

TELEPHONE 64

Special Sale of Colored Dress Goods Remnants

Do not lose sight of the time—Monday, 8 A. M. Here are extraordinary bargains that will bring hundreds here in a hurry for this great sale of colored dress remnants.

- Navy Blue Brillant—beautiful quality, handsome rich luster, 6 1/2 yards in remnant, for $1.92.
Novelty Mohair—blue ground with tiny flecks of white, regular $1.92 quality, 14 inch, 7 1/2 yards in remnant, for $4.19.

TORNADO KILLS TWENTY-ONE

Laredo, Texas, Visited by a Destructive Windstorm Friday Night.

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY IS HEAVY
Telegraph and Telephone Wires Are Down and Interrupted Communication Delays Train Service.

LAREDO, Tex., April 29.—(Via Bermuda, April 29.)—Sixteen people were killed and scores injured in Laredo by a tornado which tore through the city late last night.

Imperial Long Cloth
No. 200 Imperial Long Cloth, 80 per yard, or 75¢ a bolt of 12 yards.

Printed Organades
Organades are in great favor with the fashionable ladies and this is not surprising, for the styles are wonderfully attractive in their elaborate floral designs.

THOMPSON, BELDEN & CO.

Y. M. C. A. Building, Corner Sixteenth and Douglas Sts.

HILAND ON FREIGHT RATES

Third Vice President of Milwaukee Road Addresses Senate Committee.

WEST MIGHT SUFFER BY THE CHANGE

Objects to Increasing Power of Commission Because It Would Affect Earning Capacity of the Railroads.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—At the meeting today of the senate committee on interstate commerce James H. Hiland, third vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company, was called upon and made a statement regarding railroad rates which specially affect northwestern traffic.

Some of the objections to placing the rate-making power in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission are: It gives the commission power to limit the earning capacity of the railroads by investing it with authority to make rates without providing means that will prevent nullification of the commission's order by relative reductions on the part of competing railroads, thereby maintaining the correlation rate in origin and destination.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from him to the office of a lawyer in the New York Life building and deposit all the letters which she had in her possession.

LOST LOVE LETTERS

(Continued from First Page.)

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from Texas, where they spent the winter for the benefit of the latter's health. Before her marriage Mrs. Fallon was Miss McAllister. The husband and a brother, Harvey McAllister, will arrive from St. Louis today. The other brother, Alvah McAllister, is expected here today also from Denver.

Old Resident at Onawa. ONAWA, Ia., April 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter C. Beck, the oldest resident, died today, aged 83 years. Mr. Stark was born in Scotland and came to Onawa in 1858 and has lived here continuously since.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL LEE Body of the Distinguished Soldier Will Be Laid to Rest at Richmond, Va.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, accompanied by her eldest daughter, Mrs. Rhea, and her youngest daughter, Virginia Lee, reached Washington at 10:30 o'clock tonight to make arrangements for the funeral of her husband, General Fitzhugh Lee. She was met at the station here by a large number of friends prominent in military and official life. Mr. Fowler announced that the only thing definitely decided was that the burial should be at the Arlington cemetery.

When Mr. Hiland had concluded his statement he was asked a number of questions. Replying to Senator Elkins, he said that the effect of removing of all differentials would be to concentrate the export business at the port that had the best facilities for loading freight and could make the best steamship rates. Naturally this port would be New York, and in his judgment New York would be built up at the expense of gulf and other Atlantic ports.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from Texas, where they spent the winter for the benefit of the latter's health. Before her marriage Mrs. Fallon was Miss McAllister. The husband and a brother, Harvey McAllister, will arrive from St. Louis today. The other brother, Alvah McAllister, is expected here today also from Denver.

Old Resident at Onawa. ONAWA, Ia., April 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter C. Beck, the oldest resident, died today, aged 83 years. Mr. Stark was born in Scotland and came to Onawa in 1858 and has lived here continuously since.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL LEE Body of the Distinguished Soldier Will Be Laid to Rest at Richmond, Va.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, accompanied by her eldest daughter, Mrs. Rhea, and her youngest daughter, Virginia Lee, reached Washington at 10:30 o'clock tonight to make arrangements for the funeral of her husband, General Fitzhugh Lee. She was met at the station here by a large number of friends prominent in military and official life. Mr. Fowler announced that the only thing definitely decided was that the burial should be at the Arlington cemetery.

When Mr. Hiland had concluded his statement he was asked a number of questions. Replying to Senator Elkins, he said that the effect of removing of all differentials would be to concentrate the export business at the port that had the best facilities for loading freight and could make the best steamship rates. Naturally this port would be New York, and in his judgment New York would be built up at the expense of gulf and other Atlantic ports.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from Texas, where they spent the winter for the benefit of the latter's health. Before her marriage Mrs. Fallon was Miss McAllister. The husband and a brother, Harvey McAllister, will arrive from St. Louis today. The other brother, Alvah McAllister, is expected here today also from Denver.

Old Resident at Onawa. ONAWA, Ia., April 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter C. Beck, the oldest resident, died today, aged 83 years. Mr. Stark was born in Scotland and came to Onawa in 1858 and has lived here continuously since.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL LEE Body of the Distinguished Soldier Will Be Laid to Rest at Richmond, Va.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—At the meeting today of the senate committee on interstate commerce James H. Hiland, third vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company, was called upon and made a statement regarding railroad rates which specially affect northwestern traffic.

Some of the objections to placing the rate-making power in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission are: It gives the commission power to limit the earning capacity of the railroads by investing it with authority to make rates without providing means that will prevent nullification of the commission's order by relative reductions on the part of competing railroads, thereby maintaining the correlation rate in origin and destination.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from Texas, where they spent the winter for the benefit of the latter's health. Before her marriage Mrs. Fallon was Miss McAllister. The husband and a brother, Harvey McAllister, will arrive from St. Louis today. The other brother, Alvah McAllister, is expected here today also from Denver.

Old Resident at Onawa. ONAWA, Ia., April 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter C. Beck, the oldest resident, died today, aged 83 years. Mr. Stark was born in Scotland and came to Onawa in 1858 and has lived here continuously since.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL LEE Body of the Distinguished Soldier Will Be Laid to Rest at Richmond, Va.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, accompanied by her eldest daughter, Mrs. Rhea, and her youngest daughter, Virginia Lee, reached Washington at 10:30 o'clock tonight to make arrangements for the funeral of her husband, General Fitzhugh Lee. She was met at the station here by a large number of friends prominent in military and official life. Mr. Fowler announced that the only thing definitely decided was that the burial should be at the Arlington cemetery.

When Mr. Hiland had concluded his statement he was asked a number of questions. Replying to Senator Elkins, he said that the effect of removing of all differentials would be to concentrate the export business at the port that had the best facilities for loading freight and could make the best steamship rates. Naturally this port would be New York, and in his judgment New York would be built up at the expense of gulf and other Atlantic ports.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from Texas, where they spent the winter for the benefit of the latter's health. Before her marriage Mrs. Fallon was Miss McAllister. The husband and a brother, Harvey McAllister, will arrive from St. Louis today. The other brother, Alvah McAllister, is expected here today also from Denver.

Old Resident at Onawa. ONAWA, Ia., April 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter C. Beck, the oldest resident, died today, aged 83 years. Mr. Stark was born in Scotland and came to Onawa in 1858 and has lived here continuously since.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL LEE Body of the Distinguished Soldier Will Be Laid to Rest at Richmond, Va.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, accompanied by her eldest daughter, Mrs. Rhea, and her youngest daughter, Virginia Lee, reached Washington at 10:30 o'clock tonight to make arrangements for the funeral of her husband, General Fitzhugh Lee. She was met at the station here by a large number of friends prominent in military and official life. Mr. Fowler announced that the only thing definitely decided was that the burial should be at the Arlington cemetery.

When Mr. Hiland had concluded his statement he was asked a number of questions. Replying to Senator Elkins, he said that the effect of removing of all differentials would be to concentrate the export business at the port that had the best facilities for loading freight and could make the best steamship rates. Naturally this port would be New York, and in his judgment New York would be built up at the expense of gulf and other Atlantic ports.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from Texas, where they spent the winter for the benefit of the latter's health. Before her marriage Mrs. Fallon was Miss McAllister. The husband and a brother, Harvey McAllister, will arrive from St. Louis today. The other brother, Alvah McAllister, is expected here today also from Denver.

Old Resident at Onawa. ONAWA, Ia., April 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter C. Beck, the oldest resident, died today, aged 83 years. Mr. Stark was born in Scotland and came to Onawa in 1858 and has lived here continuously since.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL LEE Body of the Distinguished Soldier Will Be Laid to Rest at Richmond, Va.

How Do You Do?

We wish to introduce our goods into your home.

We know that our family wines and liquors for the table and for medicinal purposes are the best the market can afford.

We have been in business for 29 years and our reputation for "Quality and Quantity" has always been sustained.

We will send you choice of 2 large bottles of one of our 2 large bottles of 9-year-old standard whiskey for $2.45, express prepaid.

Choose from 3 years old; Muscatel, Maasiga, Port, Sherry, Sweet Catawba, Fine old whiskeys, 1 year; Old Kopold & Son's Pure Rye, Old Corn, Celebrated Old Blend.

If we receive your order within a few days we will send FREE the most amusing novelty of the day.

FREE A LIVE JAP doll—it does everything but talk—and please young as well as the old. Instructions with each doll.

SEND ORDER TODAY.

J. W. KOPOLD AND SONS OMAHA - NEB. - EST. 1865 - WHOLESALE AND RETAIL WINES AND LIQUORS. "QUALITY AND QUANTITY."

WASHINGTON, April 29.—At the meeting today of the senate committee on interstate commerce James H. Hiland, third vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company, was called upon and made a statement regarding railroad rates which specially affect northwestern traffic.

Some of the objections to placing the rate-making power in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission are: It gives the commission power to limit the earning capacity of the railroads by investing it with authority to make rates without providing means that will prevent nullification of the commission's order by relative reductions on the part of competing railroads, thereby maintaining the correlation rate in origin and destination.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.

Miss Wood said she knew that Miller's confederates were somewhere near and that it would be useless to resist, and finally she consented to Miller's proposition. Upon arriving at the New York Life building "she was hustled in a back alley and was introduced by Miller to Abraham H. Hummel, an attorney. She was "held under arrest for two days and was not even allowed to dine alone," she says, and during these two days Miller kept insisting that he represented the plaintiff and would have those letters at all hazards. Finally she says she deposited the letters, "or a portion of them," as requested.

Miller again accompanied Miss Wood to the office of the lawyer who presumed to act as attorney for her, over her protests, and he assumed also to act also for Frank H. Platt, whom he alleged was about to get out an injunction against the publication of said book.

Breach of Promise Charges False. The petition goes on "that the said defendants caused charges to be brought that plaintiff was about to sue Senator T. C. Platt for breach of promise and had settled same; that they knew the stories were untrue; plaintiff never contemplated bringing any such action and never consulted attorneys in reference thereto; that all such charges were slanderous, untrue and were made for the purpose of forcing plaintiff to surrender to their said documents; that after the two days of arrest and detention plaintiff assumed to make a settlement with plaintiff for the amount of $50,000, compelling plaintiff to sign various documents, two papers that purported to be receipts or pretended receipts for $50,000 each and attached to affidavits reciting that plaintiff would not reveal anything that had transpired and would in no way talk or write to or about any of the parties to the transaction, and further claiming that such promises were made voluntarily and without force on the part of the said parties implicated in the outrage and without fear on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claims no such amount was paid by Senator Platt of any one. Plaintiff alleges that this pretended settlement so made and her signature exacted to the foregoing documents was done for the purpose of making it appear that she was about to sue T. C. Platt and that he had settled same, all of which was done to justify the forceful confiscation of letters and manuscript."

DEATH RECORD. WILLIAM PINKINTON. MITWAUKEE, April 29.—William Pinkinton, aged 61 years, one of Milwaukee's foremost business men, died today of pneumonia. Mr. Pinkinton was head of the Pinkinton Packing company and was active in the management of the vast interests of the Pinkinton estate left by his father, John Pinkinton, several years ago.

Mrs. P. J. Fallon. Mrs. Maud Fallon, wife of P. J. Fallon, formerly of Omaha, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. D. Royer, 110 North avenue, Council Bluffs, aged 74 years. Mrs. Royer and Mrs. Fallon returned only a few weeks ago from Texas, where they spent the winter for the benefit of the latter's health. Before her marriage Mrs. Fallon was Miss McAllister. The husband and a brother, Harvey McAllister, will arrive from St. Louis today. The other brother, Alvah McAllister, is expected here today also from Denver.

Old Resident at Onawa. ONAWA, Ia., April 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter C. Beck, the oldest resident, died today, aged 83 years. Mr. Stark was born in Scotland and came to Onawa in 1858 and has lived here continuously since.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL LEE Body of the Distinguished Soldier Will Be Laid to Rest at Richmond, Va.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, accompanied by her eldest daughter, Mrs. Rhea, and her youngest daughter, Virginia Lee, reached Washington at 10:30 o'clock tonight to make arrangements for the funeral of her husband, General Fitzhugh Lee. She was met at the station here by a large number of friends prominent in military and official life. Mr. Fowler announced that the only thing definitely decided was that the burial should be at the Arlington cemetery.

When Mr. Hiland had concluded his statement he was asked a number of questions. Replying to Senator Elkins, he said that the effect of removing of all differentials would be to concentrate the export business at the port that had the best facilities for loading freight and could make the best steamship rates. Naturally this port would be New York, and in his judgment New York would be built up at the expense of gulf and other Atlantic ports.

Mr. Hiland stated there were no complaints regarding the use of private car lines on his road. The road made the rate on commodities carried in these cars. Shippers were more economically served by private car lines than they would be without them.