At the Chicago meeting, President O'Nell was ordered to have a pennant made, to cost not less than 1990, which emblem of last season's victory will be raised at Vinton street on Monday. May 5, with due ceremony, part of which will be a speech by the mayor. The flug is expected here before long. It will bear the inscription. "Western League Champions, 1901." Manager Bourke ma arranged for the new uniforms for the approaching season. The new garments will be an improvement over those of last season, particularly in the trimmings.

SURPRISE IN PANAMA CASE

Railroad Acted as Agent of Canal Commission in Buying Supplies.

NEW RULE BY THE CHIEF ENGINEER

Witness Before House Committee Says that Cost is Increased by Change in Specifications for Lumber.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.-After declaring its investigation of the Panama Canal Railroad company closed last week the special subcommittee from the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today struck a new lead, which was pursued with igor, in an examination of Vice President E. A. Drake and Alfred Anderson, purchasing agent of the road. It developed that for six months, beginning early in May of last year, the railroad company had acted as the purchasing agent for the Isthmian canal commission, and that a total of $215,000 worth of supplies had been purchased in this manner without public advertisement for bids.

This is regarded as a violation of para graph 4 of President Roosevelt's letter of instructions to the commission, under date of May 9, 1904, which makes it the duty of the commission "to make and cause to be executed, after due advertisement, all necessary contracts for any and all kinds of engineering and construction works."

In detailing to the committee how it hap pened that the railroad had made purchases for the commission Mr. Drake said that shortly after the railroad property was transferred, or after the stock had been acquired and just prior to the transfer of the road to the government, General Davis and Major Brooke required certain supplies for which they made requisition on Admira Walker, chairman of the commission.

Not Emergency Material. "The chairman had recently been elected director," he continued, "and was at the office, and with the general idea that the railroad was about to perome a part of the government's property he availed himself of its facilities for purchasing supplies." "These were called emergency materfals?" queried Mr. Townsend. "At that time they were not," answered Mr. Drake who then gave a detailed account of the class of supplies purchased, a large part of which was lumber. A hurry order from General Davis for various utensils as a special order was

In making these purchases the officers of the road followed the practice which always had been pursued, namely, asking bids by letter from several firms. In this case a list of eighty-seven firms was made up from a much larger list of firms and all supplies bought were from these firms. In emergency cases no bids whatever were asked. The first $18,000 worth of supplies were paid for directly by the railroad, after which the commission paid

While no instructions were received for the purchase of supplies from any particular firms from members of the canal ommission. Mr. Drake said that the list of firms from which bids were asked was increased largely by application of others who said they had been told by members of the commission to apply. Asked what members had made such suggestions, he mentioned Commissioners Grunsky, Harrod and Hecker.
