NORWAY, SWEDEN AND DENMARK

CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE

Volume of Business for the Week Heavier

Than Generally Expected. PRICES FIRM ON NEARLY ALL LINES

ralk in Congress of Placing Tax or Coffee and Tea Having Some Effect Upon the Market, the Proposed Measure Gaining Friends.

Trade conditions in Omaha and tributary territory were again very satisfactory last week. The weather was about as favorable as could be expected for March and in Omaha rotaliers all enjoyed a liberal patronage. Out through the country the demand for spring lines was also quite brisk, in spite of the fact that roads in many sections have been in bad condition. So far as the wholesale trade is concerned, local jobbers all agreed that it was better than usual at this season of the year and far ahead of their expectations. The demand for spring lines with them is holding on much later than usual, and as it has been heavy all the season the volume of business transacted has been far ahead of any previous spring. That being the situation, wholesalers are naturally well pleased, and with anything like mormal weather from now they believe that merchants will find their present stocks inadequate and filling in orders.

In a number of lines jobbers have all-ready started out their travelling salesmen, with fall samples, and those who have been heard from have been meeting with exceptionally good success. There is no mistaking the fact that there is a general feeling of confidence in future business which will take something very unusual to disturb. All classes of people are prespectors, which means that they have money to spend and that they will spend it.

Aside from the line of groceries, which have fluctuated about the usual amount, there have been practically no important price changes on lines handled by Omahin Jobbers. Values, though, are on a good firm foundation, with every indication pointing to strong healthy markets for an indefinite period.

Collections are reported as being very satisfactory.

Collections are reported as being very satisfactory. Advance in Sugar Predicted. Wholesale grocers report the market on refined sugars as being in just about the same position it was a week ago. Raws have fuctuated a little, however, and the market now seems to be in good shape, with no prospect of lower prices. In fact the impression prevails among well posted market now seems to be in good shape, with no prospect of lower prices. In fact the impression prevails among well posted operators that a higher market will be experienced in the near future, or, in other words, as soon as the demand sets in.

The coffee market has also improved a little since last report. Present prices are from 15 to 25 points higher than they were a week ago. The talk in congress of an import duty on coffee is also having some effect upon the market. It is generally understood that many who at first opposed the proposition to lax coffee are gradually changing their position. Those who are favoring the measure argue that it will not only produce a nice revenue which will go a long way toward making up the present deficit in the treasury, but that it will benefit our island possessions and particularly Porto Rice, as there would be no tax on coffees coming from Porto Rico or the Philippines. It is claimed that in time the Philippines islands can be made to produce large quantities of coffee and the correctness of that statement is affoat: No. 1 northern Dublut, $1.055, t. o. b. affoat: No. 1 northern Dublut, $1.255, t. o. b. affoat: No. 1 northern Dublut, $1.255, t. o. b. affoat: No. 1 northern Dublut, $1.255, t. o. b. affoat: No. 1 northern Dublut, $1.255, t. o. b.

made to produce large quantities of coffee and the correctness of that statement is and the correctness of that statement is to be investigated.

As an indication of the revenue that might be expected from a tax on coffee, statistics show that before congress repealed the tax on coffee in 1871 the United States was deriving a revenue of about $8,000,000 from the coffee imported from Brazil. As soon as congress removed the duty the Brazilian government immediately placed an export duty on coffees and transferred that yearly income of $8,000,000 to her own trensury, thus leaving the price of coffee to the American consumer the same as before. Since 1871 it is figured that the United States has lost $304,869,852 in revenue, while the Brazilian trade balance against the United States during that period has aggregated $1,328,167,570. It is further argued that France has an import duty of 18 cents per pound. Italy almost as much and Germany 5 cents per pound. England Austria and nearly all other European countries derive large revenues, while the United States, which is the largest coffee consuming country in the world, derives not a cent from it. consuming country in the world, derives not a cent from it.

This movement for taxing coffee is still in embryonic form, but at the same time it has its effect upon the market. If coffee is taxed tea in all probability will also have a tax on it and bulls on the tax market. tax on it and bulls on the tea market are taxed tes in all probability will also have a tax on it and bulls on the tea market are using that possibility to some extent.

The cheese market is still advancing, owing to the fact that stocks are well cleaned up. Brick cheese is also reported as being scarce and prices have advanced before or pound.

In the canned goods market a much healthier feeling is noticeable on corn and tomatoes. The demand is much better than it has been and best posted buyers believe that stocks in packers' hands will be well cleaned up within the next forty-five days. When that time comes a considerably higher market is expected. Both jobbers and retailers are still indifferent as to future corn, owing to the fact that spot stock can be bought for less money than futures. As a consequence trading is nearly at a standstill. If jobbers continue to pursue this policy of holding off on futures it will necessarily bring about a reduction in the acreage of corn and a corresponding shrinkage in the pack. For this reason jobbers say that retailers should keep in close touch with the situation, and if there is no change before it is too late to plant it will be a good time to make liberal contracts. The crop last season turned out to be a phenomenal one, in that many fields produced twice an ordinary yield. Those packers who carried over corn from the previous season were given a very severe lesson.

There is very little change in other lines of canned goods, but the movement of goods is very satisfactory.

The demand for dried fruits is also better than for some time past, but the market is without material change. A growing disposition is noticeable, however, to advance the price of evaporated apples because of the small amount of stock available.

Other staple lines of groceries are selling in just about the same notches they were available.

Other staple lines of groceries are selling in just about the same notches they were a week ago, but the fish market is very firm, with the demand heavy for even this season of the year. More dry goods buyers arrived in the city last week than were expected, and as a result local jobbers enjoyed a good house trade. For the time of year the demand was exceptionally heavy. Orders demand was exceptionally heavy. Orders from traveling salesmen and also those direct from merchants were of liberal proportions, so that the total sales were far neavier than anticipated. Taking the spring season as a whole, lobbers find that their sales have gone far ahead of last year and of all previous years, and they also say that prospects for the future are brighter than ever. Traveling men who are carrying fall specialties have met with good success so far and confidently expect to go better than they did a year age. According to reports given by merchants who were in the city last week, trade out through the country has been very satisfactory so far. The weather has not been far from normal, and in fact, has been better in many respects than had it been warmer. If it comes off toe warm the tendency is for people to overlook the lines intended for early spring, and buy summer goods, but with weather such as has been experienced so far the early spring goods sell well and the lighter weight goods will move in turn.

sell well and the lighter weight goods was move in turn.

There is nothing particularly new to be said of the dry goods market. Both cotton and woolen goods are in very much the same position they were a week ago, and as before stated through these columns those who are in a position to know are not looking for any very radical changes for some time to come.

Hardware Active and Firm.

Hardware Active and Firm.

for some time to come.

Hardware Active and Firm.

Local hardware jobbers experienced a lively demand for all staple and seasonable lines last week. There is to be a large amount of building done this spring throughout the territory tributary to lius market, which, of course, creates a big demand for all kinds of builders' hardware. But everything in the way of staple and seasonable lines is selling about as rapidly as jobbers can fill the orders, so that they are well satisfied with existing conditions.

There have been no market changes on staple lines of hardware during the week under review. The advance on black sheets announced a week ago is being well maintained, but galvanized from has not vet responded to the advance. Jobbers say that they have been selling immense quantities of galvanized from during the last few days in anticipation of an advance, but it has not yet maioralized. The general market is in a good strong position and owing to the enormous demand all over the country jobbers look for prices to retain their strength for some time to come.

Starting After Fall Business.

Leather goods men have started their traveling salesmen out in search of fall business. There is, of course, some spring business still in sight, but the big majority of merchants have bought enough stock to last them for the immediate present. Traveling men have not had their fall samples long enough to make a test of the situation, but they confidently expect to do a nice business from the start.

A few orders for rubbers are still being received from merchants who wish to take advantage of present prices, but there are comparatively few who have not long since placed their orders. There is no doubt in the minds of jobbers but what the advance of 5 per cent will go into effect April 1, and consequently merchants who put off buying until after that date will have to pay 5 per cent more for their stocks than did their competitors. Starting After Fall Business.

LONDON, March 25 .- (Special Cablegram to The Rec.)-The reports published in cussion of appendicitis by the Royal Medcal and Chirurgical society, make clear everal interesting points about the dread disease. Sir Frederick Treves. Mr. Charters Symonds, Mr. Pearse Gould and other eminent surgeons who took part in the discussion, were generally agreed as to the desirability of immediate resort to the knife when the diagnosis is definite.
