JURY LISTENING TO ORATORY

Evidence in Von Haller Murder Trial Has All Been Put In.

Careful Review of Stories of Witnesses from Prosecution's Standpoint, Followed by Mr. Shoemaker for the Defense.

At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon the atdenly announced that they would rest on the showing made. The arguments were at once proceeded with.

Assistant County Attorney Murdock opened for the state. He had for an audience about two score women, who were seated inside the rail, and outside was a crowd of disengaged jurors and curious citizens who were anticipating a fine flow of oratory. Mr. Murdock's paraphernalia was the bunch of exhibits which have been introduced during the trial-two guns, a blood-stained shirt and two pictures of Oak Chatham station. He took the time from 2 to 4 o'clock in a conversational review of the evidence which the jury has been listening to with close attention for the past ten days. This finished, and every person's testimony having been reviewed from the state's standpoint, the assistant county attorney entered upon an analysis in a general way-first a course dinner of tidbits of evidence, as it were, then a square meal for good measure. There was no way for the jury to dodge it, however.

And all this time Mr. Shoemaker, who was to follow for the defense, was, like a restless war horse, impatiently controlling his disposition to slide in a contradiction. With bridle off, or rather with bellyband loosened, he nervously toyed with the sheets on which he had made his notes and which seemed to promise a formidable onslaught when the order should be given to charge. He was allowed to get into action at 4:30 and for twenty-five minutes went along at a good rate, but was hardly properly started when adjournment was taken at 5 until 9 a. m. today.

The promise now is that the addresses to the jury will be finished some time today. In that case the jury will be able to retire for consideration before evening.

More Experts Called.

Drs. F. E. Coulter and S. K. Spalding were both called by the county attorney Thursday morning to rebut the testimony of Dr. Singer, given Wednesday. Both men are neurologists of wide reading and the lay mind, was not different from that of Dr. Singer. Given certain conditionsepilepsy and its effects-and dismissing from consideration parts of the evidence, their answers were what would logically be expected-insanity, unconsciousness of right or wrong. Given certain other conditionsfor instance, heavy drinking and a quarrelsome disposition - their answers leaned strongly to conscious action and drunken fury. All the questions and answers were but repetitions or modifications of these principal deductions.

WCMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

A motion for the appropriation of $6 for the purchase of hymn books to be used at the gospel services at the county jail, at ATTORNEY MURDOCK OPENS FOR STATE | Wednesday afternoon's meeting of the local FOULS FIGURE LARGELY IN THE RESULT Women's Christian Temperance union, brought out a prolonged discussion and incidentally the fact that at least some members of the union feel that the Ministerial union has hardly given them the hearty co-operation that one Christian organization has a right to expect of another. For some time the Women's Christian Temperance union women who conduct the gospel torneys for the state and the defense sud- services at the county jail have been seriously handicapped by the lack of hymn books and when, several weeks ago, during a revival, fifty-four-of the prisoners rose in the meeting and asked for prayer and a number of others expressed a desire to lead Christian lives, the women thought the work warranted at least the equipment of hymn books that is the customary accompaniment of gospel services. Accordingly one of their number went to the Ministerial association and laid the case before the members and asking for books -even the cast-aside books from their churches. The ministers acknowledged the necessity, but, although that was several weeks ago, only three hymn books have materialized and while these are appreclated, they are sample copies of the edition of a collection that is not generally known, and there being but three copies, they are of little use. The $6 was voted and will pay for fifty copies, the books to be the union's Easter gift to the men in the jail.

Miss Magee's quarterly report from the Tenth Street City mission indicates that none of the assistance given that worthy institution has been amiss. The Sunday school is prosperous, with an average attendance of forty children. The industrial classes supported by the union have been largely attended, the attendance ranging from 54 to 89. The work in wood carving has proven a very satisfactory and profitable attraction for the boys, a number of whom have attained a degree of proficiency that may be turned to account. One of the high school manual training students is now instructing them in the wood work and in a few weeks there is to be an exhibition of their work. The attendance at the temperance classes ranges from forty to fifty girls and from ten to twenty-five boys.

Miss Magee also gave an interesting account of the meetings held at the mission during the union revival services a few weeks ago. Provision had been made by the ministers for every other part of the extensive experience. Their testimony, to city excepting the Third ward, and Miss Magee's request that that, too, might be included was not favorably received; the ministers had all they could attend to in the churches uptown. Unwilling to be put off, because of the great need, she finally asked that if there were no ministers available, were there not some Christians who might be sent down to help her. This brought the promise of help and at the close of the revivals the mission stood next to the top of the list in the whole city in the number of conversions. There were twenty-six in all and of this number, all of whom have been kept track of as far as possible, only four have gone back to the dissipation and the lives they promised to give up, and even these four are still coming into the services.

OMAHA GIRLS BEAT HASKELL

Indian Maidens Lose Exciting Game of Basket Ball by Close Score.

Visitors Complain of Referee's Persistence in Holding Them to Rules and Suffer from Lack of Team Work.

In a fast game full of exciting incidents the Omaha Young Women's Christian association basket ball girls won from the Indian maidens of Kansas in Germania hall last night by a score of 28 to 24. It was hard fought from start to finish, and never for an instant until time was called did the victory belong to either side. Omaha secured the lead early in the first half, but twice in the second half Haskell gained until within only two points of tying the

Miss Marshell threw from the foul line for Omaha and seldom did she miss a goal, Miss Baker did wonders in working the ball down the field to her home goal. She had much the advantage of her opponent in size, and was able to get the ball away from her at the center position. According to Haskell's captain the team has not had much practice together, but the handling of the ball by two of them, Miss Roberts and Miss Waukon, showed that they, at least, knew each other well, Haskell's team has reason to be proud of their work, even though they lost

Many Fouls Called. Fouls were frequent and the Indian girls were somewhat dissatisfied with Referee Miller's decisions. Mr. Miller called fouls on the Omaha girls just as often, however, and he explained their frequency by the fact that he had determined to abide strictly by the set of rules on which the captains had agreed and which said "grasping the clothing or person of the player with the hands or putting one or both arms about the player shall be called holding."

Haskell threw the first goal on a foul. Omaha threw her first goal from the foul line. Haskell fouled, Miss Marshell missed goal and Miss Baker pushed the ball into the basket. Then it was foul and foul, first on one team and then on the other, with Omaha slightly in the lead. After the middle of the half there were fewer bad plays and both sides did good team work. Time was called with the score 13 to 10 in Omaha's favor.

The second half was watched with breathless interest. The ball went swiftly up and down the floor, dropping first in one basket and then in the other. The Indians played much more surely than before and Omaha was nerved to do her best in order Each of her players was a star. Miss Baker and Miss Mathis did excellent work together, the former tossing the ball clear across the field to the other. But they were pressed so hard by the Indians. that the spectators breathed a sigh of relief when time was called.

Mrs. Johnson Paid $15 for a Mystic Message and Was Persuaded Into Bellef that Her Husband Had On the association alleys last night the Stock Yards team won three games from the Woodmen of the World. Of the Woodmen team only Johnson and Yates were present, outside parties rolling in place of the missing players and taking their averages for the season for each game. This accounts for the same score in each game for three men. Brunke swelled his average with a 658 total and Francisco pulled up a notch with 623. Score; Been Murdered.

The body of Iver Johnson, who was drowned last October in a lake in Holt county while hunting in a boat with Scotty Balfour, has been exhumed from its resting place in Forest Lawn cemetery and taken to a local undertaking establishment. This was done in order that the widow might disabuse her mind of the idea that her husband met with violence at the lake, in stead of being drowned as reported. The remains have been placed back in the grave and Mrs. Johnson now says the upshot of the whole matter was the result of an influence wielded over her by a clairvoyan named Carrie Smith.

When the body was removed from the grave Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Johnson called on Coroner Brailey and asked him as county coroner to order a post-mortem ex-..901 909 881 2,691 amination, which the coroner explained be could not do, as the case is out of his jurisdiction, the drowning having occurred in Holt county.
