If society has transgressed during the last forty days it has redeemed itself and abstaining from entertaining or being the first of June. entertained counts for anything. Things lose no time for there is something on day, calendar for every day next week and the Monday's mail not yet received, the first time such a thing has happened for weeks. But it is a modest plunge after all, for there is nothing of conspicuous consequence scheduled although some of the smartest ones are among the hostesses.

The opening of the Country club Saturday will practically put an end to the Mary Harris and Mary Bedwell. 'season of '05," as in addition to the outof-door features, it will launch the whole series and variety of affairs that center about the clubhouse and the people who frequent it. Unless this year is different from others, a great part of the luncheons and dinners and like things will be given there from now on. The opening will be very much as usual and though the program has not yet been definitely announced it will probably include the dinner and dance, with golf for the late afternoon

What is preferable in a son-in-law-mind. morals or money?

This question was put to a number of Omaha's leading society women during the week, the query growing out of the published statement that Andrew Carnegie preband for his niece. The Omaha women all expressed decided opinions, but did not were willing to mother their remarks are also omitted. The language attributed to rom their old home on Harney street to Mr. Carnegie, and on which the discussion is based, occurred in a telegram from New York and rends as follows:

I certainly think that marriage between two persons of such widely different station and environment is dangerous as well as foolish business.

While intelligence or 'a business head' if you will with uprightness of character is infinitely preferable to money, at the same time a young woman who has always lived in luxury runs a great risk in marrying a man who has to work up."

Still another mother whose only daughter promises to h.
