postage bill greatly depletes the treasury. This is true of all reports and circulars. Many of these, through the organ, are distributed to the local magazines without expense to the General Federation, and in that way it is hoped to reach individual members. This would be too expensive a process for the General Federation to undertake in any other manner.

In order to build the General Federation solidily and vitally, there must be interest in the work of the standing committees, and duplication of those committees in the state federations. The suggestion has been made, in fact, that the state federations be asked to create their standing committees after the exact pattern of the General Federation standing committees. Then there would be harmonious work all along the line.

If the General Federation is to accomplish its great mission, there must be knowlegde of the personnel and plans of its officers; there must be study of the

If the General Federation is to accomplish its great mission, there must be knowlegde of the personnel and pians of its officers; there must be study of the work of its standing committees; there must-be constant touch with its slightest motion—above all, here must be the esprit de corps, the loyalty and abiding faith and co-operation which animates an army. We believe this would be the case now, only for the fact that the club women of the country lack knowledge of our work. The General Federation is something unreal to many of them, far off and intangible. In visiting federations, that attitude is very marked. Many members have never even heard of the insignia of the General Federation. Many have no idea of the history of the organization, its objects, its ideals. To bring about this welding of the individual members of the individual club with the great organization it is necessary to spread far and wide the news of the plans and purposes of the General Federation. The presidents and leaders in the work will generally take the club magazine, but that does not reach the foundation of the movement. Suppose only one woman in twenty-five took a daily paper in your state, how much diffusion of knowledge would there be, how much progress, how much keeping step with the world forces?

The women of the federated clubs in America can become the great civic, social and moral force of the century; but to do this, true organization must be the watchword. Each member of the smallest and most remote club should study carefully the great organization; and the best and most remote club should study carefully the great organization; and the best and most efficient aid in this acquiring of knowledge will be the respective club magazines.
