WOMAN IN AFFAIR ATTEMPTS SUICIDE After Taking Large Dose of Poison She Confesses that Her Testimony Against Defendant Was Perjured. NORFOLK, Neb., March 17 .- (Special Telegram)-Sensations which rival the days of dramatic intensity which held sway at Bonesteel, S. D., during the rush days to the Rosebud have seized upon that town today as the result of a lawsuit growing out of a scandal in "high society" in which David Watkins, a young attorney, has been held to the circuit court in the sum of $500. As a result of the trial, which has held the boards at Bonesteel for more than a week and which was attended by crowds of several hundred eager auditors each day, there were threats to do violence to Judge Howles, who presided. "With this record behind it, the railroad lobby will start next week to concentrate practically its entire energies on the one bill remaining in which it is interested. Its efforts are henceforth to be directed to pushing through the senate H. R. 255, the bridge bill presented in the interests of the Lumber trust. It has been epigrammatically said, 'The same fence runs around line elevator and lumber yard,' and it might truthfully have been added that the fence was built by the railroad magnates and encloses their property.

Exact Limit of Tribute.

"In Nebraska, for the purposes of public plunder, the railroads and line lumber and elevator interests are combined. The interest of one is the interest of all, and the purpose of the combine is to exact from the people of Nebraska, producers and connumers alike, every penny of tribute that the traffic will bear.

"This gigantic monopoly of allied interests is already milking the state to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in the way of freight rates, low price of grain and extortionate charges for lumber. But there remains one great source of illegitimate profit which has thus far largely escaped its greed. This is the bridge business of Nebraska. The average rate of profit exacted by the line lumber yards runs, as is well known, into exorbitant figures. The average amount of money put into wooden bridges in Nebraska ever, year runs about $750,000. Very little of this money is spent with the line lumber yards, for the reason that such concerns as the Standard Bridge company is furnished bridge lumber direct from the mills for yards "This, in a nutshell, is the fight on H. R. 255, and this is the problem which will confront the Nebraska state senate next week. Pushing the bill will be found the powerful lobby of the allied railroads, together with all the influence that can be brought to bear by the grain and lumber magnates. Opposing the measure are the county commissioners of every county in Nebraska, few of whom have come to Lincoln to enter their individual protests against this blow at local self-government in the interests of a greedy monopoly. I am leading the opposition, however, of the Standard Bridge company because I am fighting for my right

PAPILLION, Neb., March 17.-(Special.) The case of Rapp against Sarpy County for damages was tried in the district court Monday and was given to the jury that evening. After being out all night a verdict for $200 was brought in for the plaintiff. This case was tried at the last term of the district court and a verdict for the Fifth, Edwin Bates, J. E. Jones and Claud county was rendered. It was carried to the supreme court, which reversed and remanded the case and the present trial was the rehearing on the decision of the supreme court. This is the case wherein Sophia Rapp sued the county for $5,000 dam ages sustained, it is alleged, by her being thrown from a wagon, laying the accident to the impassable condition of the road near the Rock Island railroad near Richfield. When the claim was presented to the county board Attorney Patrick advised them to settle for $300, which they refused to do. The verdict just rendered is for that amount and does not compel the county to pay all costs.
