Some years ago Herman Goedde, a German farmer of Sloux county, died, leaving a quarter section of land and but two heirs, Albert Goedde and Marie Hilden, both of Germany, a brother and sister. To them his property was bequeathed. But here came Nebraska law and the German heirs had to obey its mandates. They employed Allen G. Fisher of Chadron as their attorney, giving over to him full charge of the case and agreeing to pay him all over $1,000 which the land brought through the appraisement. The board of appraisers was appointed. The land was valued at $1,500. In 1901 Fisher filed his claim for $3,000 with the legislature, which the legislature promptly rejected. With this claim were the napers in the case, certified to by the district clerk in Sloux county, showing a purported appraisement fixing the value at that figure. In 1903 Fisher filed his claim again and again the legislature rejected it. $10,000. ### Affidavits in Case.

While the legislature rejected both the former claims, the question of the disparity between the genuine appraisement and that submitted in the Fisher claims never was raised until this session, when an attorney in the western end of the state informed the claims committee. The committee immediately began to look into the matter. It has before it the affidavits of the three members of the Board of Appraisement which fixed the value on this property in the first place, setting forth that the gen-

Mr. Balley then called up his resolution relating to statehood. He said that if satisfied that the resolution would adopted he would not discuss it, but this proposition was met with sharp refusal by Mr. Blackburn. "The senators may as well understand now that the senate is not ready to vote on it." He explained that the reason why this is true is found in the fact that the senate is not in possession of the papers in the case, the bill being in conference.

Mr. Balley contended that the senate is in position to act. Explaining his res-olution, he said the effect would be to admit Oklahoma and Indian Territory as states and to eliminate New Mexico, and Arizona from the bill. Mr. Balley said that he did not believe in filibustering except under very grave circumstances, and he confessed to great impatience with any democratic senator who would fillbuster against a proposition to permit 1.500,000 people to govern themselves, as is the case in Oklahoma and Indian Territory. He spoke of Mr. Blackburn's previous remark as a threat. He expressed the opinion that the joint statehood bill would pass at the next session. No action was taken on the resolution and at 11:10 p. m. the senate adjourned . until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

INAUGURAL CROWD IS ON HAND

Trains to Washington Loaded with People Who Are Interested.

WASHINGTON, March 2 .-- All the incom ing trains today brought in large crowds of inaugural visitors. The hotel lobbies are crowded and the streets are filled with the strangers. Governor Blanchard and staff of Louisiana, were among the noteworthy arrivals today, and numerous civic organizations came on the afternoon trains. The committee on street decorations is working hard to put the finishing touches on its elaborate scheme to embellish the line of parade and the "court of history" into which the plaza in front of the White House, Treasury and State. War and Navy buildings has been transformed in almost complete. The snow which fell has practically disappeared from Pennsylvania avenue, on which the troops and civic organizations will parade, and the reviewing stands erected along the line on both sides of the route of march are in readiness. The Rough Riders' organization held a meeting today at which virtually all of the thirty or more members were present and arranged for a drill held this afternoon at Fort Myer, across the Potomac river from this city, the idea being to train the mounts to be used by the Rough Riders in the parade. There will be thirty or more of these men to escort the president and they will be headed by former Governor Brodie.

Several of the Rough Riders were introduced to the president today by Colonel Brodie. They are inclined to be facetious over the assignment to them of artillery horses to ride in the parade. They wish now they had brought their own ponies with them as Captain Seth Bullock and his band of cowboys did.
