UNION OF PRESBYTERIANS

Moderator Moffatt Favors Concessions to Accomplish Purpose.

Other Church Conventions in Session Hold Special Sunday Services-Jewish Publication Society Meeting.

WINONA LAKE, Ind., May IL-The as-Moffatt before the delegates to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church was the feature of a day crowded with so many religious exercises in commemoration of the south anniversary of the birth of John Knox, the Scotch reformer, that many of the meetings overlapped. Much comment was occasioned by that portion of the moderator's sermon which referred to the union of the two branches of the hurch. Moderator Moffatt said in part: There is undoubtedly a strong feeling throughout our church that the Southern bresbyterian church should unite with us. We not only should ask them to come to as as we have been doing, but we should make an earnest effort to get them. We not should make an earnest effort to get them. We not should make an earnest effort to get them. We position with respect to the singing of symms. I am not sure but we should go a considerable ways toward their position in the matter of the use of psalms. Why should we not take the psalms of David a considerable ways toward their position in the matter of the use of psalms. Why should we not take the psalms of David as the form of our hymnology and write into them Jesus Christ. We need not take Rouse's version of the psalms or any existing translation of them, but we can make a new version for the twentieth century. To this I would apply our text, "God having provided some better thing for us that they without us should be made perfect." I hope to see the day it may it may not be in the near future, when all the different bedies of the Presbyterian faith will unite in giving us a revised, singable version of the psalms."

The question of admitting the Cumberland Presbyterian branch to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, now in session here, will be taken up by the assembly tomorrow as a special order of ousiness. The special committee appointed to canvass the vote and submit a non for consummating the consolidation is schediled to report tomorrow morning. It is, lowever, admitted tonight that there may be some delay in submitting plans for the mion by reason of the fact that up to a late hour tonight there has come no request from the Cumberland branch, in session at Fresno, Cal., that it be received into the communication is received.

Jewish Publication Society. PHILADELPHIA, May 21.-The annual meeting of the Jewish Publication society was held in Kenezth Israel temple here oday. Among those who made addresses was largely of a routine character last week. Whether definite steps will be taken by the assembly toward uniting the Reformed and Presbyterian churches is the most important question before the convention. The consensus of opinion seems to bear out the expressed belief that be yond a movement looking to closer relations no further efforts for a complete union will be made. This week a number of standing committees and several special committees will report. Nearly all the special business before the meeting likely will be transacted. An interesting report to come before the convention is on an overture read last Saturday before the Presbytery of Montgomery asking this assembly to co-operate in an interchurch conference relating to marriage and divorce. The overture also asks that a committee from other churches to plan some means whereby the alarming number of divorces may be reduced.

WHY MORTON IS TO RESIGN Secretary of Navy at Outs with the President's Policy on Railronds.

(Washington Correspondence of the Railway Age.)

President Rooseveit's return to Washington has dissipated a rather widespread character. idea that there had been a recent change in the administration plans in regard to legislation grew naturally out of the speech made by Secretary Paul Morton, in welcoming the International Railway congress. Mr. Morton spoke of the low rates which prevail in the United States and of the disposition of all railway men to meet differences, finally intimating that the only evils remaining for congress to correct were those of terminal charges, midnight car extortions. He did not enumerate the rate discrimination between localities nor ecommend legislation to give more power to the Interstate Commerce commission. an early opportunity to address the railway gathering and to counteract the Morton utterances. This, it will be recalled, was done. But not satisfied with Taft's off them. utterances, the president himself took the first opportunity open to him to get in ATTACK ON SCOTCH PEOPLE his personal word, and, arriving at Denver he reiterated what Secretary Taft had said and added a word of specific endorsement of the latter's speech. In Chicago he did it again, and since arriving in Washington he has left no room for doubt as to his endorsement of the Taft speech and his disapproval of the tone of Secretary Morton's speech. Significantly enough there some years ago wrote a book to show how now comes the well-confirmed report that Secretary Morton will leave the cabinet in the fall. His withdrawal is the result of kind. this incident, which has had the effect of marking sharply the difference between the president and Secretary Morton on the railroad subject. The Santa Fe rebate case caused the administration some embarpersonal representative of the president, is regarded as so grave an indiscretion as to warrant Socretary Morton's relegation to private life. The president regards the hearings of the senate committee on interstate commerce with keen disfavor. The point of difference between the administration and MUSIC NOT UNSURMOUNTABLE OBSTACLE the senate views, as indicated at those hearings, or the chief point of difference, is as to giving more power to the Interstate Commerce commission. The president wants a substantial power vested in the commission to deal with discriminations which affect commodities, and localities. Such substantial power he conceives can be given to the commission only by a grant of authority to make a rate in place sembly sermon delivered by Moderator D. of one condemned, and to order it to become immediately effective until overruled by judicial process. The railroads contend, and have argued eloquently before the senate committee, that such a grant of power to this commission would be equivalent to a grant of the general rate making power, and they are prepared to quote Mr. E. P. Bacon, Governor Cummins of Iowa and other distinguished pro ponents of reform to the effect that they would consider it unwise to have a government commission go into the general rate making business. So the point on which the joint debate appears now to turn is the question as to just what would be the effect of the proposed law. On the one side it is contended that the grant of power to the commission would result merely in the adjudication and correction of the minor and individual differences be tween shipper and railroad, while on the other side it is contended that the part involves the whole, and that the power to change a part involves the power to change the whole, Another point on which there appears to be a pivotal difference between the United States sermite committee and the administration is the extent to which the judiclary may be used to correct rate discriminations. Any person who has diligently followed the hearings of the senate committee cannot have failed to observe mittee are wedded to the proposition that this view is the opinion of Attorney Genclse the rate making function either by way of primary or appellate jurisdiction. This point is likely to assume importance in the future, as the senate committee in all probability will recommend legislation providing for the reference of such con-

DUNRAVEN RENEWS ATTACK Defection of Str Anthony MacDonnell Has No Effect on His

Pinns. LONDON, May 21 .- (Special Cablegram to The Bee.)-Lord Dunraven of international yacht racing fame has started a remarkable crusade. In recent articles and pamphlets upon Ireland he paints a remarkable pic ture of the country and proposes selfgovernment as the chief remedy. Lord Dunrayen also refers to the devolution scheme proposed by the Irish Reform association. He points out that it did not originate with any one at Dublin castle and explains the share that Sir Antony MacDonnell took in formulating the scheme. "Ireland," says Lord Dunraven, "Is at a crisis in its history. Year by year the country has been sinking deeper and deeper in misfortune, and now it has reached the point at which it must be decide whether the downward tendency is to continue to inevitable and most melanchely end, or whether a supreme effort shall be made to lift the country out of the national bankruptcy in men, power and intelligence and material prosperity which so Immediately threatens it. "Ireland is sick almost to death."

Lord Dunraven then quotes statistics ealing with population, lunacy, pauperism, etc., in Ireland, which, he says, discloses deplorable position of affairs. Money is wanted for the development of the country; the people require education: they must be drawn out of their despondencr. lifted out of despair, and though much motive power can only be found in selfgovernment, in an active interest in the management of their own affairs. "The Parliament is my center; its ultimate effective supremacy is my circumferwithin that circumscribing limit I desire to see the largest possible freedom of negelistic tour of the world, and a sermon eral Moody that the courts will not exer- tion and self-governing power delegated to Lord Dunraven also says that for all practical purposes the policy of devolution originated in the memorandum signed by five members of the land conference committee and privately circulated on March 3, 1908, He emphasizes the fact more than once that the movement did not originate with any one at Dublin castle. It was decided, according to Lord Dunraven, to take action without reference to Sir Antony MacDonnell or any one outside of the land conference committee.

"I first spoke to Sir Antony MacDonnell on August 23 or 24-the day before the first report was adopted. I had no reason o think that his ideas ran on anything like parallel lines with ours. Nevertheless he had information which was essential to he work of the association, and without considering whether he was in agreement or not with the aims of the association, his help was sought and readily given." Referring to the clamor for fuller particulars which was caused by the publication of the first report Lord Dunrayen

Solution of the decline was a good comfortable Saturday's run here today, about nincty of the sellors. The demand was fully equal to the supply, and the receipts changed hands in good season. Trading after buyers and sellers got together, was active and the stuff changed hands at an advance of about 2 including a dinner by the mayor of Portsmouth. There are also to be various forms of social gatherings for the meniculating all the week the market has been in a small bunch selling up to $5.20. Some sales of good hosps looked about a nickle higher very little discrimination was made either on weight or quality and the market consed steady at the advance.

For the week the market has been in a rather uncertain condition, prices fluctuating all the week. The market opened lower on Monday and there was a further week the market strengthened somewhat and on the close a portion of the decline was a further with the consulted from an old wound. Judge Tourgee was taken sart, and the sellors of the sellors are to be a memorable one.

SHEEP-There was only one car of sheep here today, not enough to make a market. For the week the receipts show market. For the week the receipts show a slight decrease as compared to last previous week, but an increase of about 4,000 over the corresponding week of last year. There has been a good tone to the market all through the week, and the demarket all through the week and the demarket all through the week and the demarket all through the week and the market has been a scarcity of choice grades here, and owing to this fact the market form life to 25c higher, while the commoner grades were generally a little stronger. Lambs and ewes showed the most advance as there was more choice stuff of these kinds here. The receipts were about normal all the week and the market has been fairly active. Wooled lambs sold this week up to $1.55. while ewes brought $4.50. Quotations for clipped stock: Good to choice lambs, $2.0036.50, fair to good lambs, on the control of the c

GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

May Wheat Reaches Same Price as Omaha Cash Grain.

PRIMARY RECEIPTS CONTINUE LIGHT

Corn Takes a Decline and Oats Are a Little Weak-Crop Reports Are of Better Tone.

OMAHA, May 20, 1905.

May wheat went up to 38 cents today.

The end of the month is so near that May is getting to be about the same as the cash article, and, as continued light receipts do not relieve the stock supply, cash wheat is getting to be about the same as the cash article, and, as continued light receipts do not relieve the stock supply, cash wheat is holding firm. July wheat advanced to in spite of lower cables and the fact that the American weather map is the best it has been for a week. This was due principally to large trading on active demand. September made a rapid gain in the opening of the session to Sio, but later big sales made it drop off to the below yesterday. May closed at sec, July at 88c and September at 80%c.

Favorable weather, lower cables and a slight loosening up on elevator stocks caused a decline in corn. The drop was table, and old September at 47%c. May finished at 62%c. July at 47%c, old July at 47%c. September at 47%c. May oats were down by an increase in the movement from first hand being primarily responsible. The other months were the same. The May price was 80%c. the July 29% and the September 25%c.

Crop reports are now mainly of a better tone. Numerous reports from Nebraska Friday make a good showing, but Hessian fly was reported in the territory around Aurorat. Kansas reports indicated heavy rains in the west-central part. Reports from the greater portion of the winter wheat belt indicate an improvement of two to five points since May 1, which will largely offset the loss in the southwest.

Broomhall estimates the world's wheat shipment for the coming week at 8,80,000 bushels, against 9,88,000 bushels for the last week. Of this quantity Europe will take about 7,200,000 bushels. Arrivals of St. Louis May 29—CATTLE—Receipts.
