willing to place their orders at an entry date. There have been very few market changes during the week under review. Even graceries have remained unusually steady. There was a feeling of firmness on nearly all chasses of goods, and those who are in a position to know seem to thick that there is no reason why good healthy markets should not be experienced for some time to come. Collections are reported as being in very satisfactory condition for this time of year.

Sugar Market Steady.

Sugar Market Steady. Wholesale grocers report the demand for their time of goods as being tul, as good as usual and up to their expectations. There is no special reature to the trade, the demand being general for all skiple and seasonable lines. The market has not changed much since last report. The demand for sugar is reported as being on the increase, as would naturally be ex-pected at this season of the year, but there has been no quotable change in the market during the week either on raws of relined.

market ouring the week either on raws or relined. The market on syrups broke rather un-expectedly last week, the decide amount-ing to noout 35 cents per dozen on ten-pound tins. Jobbers are rather at a loss to understand the cause of the decide, as the corn market has shown exceptional attempts for the last few days. The gen-eral impression is that some trade condi-tion outside of the market is responsible for the reduction in prices. The spot unded fruit market shows little change from prices ruing a week ago.

without level will soon be found, which will probably be somewhat lower than the present basis. There has been practically no change in the canned goods situation. The volume of business is considerably in excess of what it has been and the general tone of the market seems to be healthy, with indica-tions favorable for its remaining that way for some time to come. The demand for fish hast week was brisk, but no particular charige in the market took place. Other staple lines are also selling in much the same notches they were a week ago. Dry Goods a Trifle Quiet.

Dry Goods a Trifle Quiet. The dem and for dry goods in a wholesale way was rather limited last week. Very few buyers arrived in the city and mail orders were rather scarce and small. That, however, is to be expected at this season of the year, as retailers have bought their spring stocks and have not had time to break their lines. Weather conditions were, of course, against the retailer last week, so that in reality they did not sell as much stock as they should, but they are not complaining, as they are confident of a very brisk trade as soon as the weather warms up a trifle. Local jobbers report orders for all goods as coming in as freely as could be ex-

Warms up a trille. Local jobbers report orders for all goods as coming in as freely as could be ex-pected this early in the season. The princi-pal lines being pushed at this time are olankets, underwear, hosiery and factory goods, and so far traveling men have met with fully as good surcess as they did dur-ing the corresponding period of last year. There is nothing particularly new to be said of the market on either cotton or woolen goods. Both lines are in a good, strong position, with every indication of their remaining that way throughout the season. Manutacturers of cotton goods find a ready outlet for all the stock they can turn out, so there is no accumulation. Wool is so high priced there seems to be no possibility or a break in prices for many months, this years clip having been con-tracted for some time ago. As a result of the healthy condition of the market on both cotton and wooleng goods both retailers and wholesalers feel safe in carrying as large stocks as their needs dictate. The demand for staple and seasonable bardware will continues excentioned by a resonance in the stock in the seasonable bardware still continues are bard by the seasonable bardware still continues are been and seasonable bardware still continues are prime and seasonable bardware still continues.

 Insidware Active and Unchanged.
 The demand for staple and seasonable hardware still continues exceptionally heavy. Local jobbers, in fact, can scarcely understaind what the enormous demand means that they have experienced all this year, as it has gone far ahead of their calculations. According to reports from other sections much the same condition preveals in nearly all parts of the country. Manufacturers are running their mills to it capacity, and, in fact, in many lines they report the demand the best it has been in many years. This extraordinary demand naturally has caused a shortage in some classes of goods, such as politry netting, wire cloth and offer seasonable lines, but still this snortage is not as yet of a very serious nature.
 The market has shown no quotable changes during the week under review. Prices, however, are good and firm, as would naturally be typeted when manufacturers have all the business they can at more to business they can at the business they can at the so considered by them a safe investment.

In the case of beef steers the demand for the more desirable grades has been fully equal to the supply and at the close of the week prices on such kinds are a triffe higher than they were a week ago. The top price of the week is $3.50 but they were not strictly prime. Good to choice cattle could safely be quoted from $5 to $5.60. The fair to good cattle are about steady for the week and are quotable from $5.50 to $5. Commoner grades have been neglected to some extent and as prices at Chicago broke 10% file during the week on that class of offerings there was a weaker feeling here and the market could be quoted a triffe lower. Not much of anything goes below $4.25 now and common to fair cattle may be quoted from $4.25 to $5.40.

 The demand for the better grades of cows and helfers has also been fully equal to the supply and prices have held steady to strong. When it comes to the medium and common kinds, however, the market is not as good as it was a week ago by 10%15c. The bulk of this decline took effect on Fri-day, as packers seemed to be pretty well filled up on the commoner kinds and appar-ently did not care whether they got any of them or not. Good to choice cows and helf-ers may be quoted from $4.50, common to fair from $2 to $3.75. Bulls if at all desirable are about steady for the week and they sell from $3.75 to $4.25. The common to fair grades go mostly from $2.25 to $3.75. Veal calves are also steady, the bulk of them going from $5 to $8. The demand for the better grades of cows st. Joseph
