Admiral Rojstvensky seems to be creating more trouble in Paris than in the China sea.

The approach of Pat Crowe is heralded forth by the Omaha senior yellow as the greatest event of the twentieth century.

Perhaps the world will soon learn just what the king of England secured from the president of France at the Paris meeting.

Chicago seems to be developing a fair amount of race prejudice as well as several other undesirable things during the present strike.

It begins to dawn upon the Commercial club that the interests of the railroads are not always identical with the interests of Omaha.

Now that the Chicago "Beef trust grand jury" has taken up the rebate question, packing houses may resume their normal business.

Something unprecedented has happened. No one has yet questioned the validity of the new Omaha charter by appealing to the courts to set it aside.

If Ireland were in the crisis which is being pictured, people in America would expect to see it saved by Tom Lipton rather than by Lord Dunraven.

Now that the Russians have announced the location and arrangement of the Japanese army, General Oyama may be expected to prove to them that the information is false.

The biennial elections bill has got into court even before it has got into the statute book.

It must have been a novel experience for Nebraska insurance men to be arrested in Iowa on charge of violating the conspiracy law when by staying at home they could do as they pleased.

The Chinese exclusion law may be wrong and it may also be unconstitutional, but suit to test the law would come with better grace from someone other than the Chinese minister.

With Newfoundland showing its teeth and Germany growling, it will be interesting to note what effect these demonstrations will have on the subject of reciprocity treaties when congress meets next fall.

The most encouraging feature of the Burlington crop prospectus for American Sons and Daughters of the Revolution is that the dreaded Hessian fly has not made its appearance this spring in Nebraska.

Half a page of sturd horse body announcing the approach of Pat Crowe, the alleged kidnaper, illustrates the typographed high class frenzied journalism to which Omaha is treated on momentous occasions.

There is some similarity between the president's hunt for grizzly bears and Mr. Garfield's hunt for trusts.

We are told by General Test that the principal lesson to learn from the wind that destroyed the Omaha casket factory is to put shutters on all dwellings and buildings in exposed places and pull down the blinds.

It is a malicious fiction, pure and simple. Nobody connected with the Bee and nobody authorized to speak for anybody connected with the Bee has sought a foothold in the university board, or has in any way sought to influence the normal school board, or the

A PROFITABLE TRADE.

According to official returns, the trade of the United States with Canada last year reached the amount of $104,000,000...

Recently the former governor general of Canada said in an address that Canadian statesmen are strongly in favor of giving preferential treatment to British imports...

An export business of $137,000,000 a year is worth preserving and how to do this is certainly a very interesting and important question.

POLITICS AND EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

For some reason, best known to itself, The Bee has always had a hankering and an itching to get a hold upon the educational institutions of the state.

From the very outset of its career The Bee has advocated and upheld, as far as possible, the divorce of all educational institutions from politics and political influence.

For twenty-five years after the public school government of Omaha had been placed in the hands of an elective board, The Bee has stood for non-partisanship in public school government.

Its opposition to the redoubtable Pease was neither political nor personal, but because he dabbled too much in politics and tended too little to his duties as an educator.

The intimation that The Bee has sought to secure a foothold in the board that controls the state university, and is now digging in with all its fingers and toes, in the endeavor to climb to a dominant position with the State Normal board, is a malicious fiction, pure and simple.

State Board of Educational Lands and Buildings.

It is equally malicious for the World-Herald to assert that The Bee "because of its long standing rancor against T. J. Majors is exerting itself to involve the State Normal board in a free-for-all fight."

Omaha stands ready to offer every reasonable encouragement for the erection of new buildings, but the building contractors ought also to be reasonable with the public.

Governor Deneen doubtless has the sincere sympathy of Governor Mickey, who knows from experience how unpleasant it is to have one side of a strike controversy calling for troops.

"Ah, Quit Your Quizzing." Washington Post. The German embassy has sent diplomats to fifty-one nurses in New York who went to the rescue of victims of the Slocum disaster.

The aristocratic quarter of London—the West End—is said by the Daily Graphic to have benefited in the amount of about $500,000 by the marriage of the British titled society.

Good Rule to Work By. Pittsburgh Dispatch. Attention is called to the fact that the success of the Glasgow municipal street railway is based on the rule: "No political interference with the management."

Crazy to Some Extent. Chicago Chronicle. Plunger Bigelow's defense is foreshadowed in the circumstance that his personal friends have begun to announce that he has acted like a crazy man for several years.

Related Retribution. Baltimore American. The proverbial philosopher who gave us the maxim that nothing is certain but death and taxes has just had the wisdom of his saying confirmed at Stamford, Conn.

PEOPLE AND THEIR RIGHTS. Some Minor Tribes Hark Back to the Money Power. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

STILL FINANCIALLY STRONG. Japan is still able to raise money at home for carrying on the war.

We are unable to state the full amount of the debt on account of the war which Japan has incurred, but it is to be remarked that the amount which the government has been able to borrow from its own people is a surprising evidence of the resources in capital of the island empire.

Foreign delegates to the railroad congress must have been somewhat surprised to have America's freight tariff problem fired at them at short range when they met to consider technical subjects, but they may later become accustomed to the American idea of saying what is uppermost in the mind on almost any and all occasions.

That Union Pacific motor car is liable to revolutionize interurban passenger traffic on the trunk line railroads.

OTHER LANDS THAN OURS.

The revolt against Turkish rule in the province of Yemen in Arabia, is progressing at a rate which assures the ultimate triumph of the insurgents unless the government at Constantinople reverses its present policy of indifference and makes energetic efforts to preserve its tottering authority.

In favoring the organization of Young Men's Christian associations with his armies, the emperor of Japan seems convinced that the spirit of Christianity will not make men less effective fighters than the spirit of alleged heathenism.

Germany has been among the most serious offenders in the matter of long school days and multiplicity of studies, and now there comes from that country the strongest appeals for less school work.

The Victoria falls of the Zambesi river in Rhodesia, Africa, are far enough away, are without special sentiment and finally are so stupendous that one can contemplate them without anxiety lest they be ruined as a natural wonder.

Lake details of the recent Indian earthquake indicate that the disturbance was one of the severest on record.

The only great value to the sultan of the Arabian provinces, which have been under Turkish rule for a long period, lies in the control of the sacred cities of Mecca and Medina.

Amnity toward the government may lead to good results to the individual. Thus in Poland thousands of workmen are said to have quit the drinking sprits and the smoking of tobacco in order to deprive the government of the revenues from those sources.

Good Times for Young America. Philadelphia Telegraph. The boy and his bat is one of the cheering signs of the day.

POLITICAL DRIFT.

Lawyers are already giving tips on their ability to knock a hole in the Wisconsin law prohibiting the giving of tips.

The bounced Senator Bunkers of San Francisco cheerily went into court for a vindication and punitive damages. The jury handed him a bunch, and he is awaiting sentence.

A committee of the New York legislature recommended the removal of Justice Warren B. Hooker from the state supreme court for complicity in a variety of scandals.

A colored preacher who was brought in to pray for the New York legislature petitioned the Assembly to bring it safely through life to "that general assembly where Jesus Christ will be the speaker and where Jesus will be transacted without graft or dictation of the lobby."

Governor J. Frank Hanley, republican, of Indiana, in refusing to appoint any man who drinks intoxicating liquors to office, says: "There is not a corporation or business interest of importance that requires less."

To Philadelphia newspapers and people the revised dictionary presents a poverty of words with which to express their indignation over the proposed gas franchise.

COLOSSAL LAND GRABS. Serious Side of the Problem Confronting the Government. Portland Oregonian.

In reading of the land frauds in Oregon, California and other western states we involuntarily ask ourselves "What is the government going to do about it?"

FLASHES OF FUN. "When I was your age," said the practical parent, "I never had anything like as much money to spend as you have."

"I don't suppose Miss Passay ever had any beau when she was a young girl." "No, she was too dignified and old-fashioned."

Fat gentleman (gasp)—"What do you mean by making m-m-me run after the car so? I'll p-probably-die of apoplexy!"

Visiting Relative—Pie, Kitty! You shouldn't lie abed as late as this. Don't

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

Improves the flavor and adds to the healthfulness of the food.

You know that "He who would thrive must rise at 5?" Miss Kitty—O, yes, I know that. Papa always rises at 5 and he thrives so well that there's no need of my thriving—Chicago Tribune.

Magistrate—You've been behind the bars several times, haven't you? Prisoner—Yes, your honor. Magistrate—I thought so. Your face is very familiar to me. Prisoner—Yes, sir, as I was sayin'. I'm a bartender—Philadelphia Ledger.

Molly—Dick is painfully homesick, isn't he? Polly—Awful! But I saw him once when he looked quite handsome. Molly—When was that? Polly—When I dressed up as Santa Claus, with a white wig and long whiskers, to take the presents off the Christmas tree—Somerville Journal.

THE ONE SURE SIGN. Baltimore American. When the grass is faintly greening in the shelter of the fence. Magistrate—You've been behind the bars several times, haven't you? Prisoner—Yes, your honor. Magistrate—I thought so. Your face is very familiar to me. Prisoner—Yes, sir, as I was sayin'. I'm a bartender—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mickey Peters, Patsy Johnson, Skinny Brown and Nobby Watts. Limpy Wagon, Elmer Thompson and that sassy Rabbit Potts.

Though they've the man a little when they've puffed up their little. But we know that spring's approaching—When we see the bunch bat grounders on the old back lot.
