Forward is mounted a pair of 12.4 inch guns in a turret protected by eleven inches of Krupp armor. Another pair of guns, of same size, is mounted aft. There are thirty other guns of the intermediate battery and the vessels carry two submerged torpedo tubes and two above water. A special feature of the vessels is their vertical longitudinal bulkheads of inch armor, running throughout the whole length of the ship at a distance of nine or ten feet inboard from the ships' sides, designed to localize the effect of a blow from a torpedo. Rojestvensky's Preparation.

Advices from a reliable quarter received here are to the effect that three Russian fought, in which both combatants suffered battleships, three armored cruisers and several colliers were off Shanghai Friday. It is believed that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky sent sufficient ships to the vicinity of Shanghai in order to induce the belief that his main fleet was there while the major portion of it pushed on toward the Corean straits.

Several Russian colliers were at Shanghai at 9 o'clock Saturday night. Private telegrams received here from Shanghai say that as fast as the cargoes of the colliers are consumed the vessels are dismissed by Vice Admiral Rojestvensky and return to

DEMAND FACTS

About What You Ent. When it comes to food, demand to know the facts about what goes into your stomach.

Not only that it is pure, but that you are not decrived in the description of its contents and condition. Some flaked breakfast foods that have thus far failed, are now being advertised in close imitation of the Grape-Nuts advertising, thinking in at way to many make a success of the

But false statements of the merits of human food will never on earth build up a business. These flaked foods are not pre-digested. They are not fully cooked and the starch in them is starch still and has not been turned to sugar as claimed. Chemical analysis tells the truth and the analysis of the famous chemists of the world show Grape-Nuts the only prepared breakfast food in which the starch part of the wheat and barley has been transformed into sugar and therefore ready for immediate digestion. Why is this true! All the thin rolled flake foods are made by soaking the grains of wheat or oats in water, then rolling, drying and packing. These operations do not cook or pre-digest the starch.

Contrasted with this pretense, observe the care, method and skill in making

The barley is soaked about 100 hours, then it is slowly warmed for some days and sprouted, the diastase being developed and part of the starch turned to sugar (and later on all of it), then the grains are baked and the sprouts stripped off. Then comes grinding, sifting and mixing with the creamy colored flour made from white and maccaroni wheat. This mixture must be skillfully made in right proportions. This blended flour contains just the ingredients demanded by nature to rebuild the soft gray substance in the nerve centers and brain, but how to make the food easy to digest, that was the question.

It certainly would not do to mix in drugs, for there is a certain failure sure to come to the person depending on drugs to digest food. They may do for a temporary expedient, but pure food and digestible food is the only final resort and safe way. So to change the remaining starch part and prepare the other elements in this blended flour it is made up into massive louves like bread, the inside being dark cream color and quite sticky to the touch. These loaves are sliced and again go through long cooking at certain temperatures. Then the rock-hard sifces are each one carefully inspected and ground ready for packing and use, having gone through ten or twelve hours in the different operations.

When finished, each little granule show a sparkling substance on its surface. A magnifying glass will bring it out clearer and develop little pieces of pure dextrose not put on "or poured over" (as ing to the degree of his crimes. However, the head of a large sanitarium once stated in his paper, thus exposing his appalling ignorance of food processes), but this sugar exudes from the interior of each as the starch is slowly turned to sugar in the and each has his champions and admirers. process of manufacture. This kind of sugar is exactly like what is found in the auman intestines, provided the starch of the grains, potatoes, bread, rice, cake, etc, etc., has been perfectly digested. But many are weak in that form of digestion and yet peed the starches, so Grape-Nuts aupplies them pre-digested and ready to go

Visitors are shown freely through the works and can follow the steps of making Grape-Nuts from the grain to the finished product. The proportions of different kinds of flour, and the temperatures are not disclosed and it seems impossible for others to steal these secrets of the makers. But purity, cleanitness and skill are shown in every corner of the immense pure food factories. People who care for results from choicely selected food, those who want the food to rebuild the soft gray substance in brain and nerves that give the go, the vigor, the life, will understand why the imitators who try to copy the announcements about Grape-Nuts have failed

There's a reason for Grape-Nuts and a profound one. - ...

He said in part:

Life is a puzzle men have sought in vain to solve. We know not whence we came and we know not whither we so. A little sunshine, a little rain, a little joy, a little toll; there are tears and there is laughter; there is love and there is sorrow—and we call it life. And what a brief span it covers! How short the time between the hour that ushers us into the world and that which tolls our leaving it. Our consent is not asked to our birth, and it is denied to us in our death. We lift our puny hands in vain to stay the flight of time; we strut our brief hour upon the stage and fit unnoted into the wings.

Ferris Stock Company at the Boyd. The Ferris Summer Stock company opened ts third week at the Boyd theater with play quite well suited to the strength f the company, and one of much interest to the patrons, "The Danites." Many years have elapsed since McKee Rankin t the present generation recall the Danites | vessel was the Endymion. as anything but a myth, but to the people of those times, who sought to cross the promised land." they were a stern reality. 6:20 p. m. Its position was latitude 42:50, Harte threw up into high relief some of longitude 42:50. The wind was from the the incidents, and made a really strong play out of them. It is of value as giving a close view of a phase of life that has vanished from America. Two audiences that tested the capacity of the theater arrived tonight, reports that on May 23 witnessed the performances, and grew very enthusiastic over the play and the players.

Miss Pavey finds the double role of Nancy Williams and Billy Piper quite to her liking. If she appeared winsome in a garb of that period, the simple gown held at the opera house this morning, which and bonnet, what shall be said of her as a was filled to the doors long before 10:30 boy? She certainly looks well in trousers, in spite of the rain. The exercises con- and this without appearing masculine sisted of invocation by Rev. L. C. Swan while she gives a sympathetic and intelliof the Christian church, reading of the gent life to the part. Rose Curry is very scripture lesson by Rev. H. B. Foskett of good as the "Widder" Brown, and makes the Baptist church, prayer by Rev. John the part a strong one. Hattie Carmon telle is right in her element as Captain Tommy, and Miss Rutherford makes a good Bunker Hill. Mr. Dowlan finds it and Rev. A. W. Bell of the Episcopal the lines of Sandy McGee something that more nearly suits him, and gives a much more satisfactory account of himself than W. Weeks and a solo, "The Blue and the he has done heretofore. Mr. Barbour's "Parson" is a capital piece of acting, and Mr. McKee does very well as "Judge" Wise. The rest of the cast is well placed and the setting of the piece is quite appropriate. "The Danites" will be presented this evening and Tuesday evening.

> "La Tosca" at the Krug. Melbourne MacDowell began his second > week of effort at the Krug yesterday, this time offering "La Tosca." Up date he has been unable to overturn the original plan of Sardou and make the after chasing the other one several blocks man the start part. Sardou's dramas were written for a woman, and the men are all subsidiary, and Mr. MacDowell's best en deavors are hardly sufficient to reverse this order. He makes Baron Scarpia very monster of cruelty and duplicity, of low cunning and open treachery, and omits entirely the little touches of refinement by which other and greater actors have glossed the baron's actions. Instead of making him appear the polished gentleman who is driven to these extreme measures by the exigencies of his profession and the political necessities of the crown he is serving, MacDowell makes him appear to take real satisfaction in his deviltry his cry of triumph, at the climax of the third act, is the joyous yelp of a monster who has feasted on human suffering, and not the conscientious utterances of a minister of the law who feels he has done his duty. In his scene with La Tosca in the fourth act, where the woman gets her chance, he is the libertine in the grosses form. All in all, Mr. MacDowell seems able merely to emphasize the unpleasant side of Scarpia, without lending it a scintilla of the elegance that is the only redeeming feature of the part.

Miss Fuller is even better as La Toscs than as Cleopatra. In this character not so much is demanded of her voice, and its limitations more nearly fit with the requirements of the role. She has the true perspective, and very accurately values the situations. In the earlier scenes she is life and vivacity, with her peculiar whimsicality that is a part and parcel of the character, and in the third and fourth acts she very nearly approaches greatness. She seems to feel all the storm and stress of emotion through which she passes, and enacts her part with discriminating taste and judgment, so that it rises far above its surroundings.

The others in the cast do fairly well what is asked of them. The settings and costumes are appropriate, and the performance moves smoothly enough. "La Tosca" will be on all week, with an extra matinee on Tuesday and the regular matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. It was witnessed by two very large and very well pleased audiences yesterday.

A Daughter of Erin" at the Orpheum Twice yesterday Mr. Frank Keene and his associates paid the penalty of being unknown in a large city. They offered at the Orpheum theater "A Daughter of Erin," a modern Irish comedy-drama, and just twice did the local public resolutely withhold its patronage. The play varies but little from the conventional Irish comedy-drams, with the exception that it is a trifle more modern in its time than most of them and the company is quite equal to its requirements. It will be offered again this evening for the final performance. Tonight is designated as Ancient Order of Hibernian night.

HAMBURG IN THE LEAD Steamer St. Paul Passes Six Racing Yachta in Mid-Ocean.

NEW YORK, May 28 .- Captain Passov of the American line steamer St. Paul, which arrived today, reported passing two of the yachts. One undoubtedly was the Endymion. The other was at first supposed to be the Atlantic, but afterwards was considered to be the Utowana. Captain Passow also received a wireless message from the Minnehaha reporting the yachts. This message, he says, was sent to Siasconsett by his operator, but was not printed correctly in the press dispatches of Sunday. The message as received by the St. Paul, from the Minnehaha was: "Hamburg leading Ailsa by thirteen miles. Then came Endymion, Atlantic, Fleur de Lys and Valhalia, long distance astern. Hamburg's position, May 23, 6:25 p. m., latitude 42:20, longitude 43:15."

Two of the contesting yachts, supposed to be leaders, in the ocean yacht race for the German emperor's cup, were roundly cheered in mid-ocean by the passengers and crew of the White Star liner Celtic from Liverpool and Queenstown, which arrived in port today. On Wednesday last, in the forencon, the German schooner Hamburg and the American schooner Endymion were sighted. Both yachts were within easy vision of the Celtic's passengers and presented beautiful pictures as they were under full sail, every inch of canvass they could carry being spread to catch the fresh southerly breeze that was blowing.

As soon as the first "Sail Ho" was hailed from the lookout in the Celtic's crow's nest, everybody aboard became interested. Through powerful glasses it was identified as the swift Hamburg. By the time the yacht was abreast the Uner, every inch of space along its port side was lined with enthusiastic passengers. Cheer after cheer went up for the German vessel. Flags and handkerchiefs were waved until the vessel was hull down satern. The Hamburg passed within three miles of the Celtic It was on the starboard tack and was making very fast time.

While those aboard the Celtic were still talking about the yacht race, a second vessel was sighted. It was soon made out as the American schooner Endymion. At the Celtic approached it it was given a rousing salute of cheers and flags and handkerchiefs were waved by the passengers. The Endymion was passed at 10:28 a. m., ship's time, on Wednesday, and was 1,320 miles from Sandy Hook. The Hamburg, which was passed two hours previously, was

1.357 miles from the starting line. On its arrival tonight the steamer Hamburg, from Hamburg, Dover and Boulogne, reported three of the yachts in the ocean race. On May 23, at 10:45 a. m., in latiand wife made us acquainted with the tude 46:05, longitude 32:46, a two-masted. beauties of this strong picture of life in black painted hull schooner, believed to the west of nearly half a century ago, as be the Hamburg, was sighted. On May 24, drawn by Bret Harte, who was an observer at 4:10 p. m., in latitude 43:08, longitude and almost a participant in some of the 42:21, a two-masted schooner yacht with stirring events of that time. Very few black hull was passed. It is believed this

The British vacht Valhalla was passed by the steamer Hamburg on May 24 at south-southwest, blowing a strong breeze. The sea was rough and the weather rainy.

Captain O'Hagen of the Phoenix line steamer British King, from Antwerp, which at 6:55 p. m., in latitude 40:47, longitude 47:58, he passed an American yacht painted white, ketch rigged must and ligger. The vessel was the Ailsa. One hour later a schooner rigged yacht was passed. This is thought to be the Atlantic or Fleur
