PIANO

The wonder of the present piano building age.

The high regard this piano has attained in the last seventy years—its positive staying qualities—its elegant tone—its perfect action—all these things are recorded to this most honored piano.

Now comes the Knabe piano with additional improvements which puts even more tone to its name—more action to its sale, more voices to ownership, more finish to its beauty and no hammering can knock out this distinguished piano from the minds of the people who know good pianos, but that it is the best instrument made.

The new styles in Grand, Baby Grand and Mignon Grand, as well as the uprights and cabinet Grand at Hospe's warehouses, are works of art and the improved tone is easily recognized.

E. L. STONE DIES SUDDENLY

Old and Prominent Citizen of Omaha Expires from Heart Trouble.

SICK NOT MORE THAN HOUR AND HALF

Goes to Bed Apparently in Best of Health and is Dead at Two Fifteen in the Morning.

Emerson L. Stone, formerly president of the Dewey & Stone Furniture company, died at his residence, 3254 Farnam street, at 2:15 o'clock Wednesday morning, of heart failure.

The death of Mr. Stone was very sudden, coming after an illness of but an hour and a half. Mr. Stone had been up and around all day Tuesday and was in the best of health and spirits. Tuesday evening he was walking around the lawn of his residence and retired at the usual hour, but about 12:45 his family was aroused by Mr. Stone complaining of a severe pain in his breast in the region of the heart. The pain became more acute and Dr. W. F. Milroy was summoned. But a few minutes after the arrival of the doctor Mr. Stone was dead.

Just what brought on the fatal stroke is not known, but indigestion which foisted the muscles of the heart is suspected.

Old Resident in Omaha.

Mr. Stone came to Omaha about thirty-nine years ago and immediately engaged in the furniture business with C. H. Dewey and John Trimble, which formed the firm of Dewey, Stone & Co., which firm had been in operation since up to late last February, when it discontinued business. Up to this time Mr. Stone had always been actively engaged in the carrying on of the business, but when the firm went out last winter he retired.

Mr. Stone leaves a wife, one daughter and a son, all of whom are now living in Omaha. His daughter, Mrs. F. J. Adams, is now making her home at the residence of her father. Mr. Adams is a commercial traveling man. The son, Charles B. Stone, is also living at the family residence.

It was only a short time ago that the father of Mrs. C. B. Stone, S. T. Josselyn, an old resident of Omaha, died in Dawson and was buried in Omaha.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery, and it is announced by the family that the services will be of the simplest character.

At a special meeting of the Veteran Firemen's association last evening arrangements were made to attend the funeral of their late brother veteran, E. L. Stone. Martin Dunham and Andrew Frick were appointed to act as pallbearers to represent the veterans. Nathan Elliott, Charles Gruening and John Bonner were appointed as a committee to draft suitable resolutions of respect on the death of their late comrade. The members will meet at the residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in citizen's dress.

Hundred Delegates from Many Cities Meet in Three Days' Convention.

SESSIONS HELD AT BOYLE'S INSTITUTION

Address of Welcome Made by President Wright of Commercial Club—Banquet at Millard Thursday Night.

About 100 delegates from cities of the United States will attend a three days' annual convention of the Central Commercial Teachers' association which began Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 in the new Boyle college at Eighteenth and Harney streets, where all sessions will be held.

The association covers the states of Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri and Colorado, including not only instructors in commercial colleges, but those who teach in these lines in high schools and other institutions. Forenoon are to be devoted to meetings of separate sections and the afternoon to meetings of the general body, before which the majority of contributions will be given. This plan is used because it is thought to centralize the efforts and interest of attendants.

Headquarters of the gathering are established at the Millard hotel, where an informal banquet will be held Thursday evening. The new Boyle college building, being admittedly one of the finest of its kind in the country, makes an exceptionally attractive place for the sessions of the convention. A large room has been set aside for exhibits of typewriters, text books, adding machines, filing systems and other office appliances. Publishing, school supply, typewriter and furniture houses have made this showing one of the best ever got together.

Closing of the Session.

The sessions will close Friday afternoon with an address by Edward Rosewater, Superintendent Davidson of the Omaha public schools is on the program for a talk concerning the commercial course in high schools, he being one of a large number of local educators upon the long program. Vice President M. J. O'Connor of Creighton university will speak in the relation of psychology to teaching, Thursday afternoon.

The opening session was to have been held Wednesday morning, but was postponed until the afternoon, owing to the late coming of delegates, only about twenty-five having arrived up to noon.

W. S. Wright, president of the Omaha Commercial club, welcomed the delegates. "I esteem it a great privilege to be asked to welcome the delegates of a body which represents what I consider the foundations of business success," said he. "Representing the Commercial club of Omaha I want to thank you for the work you have done and will continue to do for the business interests generally, and to assure you that the business interests appreciate it. There is no higher philanthropy than assisting young persons to proper manhood and true womanhood by proper associations and training."

Response by J. A. White.

John Alfred White of the Missouri (Ill.) high school, who is secretary of the association, responded for it, speaking of the great advantages obtained by commercial teachers from contact with business men. He said teaching induces narrowness and that such intercourse meant new views and harmonizing of the general relations. He declared it more fitting that the head of the commercial organization should be chosen to welcome the convention to the city than any other.

In his address President A. C. Van Sant of Omaha said:

"We have met to devise better ways for conducting commercial schools and preparing those who are to go into the business offices of the country. Our obligations teach us to teach the ethics of business and the necessity of loyalty to employers as well as technical knowledge. Fidelity to business interests is just as important as any instruction we have to give. We have won the confidence and respect of the public. The commercial school, like a thousand other things that have moved the world, is an American invention. Our work is made necessary by the fact that this is one of the largest manufacturing and commercial nations in the world."

W. N. Watson of Lincoln read the first paper, which concerned the teaching of shorthand. He was followed by R. F. Williams, editor of Inspiration, of Des Moines, with a paper on "Training Versus Teaching." "Many teachers mistake noise for real teaching," commented Mr. Williams, "and think when they have recited the lesson themselves that the pupils have learned it."

English in Business.

In discussing "The What and How of English in the Business School" in his paper, Carl C. Marshall of the Goodyear-Marshall Publishing company of Cedar Rapids, used a hammer with ironclad force against the orthodox teaching of grammar. He said experience had shown him that correct writing and speaking are matters of habit and not of the application of rules. He said that in teaching English there is too much learning and reciting and not enough "doing." He also made fun of the "wooden conventionalism" of the forms of letter writing taught. N. B. Van Matre, president of the Omaha Business university, in discussing the paper did not agree with all Mr. Goodyear said, and advocated a more moderate course.

A. C. Ong of the Nebraska Business college in a paper on "The Causes of Success or Failure of Commercial Students" found the chief cause of failure to lie in social evils. He recommended that the social mingling of students be not encouraged in any way.

Just before the adjournment in the afternoon a resolution of regard for J. Clifford Kennedy, a commercial educator who died in Detroit recently, was adopted as prepared by J. R. Gregg of Chicago. Mr. Gregg, President Van Sant, F. A. Keefer and others eulogized Mr. Kennedy, who was connected at one time with business colleges in Iowa.

Among the Students.

Among the educators who reported yesterday were: W. N. Watson, Lincoln, D. Crowley, Iowa Falls, Ia.; W. D. Harris, Vernal, N. Y.; Carl Marshall, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; A. W. Dudley, Des Moines, Ia.; J. R. Gregg, Chicago, Ill.; M. J. O'Connor, University Place, Neb.; J. E. Freed, Bellevue, Neb.; Elizabeth Irish, Iowa City, Ia.; Ava Blank, Des Moines, Ia.; R. F. Williams, Chicago, Ill.; Vincent, Shenandoah, Ia.; Higinbotham.

The sessions this morning will begin promptly at 9 o'clock. Following is the remainder of the program, together with papers by M. G. Rohrbough and A. W. Dudley, which were deferred from yesterday:

SNOW FLAKE BREAD

Is Baked In Steam Ovens

(The only steam ovens in Omaha.)

This steam baking process allows the steam to slowly escape while the loaf is baking. It changes the outer part of the loaf making a yellowish brown mellow crust. It prevents the drying out and the evaporation of the nutritious elements. Thus you will find in SNOW FLAKE BREAD that pure, rich, natural taste that is so much admired in good bread.

It's a big wholesome white loaf for 5 cents.

OVER FOUR HUNDRED GROCERS SELL IT
