He made the statement that he hoped the legislature would never pass the bill. He did not believe in it even when it provided for an appropriation

In the final debate this afternoon McLeod of Stanton, Burns of Lancaster and Jackson of Antelope led in opposing the bill, while Perry of Furnas, Ernst of Johnson and Junkin of Gosper championed the bill.

The opponents argued that to vote bonds in any sum exceeding $100,000 would be unconstitutional, while the friends of the bill placed against this the argument that the bill would provide one of the best sources of income to the state and be a vast saving to the farmers in the matter of buying
