It is the intention of the Lehmers to make their locality one of the best feeding cattle lots in this section of the country. ### Y. W. C. A. CHANGES ITS BASIS

Votes to Reorganize Along the American Committee Line.

BALLOT OVERWHELMINGLY FOR CHANGE

Meeting of Intense Interest, at Which Only the Intrusion of a Monse Causes a Ripple of Excitement.

In spite of dire predictions and an opposition that has included some of the foremost women and men of the city, the local Young Women's Christian association, at its twelfth annual meeting, held last even ing, reorganized on the evangelical basis to effiliate with the American committee, by a rote of 219 to 5. Twelve years ago the association was organized on an independent, ionsectarian basis and was yesterday the largest independent organization of its kind. in America and the seventh in point of size among all the associations. Three weeks ago the board of directors issued a recommendation to the active nembership that they amend the constitution to limit the voting and executive privi-leges to members of Protestant evangelical churches, the change to in no wise affect active members already in the association er to deprive associate members of any of the association privileges excepting the two named. Eight years ago a similar change was proposed and defeated, and this time the recommendation met with opposition that promised to defeat it a second time. Not a word of opposition was spoken at last evening's meeting, and but five negative rotes were cast, and except for the intrusion of a mouse in the midst of an address by the general secretary of the American committee, the meeting was devoid of Interest Shown by Attendance, The attendance was unprecedented. The udfence room being entirely inadequate the dining rooms were used and entirely illed, the members attending whether they were eligible to vote or not. Though the meeting was called for 8 o'clock the hallway was filled by 7:30 with members waiting to be admitted. The women were admitted by nembership card only, the active or voting nembers occupying one part of the rooms and the associate membership the other. At getting into the possession of some one the last minute it was discovered by a score or more that they were only associate me.nbers and so were not entitled to a vote, and this helped to convince many that there has been no distinction among members.

The meeting opened with a brief devotional service, led by Miss McElroy, state secretary of the Iowa association. W. P. Harford, president, presided during the business session. That there might be ample time for the paramount business of the evening, all reports were ordered placed on file except the treasurer's, which showed some interesting facts. The year's receipts from the lunch room amounted to $14.867, and the disbursements for the same $12,929. The total receipts of the association amount to $18,408, and the total disbursements $18,766

Presenting the Amendment.

Then came the dreaded amendment, moved by Mrs. J. H. Dumont, but when the discussion was called for none came. Mrs. Harford urged that someone say something and after a long silence Mrs. G. W. Tilden was requested to speak. One after another five members presented the advantages to be desired through the the matter be presented from the other side, no one spoke. Finally Miss Taylor, general seretary of the American committee, was requested to address the meetdruggists who keep liquor in their store. advantages. In the midst of this the dreaded outburst came, but scarcely as was expected. At first there was a stir at the rear of the room and whispered ejaculations increased to a flutter and then to a commotion. Someone near the door suggested in an audible whisper that somebody bring some water. Miss Taylor stopped speaking, but the amused look or the chairman's face allayed further excite ment as she said, addressing the disturbed section: "Yes, it is all very womanly," and then to the others, "There seems to be a mouse in the rear of the room." Finally the vote was called for and while the tellers were out the house elected the following board members, who will elect the officers:

For three years: Mrs. W. P. Harford Mrs. George Tilden, Mrs. Andrew Traynor, Mrs. G. W. Garloch and Miss Fannie Cole. For two years: Miss Belle McCullough. Then came the report of the tellers. Although there had been no audible opposition, it was feared in the vote and when the announcement was made 219 for reorganization and 5 against, the younger members burst into applause and the rooms rang with the association yell.

On Wheels Again.

The Auditorium roller rink reopened last night with a good attendance. There will be no interruption in the skating for about two weeks, during which time several special events will be put on. There will be a backward skating race on Wednesday night of this week, an obstacle race on Friday night, and next week there will be a ontest in plain and fancy skating and a costume skate, with prizes for the prettiest make-up for both women and gentlemen.

FIRE AND POLICE MATTERS Dr. Miller Suggests that Worn Out Fire Horses Be Pensioned or Oslerized.

It was reported to the Fire and Police nmission at its meeting last evening that "McKinley," one of the horses of the fire department, had been sold by the city for $95. The horse was badly "stove up" after the continuous service of nine years. He is 16 years old. "Was his condition very bad?" inquired

"He was no longer in condition for service in the department," replied Commissioner Broatch

Dr. Miller.

"I am president of the Humane society, replied Dr. Miller, "and I thought possibly his condition deserved investigation Anyhow, I often think that after a horse has given faithful service to the public during his best years, he deserves to be pensioned and taken care of. I have thought that in such cases it would be an act of mercy to chloroform the faithful brutes rather than run the risk of them who would not treat them properly."

The resignations of F. L. McClure and Luther Countryman of hook and ladder company No. 4, were accepted. Fred Hayman was appointed on fifty days' trial to succeed Countryman. The resignation of W. S. Rous, special officer of the Humane society, was accepted. Thomas W. Mitchell and Roscoe Conkling were placed on the reserve list of the fire department. Richard Collins was placed on the police

Emory Smith, a colored police officer was given a hearing on charges of assault and battery, drunkenness and using profane language, preferred by George L. Elliott, an expressman, who lives at the corner of Twentieth and Vinton streets. There was a great deal of swearing that the charges were true and a great deal more swearing on the other side that Smith was a good officer and in nowise gullty of any one of the charges. The board heard all the testimony, and after a deliberation announced few minutes through Acting Mayor Zimman that the evidence was not deemed sufficient to sustain the charges.

Bills were approved in the aggregate sum change and though the chair urged that of $1,259.58, one item being $548 for placing in complete repair La France engine No.

Girl on Trial.

Judge Day put in Monday morning hearing testimony in the case of State against Emma Karnes for incorrigibility. Mrs. Towle, assistant probation officer; Mrs. Nellie Stuart, Mrs. Almira Greer and Anna Naslund, a 12-year-old girl, all gave testimony as to certain things Miss Karnes had told them concerning her relations with a certain man in South Omaha. For the defense the parents and several neighbors and Emma Karnes testified. Alleged admissions of the defendant were the only thing against her, and when she went on the stand she said that what she had all was in fun. The man in the case also denied the damaging story told.

Judge Day did not give his decision at once, as he said he desired to talk with the parents of the girl before taking action.

Regarding the installation of some seventytwo hydrants previously ordered in by th ouncil, the same reply was vouchsafed. It has not been resumed this spring. Member Hipple has also conferred with City Engineer Rosewater regarding requests for new hydrants and mains at Fort Omaha and other places. The grounds of the old fort are piped, but the mains are only three inches in diameter, not enough to afford adequate fire protection, it is declared. The army authorities want larger mains and at least three large hydrants. The city engineer has recommended these improvements be made in view of the exensive improvements at the fort and th ocation of a signal corps there. Arguing Injunction Case.

The arguments in the case of the Omaha Water company and the water board of the city of Omaha were resumed before Judge Munger in the United States circuit court yesterday morning. John L. Webster, for the water board, concluded his argument about 11 o'clock. He maintained that the rates as originally establihed by the council in its contract with the water company could be changed in the future if they were found to be extortionate. He held further that it was not within the power of the city council to make unalterable rates by ordinance. Hence for this reason it had the directionary power to change them. R. S. Hall for the water company after citing numerous authorities said in effect that the "contract of ac-ceptance was the ordinance, it be-ing a part of the contract and effect that the embodied in the contract. This contract was for twenty-five years. If we did not comply with the contract with the city our plant should be forfeited. The city had the right to fix the rate and has exhausted that right if it has once fixed that rate by contract. The water plant was built under a contract with the city that it should have certain rights and privileges for twentyfive years. The municipality had full power to make that contract. The terms were as binding upon the municipality as upon us. The city accepted as a part of our bid ordinances 423 and 430 and they were made parts of that contract, which include the rates and agreements made in section 19 of ordinance 423. Hence we maintain that a change of rates to even private consumers cannot be made until the contract has expired which created the water

Life of the Contract.

Under the argument that the rates to private consumers cannot be changed until the expiration of the contract, as maintained by Mr. Hall, there yet remains three years for the contract to run. The ordinance establishing the water works was passed in 1880, and the contract was to continue for twenty-five years from the completion of the works and their acceptance under the ordinance, which was in

Mr. Hall finished his argument at 3 clock, still maintaining that the ordinance n which the water rates were originally fixed was an essential part of the contract. The proposition was the city's, and not that of the water company, hence the city could not in justice or fairness ask an annulment of the contract. The contract is not a perpetual one, but continued only for twenty-five years.

Judge Munger asked the attorneys to furnish him a list of their authorities, and he will take the case under advisement. 'I want," he said. "to get the case out of the way next week at the farthest."
