REAL ESTATE MEN DINE

Members and Guests Spend Pleasant Hours Around Banquet Board.

GOOD SPEECHES AND SOME CLEVER FUN

Post-Prandial Program Includes a Number of Stunts that Make Real Hits with the Assembly.

The Omaha Real Estate exchange had a dinner last night. Most of the members of the exchange dined nightly, but only once a year do they get together and eat with so much ceremony. The Commercial club was the place and it has seldom seen such a continuous performance of mixed stunts. The Bible, ancient history, the civic administration and all of the ancient and honorable, and the new and up-to-date prophecies and authorities were appealed to and quoted and burlesqued to make a real estate men's holiday. The result was certainly the greatest of the dinners given by the exchange.

The transfer of food from the Commercial club to the real estate men began at about 7 o'clock. A tip had been circulated that the dinner was to begin at 6:30 o'clock, so that the bunch by doing the early bird act for some half an hour caught an excellent appetite. It is safe to say the same number of men—which was, by the way, ninety-seven—has seldom carried more appetite into the dining room of the club. From the breakfast, when the raw oyster got lemon juice in the eye, to the frolicked cigars, which immediately preceded a sweet tempered plethora, the dinner never had a show and was put through its courses and knocked down and thrown in without any excitement.

Start of the Real Thing.

The tranquility of the feast was fractured shortly after the oysters by an unbidden guest in the person of Patrolman Ring, who pounced down on A. P. Tukey in the net of giving way to his habit of eating things, and carried him off under his (Ring's) arm. D. C. Patterson in a trembling voice told the old, old story of how Mr. Tukey had had a $10 lot ten miles from the postoffice and how the city had put down a $5 permanent sidewalk and how Mr. Tukey, considering the city had confiscated his property, had not kept the permanent sidewalk clear of snow. The question of improvement clubs was favorably discussed and the club proposes to take the initiative in the matter at once. After the regular business session an hour was spent in a general talk for the good of the district, which was participated in by all the members.

MELLIN'S
For the Baby

Many of your neighbors have used Mellin's Food for their children. Ask them what they think of it; look at their children and see the result of using a proper food. Mellin's Food will give the same good results if you will use it with your baby. Send for a sample, we will send it free of charge.

Mellin's Food is the ONLY Infant Food, which received the Grand Prize, the highest award for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904. Higher than a gold medal.

MELLIN'S FOOD CO., BOSTON, MASS.

besought them to do all they could in the coming year, which was in effect to be a stemwinder.

Following President Wallace and Dr. J. W. Conley of the First Baptist church, who explained very pleasantly and without any sharpness of manner how the real estate man could become a better man by becoming a Christian. This he thought possible. "Religion and Real Estate" was his subject. At odd times between speeches Dr. Z. D. Clark played camp meeting songs on his banjo and sang them heartily. H. F. Dalley admitted he had fallen into an agreement to make a toast, while he was, to use his own words, "knocked off his feet by seeing a real estate man refuse money." He told some funny stories.

Had Fun with the Council.

By way of amusing themselves the real estate men burlesqued the august body known as the city council. They approved an ordinance appropriating $30,000 from the scavenger law proceeds to pay sidewalk inspectors without a murmur, but there was a lot of discussion on the proposition of vacating Parnum street to the Standard Oil company. Messrs. Mitten, Morton, Graham, Payne, Hastings, Patterson, Gates, Spaulding, Bostwick and others are in hiding today from the real councilmen, and especially Dave O'Brien, who was present and heard it all, but was too much of a gentleman to shoot. W. L. Selby made everybody laugh over the effects of the dinner with some poetry which he made himself about an epitaph over the graves of the real estate men who did business during the boom. A. G. Charlton did a historical stunt in which he began with the first transaction wherein Abraham bought a family burying ground for 40 shekels through Jefferson's first addition to the United States to the present time. He is a good real estate historian. E. A. Benson closed the program with an oration on "Omaha Fifty Years Old." He very eloquently contrasted the advancement made by Nebraska in thirty-three years with that made by England in 1500. He also pointed out the moral duty of the Omaha citizen to make great his city.

OMAHA VIEW IMPROVERS OUT

Spring Sunshine Revives Club and it Resumes Business at the Old Stand.

The Omaha View Improvement club is starting out on the spring campaign with the liveliest kind of vigor and intends doing things. Six new members were taken in at the meeting of the club last night, and a stimulus was given the meeting by a smoker and other refreshments, with candy predominating.

The committee on street improvements reported that during the winter the streets looked fairly well under their covering of snow, but the thawing weather had again uncovered the holes and showed the leaky conditions of the sidewalks. However, a number of much needed street crossings have been put in, for which the district is very grateful to the powers that be, and the hope was fervently expressed that the good work would be continued.

A. F. Wilson, a new member, was added to the sidewalk committee, and William Schneckenberger, another new member, was added to the light committee.

The present membership of the club now exceeds sixty, and the membership is constantly increasing as a result of extending the limits of the district. Street matters were again talked over, and the determination of the club to secure the Harney street extension from Parker to Maple street on Thirty-third street is still manifest, and its agitation will continue until it is accomplished.

An invitation was extended to Comptroller Loback and Councilman Evans to attend the next meeting of the club. The question of the reconstitution of the Federation of Improvement Clubs was favorably discussed and the club proposes to take the initiative in the matter at once. After the regular business session an hour was spent in a general talk for the good of the district, which was participated in by all the members.

STOCK YARDS AS A TEXT BOOK

University of Nebraska Boys Take Special Course in Live Stock.

PRACTICAL SIDE OF THE BUSINESS

Methods of Handling Animals Observed at First Hand, While Professor Smith Gives Interesting Lecture on the Subject.

Two hundred and fifty-seven students of the Agricultural school of the University of Nebraska made a tour of the South Omaha stock yards and packing plants yesterday. Prof. H. R. Smith, professor of husbandry, was in charge of the party. Immediately on arrival at the stock yards the party was divided into four squads and under direction of guides furnished by the stock yards company made a tour of the yards and packing plants. The first visit was to the several packing plants, to watch the various processes of getting the stock in readiness for the killers. The stock exchange building was visited and the methods of buying and selling live stock ascertained from a practical standpoint. Each of the parties made the tour of the yards independently and was shown every courtesy by the stock yards people and the packers, the visitors being given every possible facility for the practical study of the marketing and killing of live stock.

Cattle in a Stock Pen.

At 11 o'clock the parties gathered at the stock pens to listen to a lecture on judging cattle by Prof. Smith. A particular pen of steers was selected and the poorest steer of the bunch was picked out to illustrate its different points and the methods of feed and care of range cattle from the range to the feed lot and to the price it should bring as a fattened steer in the stock yards. The same rule was followed with reference to hogs and sheep, the yards being well filled and arrangements constantly arriving. A number of shippers were also present in the yards and took a lively interest in the visitors, giving them much instructive information regarding the care of live stock in shipment.

The boys on leaving the various plants gave the university yell and added a complimentary yell for the various plants and stock yards.

Special Killing and Lunch.

A special killing program was given for the benefit of the visitors at the Swift plant and at 1:30 the party was entertained at luncheon at the Exchange hotel by the stock yards company. Here again the university yell was in evidence.

After luncheon the party was given liberty to follow individual inclinations, most of them coming up to Omaha to visit the various points of interest in the city, among which was the Bee building.

The students returned to Lincoln via the Burlington at 9 o'clock last evening.

FIXING UP FOR "PARSIFAL"

Changes Being Made at Auditorium to Accommodate the Big Conried Company.

Manager Gillan of the Auditorium is busy with a stage crew in preparing for "Parsifal." The scene plot has been forwarded by the company, together with small working models of the cyclorama. The cyclorama consists of two rollers the height of the stage almost, and one placed on each side in the wings. The scenery revolves around these as the music drama progresses. Some heavy support will have to be provided for them. This will be the most difficult part of the preparatory work. The proscenium arch will be covered with metal lath and plastered, and the seats will be removed at the rear and sides of the stage. Much of the work done will be of a permanent nature. The management of the Conried company says there is no stage in New York City as large as that of the Auditorium.
