DENTAL COLLEGE GRADUATES

Class of Thirty-Three Sent Out from the Omaha School.

BANQUET TURNS INTO A REUNION

Alumni, Faculty and Underclassmen Unite with Guests in a Most Enjoyable Evening at the Table.

Twenty-two young men and one young woman received degrees of doctor of dental surgery and the accompany diplomas from President Abner N. Nason of the Omaha Dental College at Boyd's theater yesterday afternoon. The commencement exercises were simple but full of dignity and the spirit of professional life. It was the tenth commencement of the flourishing Omaha school and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives of the graduates. The members of the class wore caps and gowns and were the recipients of many flowers and other gifts, which were handed to them on the stage. Besides the class on the stage were the members of the faculty and the trustees of the college, also capped and gowned. Rev. Robert H. Yost of St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church made the address, holding up Wendell Phillips as a model for the doctors.

Truth the Great Need.

"I take this man," said Rev. Yost, "because he so well represents the idea that I wish to impress upon you—the spirit of truthfulness of character. I do not know as there is anything that needs to be pushed to the front more today than vigorous, absolute truthfulness. It is the duty of professional men to represent this kind of character. I know little of your line of work, except that I have never found a calling in the world that does not afford an opportunity to do more or less sham work. If your life is to be worth remembering or mentioning after you are gone it will be because you put sham work out and truth and courage and fair dealing into it. The tendency towards dealing in sham goods, in veneers of various kinds, in articles that are not altogether what they seem is much stronger in the present day than it should be. But the honest things you put into your life are the only ones that will remain—the only ones that will return satisfaction to you. You will encounter your full share of temptations and discouragements, but if I were to give you a recipe for success I should tell you to find out the hardest thing that presents itself first and do it. Character that is worth anything else in the world is that which grows out of obstacles. Don't fear work, hindrances and obstacles. Show that you are of the stuff that knows no quitting."

Banquet Follows Commencement.

In the evening 108 persons, including the faculty, graduates, alumni and under classmen, banqueted at the Commercial club in happy fashion, orchestral music adding to the pleasure of the sumptuous board. Prof. H. T. King presided as toastmaster in a felicitous manner, introducing with fitting words, the nine gentlemen who said more or less apropos to the event. The feast closed about 10 o'clock with a song, in which all participated.

Prof. A. H. Waterhouse, in telling of educational institutions, remarked that he had found dentists very effective, particularly in the case of a certain Northern Indiana toothache, which ceased suddenly after a seven-mile walk, on the very threshold of the doctor's office. He said that the first university was the world's conditions and that this state of affairs as a training school for men had continued up to this very day. He praised the Omaha Dental college and said that it is one of these institutions that are enabled to put an actual stimulus in the work it performs because it fits its students directly to earn their livings.

Sandy F. Woodbridge, city editor of the World-Herald, in lieu of a toast on "The Professions," told a funny story regarding grand opera, the filing of teeth and a certain similarity on the nerves.

Dr. H. E. King had some pointed things to say regarding the new graduate, admitting that he, as well as some of the others present, had still an immense amount to learn.

To Be a Man. "We all have our own place in life," said Dr. Edwin Hart Jenks. "It does not make any difference what that place is, but it makes a good deal of difference how we fill that place. You young men have now some definite things to do. You are dentists. That is the one thing that you have to do above all others. I am satisfied that it is a general law that to succeed anywhere you must have singleness of purpose. However, the real vocation in life is to play the part of a man and play it well."

Dr. W. N. Dorward's subject was "The Board of Dental Examiners," but he handled a number of others in his talk. He said among other things that the state board is powerless to accomplish anything without the co-operation of every reputable dentist and that it is their duty to properly report irregular practitioners; that only by doing this thing and working in harmony with the authorities could the standard of the profession be maintained and the public protected. He also handed the young doctors a bit of plain speech regarding the litnessness of their real knowledge.

W. W. Williams spoke for the class of 1906, alternating between shafts of satire and the presentation of a general bouquet of praise and compliments all around. Dr. L. G. Van Slyke talked on behalf of the alumni, of class ties and sentiment and the hard race that lay before the new doctors. He urged more gatherings and a closer continuity of the profession. J. E. Davis spoke for the class of 1907 and told a few funny ones that got him the biggest hand of the evening.

For the Faculty.

Dean Hunt made the last response on behalf of the faculty. He declared it would not be long before the college alumni would have difficulty in getting a banquet room in Omaha large enough to hold it. He said the college would always be "home" for its children and he urged them to come back often and stay long. Not only are people lined up in numbers before the several windows where money is paid in, but every mail brings in great piles of checks and drafts. There is no time to total these until the office closes for the day, and then it remains a lot of night work on the part of the clerks.

Deputy County Treasurer Sharp says the taxes have been sold with a degree of freedom that indicates Omaha property owners are not very hard up.

NORTH SIXTEENTH WAKES UP

Business Men Unite to Serve Their Common Interests.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB'S ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

Enthusiastic Meeting at Midland Hotel Hears Reports and Outlines Plans for Action Needed by District.

Between fifty and sixty members of the North Sixteenth Street Improvement Club met in the dining room at the Midland hotel last night to talk over street improvement matters in that district. A number of city officials were present by invitation and the proceedings were of the liveliest interest. The club which started less than two months ago with a membership of twenty, now has nearly 50 members on its rolls and more are coming.

Jefferson Square's Condition.

Mr. Swift of the park committee made a verbal report in reference to Jefferson Square and suggested a number of improvements. These contemplate the planting of flower beds, the trimming of the trees and shrubbery and the procuring of new seats and the fastening down of the seats and benches already in the park to prevent their removal; also that the seats should be painted. He thought that a light should be placed in the center of the park and that a policeman should be stationed there and the park given the same police protection that is guaranteed to Hancock park.

Condemnation of a number of frame buildings is asked of the city council and building inspector and that condemnation should mean their removal or repair. Lunch wagons should be prohibited the use of the district from Dodge to Cuming and from Fifteenth to Seventeenth streets. The matter of obstruction of sidewalks was also taken up, and a concerted movement will be undertaken to restrict these obstructions.

More Lights Wanted.

Mr. Crane of the light committee urged that the street should be given more light. He urged that at least six additional lights should be placed on the streets from Dodge to Nicholas street.

City Engineer Rosewater talked briefly upon the need of improvements along the street and expressed himself as in hearty accord with the efforts of the club.

Building Inspector Withnell concurred in the proposition for the condemnation of certain structures along the street and promised to aid the club in bringing proceedings about. He asked the backing of the club.

City Electrician Michaelson strongly favored more street lights for North Sixteenth street, as he believed that the largest taxpaying districts should have improvements in accord with their tax contributions for the city.

Councilman Nicholson and Dyball assured the club that their sympathies and interests were with the district, and that they would do all in their power to bring about the requested improvements.

A vote of thanks was tendered the visiting city officials for their presence and encouraging talks.

A special interest was added to the meeting by the distribution of an abundance of excellent cigars and a liberal donation of punch. The meeting was enthusiastic throughout and continued until 11 o'clock.

DEAD BODY OF A STRANGER

Decomposing Corpse Discovered Under Platform at Ninth and Jackson.

MAN EVIDENTLY DIED MONTHS AGO

Nothing on Corpse to Indicate Name, but He is Recalled as Looking for Work in Omaha Last Fall.

The body of a man was found Friday morning under a platform at the building of the Omaha Implement and Transfer company, Ninth and Jackson streets. Three employees of the company, A. W. Strayer, David Brock and Fred Hartman, were working on the platform and decided to investigate an unpleasant odor which they had noticed all the day previous. In a dark corner under the platform they found the body lying. Without disturbing it they notified the coroner and police officers.

CREIGHTON MEDICS BANQUET

Class of '05 and Alumni Meet at Board and Enjoy Delightful Evening.

A banquet was given last evening at the Calumet by the graduating class of the Creighton Medical College, which was attended by a large number of the alumni of the college, many of whom came from distant parts of the United States to be present at the annual commencement exercises. The graduating class numbers thirty-four. The program of the evening opened with an address of welcome to the class of 1905 by M. J. Scott, to which a response was made by W. S. Cherry. G. Ham discussed the trials, successes and virtues of the "Druggist"; L. C. Mack became eloquent over the "Systole and Diastole," of the hearts of those wedded to the medical profession and L. B. Bushman made an interesting address in connection with the presentation to the alma mater of a life-sized oil painting of Dr. J. S. Foote, the gift being a token of respect from the entire alumni association. Dr. Foote is professor of physiology, histology and pathology and one of the regents of the college. There were 125 present. The annual business meeting of the alumni association was held previous to the banquet in the college auditorium, at which H. H. Alkin was elected president and Rudolph Rix secretary and treasurer.

STICKNEY ON HIS WAY WEST

President of Great Western Passes Through to Colorado with His Family.

A. B. Stickney, president of the Chicago Great Western railway, spent a few hours in Omaha yesterday afternoon while on his way from St. Paul to Colorado. President Stickney was accompanied by his wife and a few friends.

"I do not think the Great Northern-Sioux City-Ashland extension will injure Omaha's trade," responded Mr. Stickney in reply to a question on the subject. "The new line will bring to Omaha more than it will take away. I do not fear competition," continued the official.

PUBLIC LIBRARY MATTERS

Victor Rosewater Announces Resignation as Member of Board After Eleven Years' Service.

Victor Rosewater Last Night Announced His Resignation as a member of the city library board, at a regular meeting of the board, in a letter to President Lewis S. Reed.

The letter states that the resignation had been filed with Acting Mayor Zimman. It came as a surprise to the board members, each of whom expressed regret that Mr. Rosewater had found his duties so exacting as to deprive the board of his time and each spoke of the good service done by Mr. Rosewater during the eleven years which he has been a member of the board. The letter is as follows: "OMAHA, April 28, 1905.—Public Library Board—Dear Sir: I beg to inform you, and through you the Public Library Board, that owing to new business responsibilities that demand undivided attention, I have transmitted Acting Mayor Zimman my resignation as member of your board. I assure you that my eleven years' service in connection with the management of the library has been always a pleasant duty and that it is with sincere regret that I sever official relations with the institution, which may count always upon my continued interest in its welfare.
