He is certainly entitled to success and profit, particularly when it is necessary to maintain large, well-equipped laboratories, invest large capital and pay large sala-ries to expert chemists, bacteriologists, physicians and surgeons.

There is no guesswork about the making of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The formula is exact; so much of this root; so much of that bark; so much menstruum-all must be kept at the boiling point for a certain number of hours. The materials must

On the other hand there are many, many remedies originally prescribed by some widely-practiced physician which were finally put up in a form to be easily procured at the drug store, which our mothers and their mothers before them have always used in the family and carried us all through our infantile sickness, and later in life, when we knew what we needed and easily obtained it without the advice of a physician, who is some-times difficult and expensive to see.

in response to a call issued by A. H Murdock, chairman of the republican city central committee, about 200 men and women gathered at Workmen temple last night to lister to talks about School board The three republican candidates Morrill, Laverty and Curtis, occupied seats on the platform along with C. M. Rich, E.

R. Leigh and H. C. Murphy. All of the candidates were called upon for remarks by Chairman Murdock and they talked in the same strain, to the effect that if the people of South Omaha wanted the present business methods continued in the conduct of affairs of the school district the republican candidates should be elected. Mr. Murdock stated there was no factional fight on at the present time and that the best interests of the people could served by re-electing Mr. Morrill and Laverty and the election of Dr. Cur-When called upon, H. C. Murphy went into details to some extent and declared that the present republican board had made many changes for the better as compared with former democratic boards and he urged that every citizen who had the interests of the schools in mind vote for the three republican candidates. When called upon for talks the three candidates told where they stood. They declared themselves as against yearly exsminations, holding that after a teache passes the examination as given here and so long as she does good work and is

The candidates further declared they make no promises except to treat every-Large Crowd Attends Republican Mass one fairly and to conduct the affairs of the school district honorably and economically employe who is doing good, honest work needs to be afraid of being dismissed.

Some figures were presented to those present showing the economy practiced by the present board and the statement was made that the school district is now out of debt and is on a cash basis. Employes are paid by the city treasurer as soon as warrants are presented and in this way interest on warrants, which formerly drew per cent, has been cut off.

Those who attended the meeting were impressed with the showing made by the republican candidates.

That the people of this city have not forgotten the reforms brought about by the present Board of Education, and the change to business methods they have made, is very evident by the encourage ment the republican candidates are receiving in their campaign. The contrast between the affairs of the board in the past and the methods employed now under the vigorous policy inaugurated by Messrs. Morrill and Laverty is apparent. "If Morrill and Laverty have done nothing else than clean things up and stop grafting." said a prominent citizen yesterday, they would be entitled to re-election, but the fairness and strict business methods which have characterized the board during the last year is not even denied by the opposing forces and the citizens of this city are going to indorse them on April 4." Dr. Curtis' well known ability as an educator has added greatly to his strength and his friends are making a vigorous campaign in his behalf. The fact that he has been a teacher himself, that he is in close fouch with educational matters and withal an energetic, capable gentleman and that he stands pledged to the Morrill-Laverty policy ensures his election. Owing to an urgent demand made by the public to be given a voice in the selecion of a city hall building site, should the bonds carry, the city council has provided that ballots giving a list of sites be prepared and that each voter at the election on April 4 be given a chance to express an opinion. In the resolution passed by the council Monday night the mayor and council express a willingness to purchase a site receiving the highest numer of votes, "providing it can be bought for a reasonable sum." This specification holds good in the second and third choices. Just what a reasonable sum is the council is left to decide. The information leaked out yesterday afternoon that no matter what the people voted on for a site that, should the bonds carry the site at Twenty-fourth and O streets would be purchased. Considerable opposition is being manifested to the increasing of the bonded debt of the city at the present time and this opposition may lead the defeat of both the city hall and park bonds.

Official Ballots Ready. Big bundles of official ballots, to be used at the election on April 4, have been delivered at the city hall. The printer has prepared 7,500 official ballots and the same imber of sample ballots. Last fall the registration was 4.542, but the vote was not up to the registration. People who are looking into the matter declare that the vote this spring will be light. The maximum vote is given at 2,000 and the minimum at 1,200. Clerk Gillin is arranging the ballots for each voting precinct in the city according to the registartion of last fall. Judges and clerks of election will be required to fill out a blank with the vote for school board, the bond and park propositions and the vote on city hall sites and get this blank to the office of the city clerk as soon as possible after

LECTURES OF LAST NIGHT

Five Speakers Address as Many Audiences on Different Topics.

CONDITIONS IN MANY COUNTRIES TOLD

Ireland, England, France, Cuba, Iowa and Omaha Contribute to the Symposium of Information and Description.

Rev. Alexander Corkey of Fairfield, Ia., pastor of the Collegiate Presbyterian church delivered a lecture in the Immanuel Baptist church last evening on the subject of "The Truth About Ireland; or, The Land of the Shamrock." Mr. Corkey was born and educated in Ireland and is full of interesting information concerning his subject, and was able by his lively sympathy and animated displays of genuine wit and good nature to hold the attention of his audience to the last.

Mr. Corkey gave informing descriptions of the topography, scenery, people, history and of the present political situation of his native country, and illuminated the nore serious portions of his lecture by numerous anecdotes. He said that what may be called the Gladstone idea of home rule had grown upon the understanding of both the Irish and the English people, and that everything indicates that this idea will be carried out at no distant day. He attributed this to the growing sentiment of friendliness on the part of the English people for the well-being and prosperity of the Irish people, and to the fact that there is now a better understanding on the part of both as to what s involved in home rule.

He claimed that the majority in the House of Commons under Gladstone in favor of home rule has been substantially maintained to the present time, although what is familiarly known as the Irish question has not been kept to the front so distinctly as it was during Gladstone's time. He said the question is coming to the front again and under much more favorable conditions. He pointed out that the general condition of the Irish people is now such as to excite confidence in the moderation and stability of their political expectations. He spoke entertainingly of the industries, the literature of Ireland and, without respect to creed, the deep hold religion has upon the peo-

Chancellor Huntington's Lecture. Rev. D. W. C. Huntington, chancellor of the Wesleyan Methodist Episcopal university of University Place, Neb., lectured last evening at the Walnut Hill Methodist Episcopal church before a large audience inder the auspices of the Epworth League of that church on the subject of his travels through England and Europe.

The lecture was opened with brief devotional services, after which Chancellor Huntington told an instructive and interesting story of the sights and scenes incident to a European tour.

He told of the wonderful character of the great port of Liverpool and its tremendous importance in the commercial world. Then followed a sketch of the trip through historic England to the world's metropolis of London and the many objects of interest there. From London he took his hearers in fancy to the continent, through France, gay and glorious Paris, and thence to picturesque Switzerland and its beauty of mountain scenery, lakes, cantons and cities. The lecture throughout was a narrative of the most entertaining character, told by a careful and intelligent observer, giving many new conceptions of continental travel not found in the prosaic books of travel. Many interesting lessons deed from the quaint characteris tics of the people of the various countries with profit in America. There were, too, many features brought out regarding the people of Europe that were not so worthy of emulation, but which might, on the other hand, find profitable emulation from American standards

he said:

We have not passed into the life of filial sons of God; we have only come so far to the state of fear. We have not reached the baptism of love but we may be trusted for we fear. There will come a reaction, though, and we will learn the brightest things in life come from the love of God. He is God the Father, and His whole thought is of eternal love and we, His children, some time will come to a knowledge of this, which will be the strongest inspiration of our lives. There is inspiration in the idea of the unity of mankind as His children which some time will sink deep into our hearts and make us say, "What wilt Thou?"

Mr. Cathell went into the history of his

Mr. Cathell went into the history of his state and told how in 1850 there were but 193 churches, worth only $165,000; while now there are 5,804 churches and 4,792 chapels, which are not yet self-supporting. These, said Mr. Cathell, have a membership of 749,518, and the property is valued at $37,-000,000. Annually $5,440,000 is paid to Iowa ministers and $904,000 to missionaries. He concluded:

"Where people put treasure, there their hearts. God has endowed us with a large vein of humor and, inferentially this is not all gone. There must be humor in God as He glances at the American peo ple-absolutely wrapped up in money getting, yet the largest part of what they make goes back to the altar of God. Indeed, we are lead to say, 'What hath God wrought?'

John Steele on Cuba. John Steele addressed the Men's club of the Second Presbyterian church Tuesday night on the subject of his experience and observations in Cuba during a visit to that island last winter. Most of his remarks were on Havana, which, thanks to General Wood and the American gov ernment, is for the first time in 300 years a clean city. "It is remarkably, faultlessly clean," said Mr. Steele. "General Wood had a giant task of cleaning it out, but now it stays pelled by the United States to keep it in is now kept at our office, so those who good condition. It is taken far out into the harbor on boats and thrown overboard. Before Leonard Wood took charge of Havana the air was filled with buzzards, but none are there now." "In Havana the women never go to funerals. Even the men can send substitutes if they so desire. If one wants to pay his respects to the dead he can either attend the funeral himself or pay a man to mourn in his stead. Mr. Steele had the privilege of witnessing the services over the body of a rich Cuban. Several men rode on top of the hearse and one was astride of each horse which drew it. Church images were fastened at various places on the hearsc. A long train of nourners followed. The greatness of a man's wealth is measured to the world by the size and splendor of his funeral. "The lower classes of the population hate the Americans," said Mr. Steele. "It is because they are put under too much restraint by the American government. They are compelled to keep the streets clean and they are kept in paths of civil rectitude by 1,300 policemen. They are used to doing as they please and they don't like this. The Spanish and the better

Wallace on Mortgages.

George Wallace delivered an interesting talk in the lecture room of the Young Men's Christian association last evening on the practical questions relating to the investment of savings in mortgages, the purpose being to enlarge the information of those who do not have exact knowledge of the business and legal conditions attending the prudent disposition of savings in this manner. He said it was the duty of all persons to inform themselves accurately on this subject as this would go very far towards preventing misunderstandings, imprudent investments and litigation. He gave a detailed account of the various steps attending investments by mortgage, and pointed out that the acuiring of accurate knowledge of the subject by both old and young people would lead to the cultivation of a discriminating judgment of values and business opportunities. The lecture was well attended and excited much interest.

Finest. The light was turned on in the Auditorium last night. The electricians wished to see if their work had been rightly done and the management of the great house wished to see what the effect would be, Both were satisfied. The scenery for the production of "Parsifal" came in last night at 10 o'clock and the stage hands worked all night in getting the new stage ready for its first production. The rigging is complete, the curtain is ready-everything is done that can be except the placing of the scenery.

The Auditorium has never looked onehalf so well as it does now. The balcony is draped in green and buff, with decorative coats-of-arms. Fifty American ensigns are nung from the girders and bunting is draped around the walls. The balcony supports are draped with green buriap and bear golden lion's heads. The lights are shaded with red, and the whole effect is quite finished and pleasing.
