The catastrophe which has overtaken the Russian fleet has given great impetus to the demand upon Emperor Nicholas for the immediate convocation of a national assembly without awaiting action upon the report of the Bouligin rescript commission. With the single exception of the reactionary Sviet the press pours out indignation and wrath upon the bureaucracy, which is held responsible for all the misfortunes of the war. Only the Novosti and the Rourse Gazette, however, declare that peace should be concluded. The Russ, now the widest read paper in Russia, says: "Those guilty of Russia's disgrace should be overwhelmed Blindfolded for two years, the Russian people have been marching to the brink of destruction, but the bandages are now torn from the eyes of 130,000,000 of Russians and they will neither be led or driven over the precipice. Let the people speak. The bureaucracy has had its say and has crowned its work of national shame and humiliation. Let it now listen to what have supposted it in luxury have to say. From this moment a convocation of the people has become as necessary as the air we breathe. "Don't you know that he is a gambler. "I never saw him gamble." "Did not your office tip it off to Dennis when his policy shop was to be raided?" "The tip came from your office, so you nan Gunsolus swore," answered Sherry and the jury smiled.

During this time Connell was making frequent objections and when he finally got old of the witness he asked: "Wasn't Thomas deputy county attorney during this time."

"For about three years." "Did he file a complaint against Ton "No sir."

Attorneys Clash.

When Thomas asked the witness if he had not acted as bodyguard for Tom Dennison after the supreme court had issued : mandate for the sheriff to put him in jail and the sheriff had refused, Connell objected and then added:

"I will let that go in if you will introduce your Chicago speech about the crime of two states." Thomas said he was willing, and then the two exchanged a few personal remarks.

It was brought out in these personal re marks that Tom Dennison wanted to come to Iowa for trial at once, without going through the habeas corpus proceedings, but that Connell advised him not to. Williams, proprietor of a me senger service in Omaha, said he worked for Dennison from 1896 for about six years. He testified that during December, 1900, Shercliffe came to the office of Dennis and in the presence of Patsy Grant and John Dennison asked Tom Dennison to make out an account of what he owed Dennison, so he could show it to his mother in order to get her to pay him his share of his father's estate. A number of the items, the witness said, Dennison objected to, but that Shercliffe said to put them in anyhow to swell the bill. What purported to be the original statement was shown Williams and he said it looked like the one Dennison had made out and had given to Shercliffe. After Williams had conclude his testimony court adjourned for noon.

Afternoon Session.

The large crowd which had waited ps dently throughout the day to hear the de fendant called to the stand was rewarded for their patience about 5 o'clock when At torney Connell called Dennison to testify. He was only fairly started when court adabout 16 ociock in the morning we went aboard a fisher boat. All of the officers were sent to Shimonoseki.

In the engagement fought off Liancourt Rocks the Russian battleships were surrounded by Japanese ships which circled about them, pouring in a terrible fire, and they almost immediately fell into hopeless confusion. Seeing their plight Vice Admiral Togo signalled from the battleship Mikasa a demand to know whether the Russians were ready to surrender. Our ships compiled with the demand. about his early life and down to the time of the Pollock robbery. In answer to questions this information was obtained as to Dennison's life and habits. He was born in Delaware county, Ia., on a farm, in 1859; removed with his parents to Dakota county, Neb., where they settled on a farm There he remained until 1873, working or the farm; then to Ottawa, Ia., where he worked on the farm of John Murphy a roar of the cannonade as so terrible that year; then to Delaware county, where again he was employed on a farm. In succession he then worked on farms in Sac county and Hamburg until 1879, when he went to Leadville. In the fall of '79 and '80 the rear. witness said he prospected for silver Then he went to New Mexico and then back to Kokomo, Colo., where he worked in a mine until the spring of 1882, when he again went to Leadville. There he worked in the Ruby mine until 1883. ceived by the steamer Empress of Japan

'Then what did you do?" asked Connell. "I went to work as a floor walker of manager in the 'Old Texas' gambling house." In the fall of '85 Dennison testified he bought a fourth interest in the place; '86, sold his interest and went to the "Opera House" gambling place. Then to Denver, where he bought an interest in the "Arcade" with Charlie Pierce, which had been there to see Tom Dennison. Rehe retained until some time in '87, when he sold out and went back to Leadville as boss of the Old Texas. Then the witness testified he operated gambling houses in Aspen, Col., Butte and Ogden, until 1890, when he went to Omaha. He then went to Helena, remained there awhile, then to Balt Lake, and in 1892 he came to Omaha, where he has since lived. He was mar ried to Ada Provost of Mills county, Ia. in 1892.

First Meeting with Shereliffe. Coming down to the real interesting part f the case the witness in answer to questions, said he first met Shercliffe in Salt Lake in 1892, while he (Dennison) was working in a gambling house. He said he knew Shercliffe as a gambler and not as a highwayman. "When was the next time you saw him? "At his trial in Logan." "Did you know anything of his arrest before that time?" "No, sir. Not until Hooker came to me with. letters from James Marshall and But Masterson. At that time Hooker was rested was Shercliffe.

"Did yeu go with him?" "No, sir. I was summoned as a witness went over during the trial and before I testified, court adjourned for a couple of days for some reason, and I then made a second trip. I left for home the afternoon holes were trimmed, debris taken out and I testified." the cavities put in shape for a filling of "Up to that time had you taken any interest in Shercliffe?" "No ste." "Had you spent a dollar in his defense?"

"No sir." "Did you expend this item $83,075 in this statement? "No str.

"Did you expend the item $5,274.50?" "Up to this time had you any money be longing to Shercliffs or that he had any interest in?"

"No sir." Account with Shercliffe.

"When was the first time you received any money belonging to Shercliffe?"
"September 22, 1898, from M. P. Hooker, $1,730.56."

"Dennison then identified the receipt in the Hooker account book as being his writing. He told then that he went to St. Louis in the spring and asked Hooker Fidler last December, was discharged from if he remembered his account with Shercliffe and if he had kept the book. Hooker had then, he said, dug down in a trunk and found the book. "When Hooker turned over to me the $1,750," the witness said, "he gave me as

Previous to calling Dennison to the stand the prosecution recalled Hooker, the alleged banker of Shercliffe, to question him regarding a letter which he had written to Attorney Cochran during the Shercliffe The letter which the prosecution introduced as the substance of the one said to have been written by Hooker was to the effect that Hooker had spent $700 on his trip to Logan in behalf of Shercliffe; that the money was his and that the "boys" had failed to come up as they said they would, consequently financial matters were tight, and he objected to the employment of another attorney if it was to cost any

"Who were you talking of employing?" "Tom Patterson of Colorado," was the answer.

"Did you write that letter?"

"I may have written something like that. "In that letter you say the money you spent was your own and in your testimony you said it belonged to Shercliffe. "Yes it belonged to Shercliffe,"

"When were you telling the truth?" "I told the truth when I testified, and wasn't lying when I wrote the letter. Mr. Cochran and I exchanged several letters and we had discussed something about en ploying Tom Patterson. I had paid Cochran $500 and had put up $1,000 more, and thought that was enough. I wrote what I did so he wouldn't insist on getting more money. That's all there is to that, and I don't think that lying one bit. He wanted to get another attorney, and I didn't want to go any stronger.' The prosecution then tried to mix up the witness by asking him about the bank in which he put the $1,000 for Cochran. "I put up the money with A. L. Harvey a banker, who was a witness to my contract with Cochran. When the case was ended we went to Cochran's office and he gave me back the $1,000,"

Harvey has since died, the witness said he understood. "Do you mean to say, Mr. Hooker," said Beeson, who was doing the questioning,

"that gamblers frequently deposited money with you?' "Sure they did." "How much have you had at any time?" "Oh, between $50,000 and $75,000. "Tell them who deposited that with you," interrupted Cochran.

"Dan Stewart of Dallas." Joe Stebbins of Missouri Valley was called to identify p'atures of the Dunkard church in the rear of which Shercliffe claims to have buried the diamonds. He had lived in the town seventeen years ago and then removed away for some years and for the last seven years had been living in a house next to the church. He did not remember that there had been such a fence as testified to by Shercliffe in the rear of the church. He was later called back by the prosecution and said he had seen some posts broken off east of the church and wire fastened to a couple of trees in the

Why Money Was Borrowed. John Dennison corroborated the testimony of Frank Williams about Sheroliffe asking for the financial statement and said he witnessed Tom Dennison when he wrote it out and gave it to Shercliffe. This was what is claimed to be the original statement made on a piece of wrapping paper in the policy shop. On cross-examination he said Shercliffe had suggested many of the items, while Dennison had put in others and that Shercliffe wanted the statement to show as big as possible. He denied that Shercliffe had ever visited at his home or garding the money Tom Dennison had borrowed from the Omaha Savings bank he said Tom Dennison had borrowed the money to loan to Jim Dennison, who was For three or four nights after the rob-

BONAPARTE FOR SECRETARY

Baltimore Fublicist to Succeed Morton in Navy Department July 1.

PRESIDENT'S SELECTION CAUSES SURPRISE

Mr. Morton Will Become President of New Subway Railroad Company at New York.

WASHINGTON, May 31. - President Roosevelt today authorized the announce ment that Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore, Md., would be appointed secretary of the navy to succeed Paul Morton, who earlier in the day stated he would retire July 1 to go to New York to take charge of the plans for the construction of the subway system for operation in connection with the surface lines. The president said that no other changes in the personnel of the cabinet were likely. Secretary Shaw has already indicated his intention of re tiring from the cabinet, probably next February. Rumors of the retirement of Attorney General Moody have been pubished, but it is understood to be his intention to continue in the cabinet for year and a half and perhaps longer.

Bonaparte's Selection a Surprise. To all President Rooseveit's closest advisers the selection of Mr. Bonaparte as the head of the Navy department came as distinct surprise, although it had been determined on by the president for some lime in anticipation of Mr. Morton's retirement. In all the gossip Mr. Bonaparte as not been suggested as Mr. Morton's possible successor. For many years Mr. Bonaparte has been an intimate friend of the president. So great is President Roose velt's confidence in him that on many matters of national concern he has sought his advice. To determine accurately the legal phases of the postal frauds, the president designated Mr. Bonaparte and Holmes Con rad to investigate the subject, and on their report he took decisive action without hes-

Eminent as a lawyer and as a publicist and a constant advocate of civil service reform. Mr. Bonaparte has not been supposed to have more than an academic in terest in the navy. In the upbuilding of the navy he is known to be in perfect accord with the president and doubtless will carry into effect the views of Mr. Roosevelt in the strengthening of the naval es tablishment.

Morton Goes to New York. Mr. Morton's announcement of his expected retirement followed a conference with the president lasting about an hour.

It had been stated with authority that Mr. Morton would retire July 1, provided the president would accept his resignation from that date, and today's statement, therefore, officially confirms what has been known for several weeks. When he retires he will have rounded out exactly one year of cabinet life. He succeeded William H. Moody of Massachusetts, who became attorney general. Secretary Morton gave out the following statement:

Paul Morton announces that he will re-tire from the cabinet on July 1, 1905. He will go to New York to live and will be-come associated with Thomas F. Ryan. It is understood Mr. Morton will take active charge of the plans for the construction of the proposed comprehensive system of underground rapid transit lines in New underground rapid transit lines in York City for operation in connection existing surface lines. Mr. Ryan, with whom Mr. Morton is to be associated, is a well known capitalist of New York, who has control of a large portion of the surface street car lines of the city and proposes to construct a large subway system. He was one of the supporters of Judge Parker in the last presidential campaign and was a delegate from Virginia to the St. Louis convention, as he has a home in that state.

NEW YORK, May BI .- The surface lines in this city are operated by the Metropoiltan Street Railway company, which is controlled by the late William C. Whitney and his associates. This company plans to build an extensive subway system in competition with the Interborough Rapid Transit company, which operates the existing subway and the Manhattan elevated lines.

Bonaparte Accepta Pince. BALTIMORE, May 31 .- Charles J. Bons parte was presiding over a meeting of the executive committee of the Reform league, of which he is chairman, when the Associated Press dispatch announcing his ap pointment to succeed Paul Morton as secretary of the navy, was shown him tonight. In relation thereto he said:

The president tendered me the position about ten days ago. After due reflection I decided it was my duty to accept. I had no reason to think previously that he had my name under consideration for this office. It is needless for me to say that I appreciated very highly the great and unexpected compliment implied in his offer. Nevertheless, I did not accept without much hesitation, for I have always been very reluctant to enter public life. There is nothing more to be said, except that I will try to do my duty and hope to make a creditable record. The president tendered me the positio

The letter was forwarded to Mudiavia, Ind., where Mr. Schults is recuperating, and as Dr. Braun's address was given as 1409 North Twentieth street, Omaha, Mr. Schultz passed it on to W. H. Mr. Elbourn showed the letter to a reporter for The Bee, who, knowing there are more religious cults in the world than there are hairs in most heads, and each one interesting, went to 1409 North Twentleth street. He was told that Dr. Braun had moved south in the winter, presumably to start his colony, for which Mr. Jentsch says land was provided. In the directory the doctor is listed as publisher, but the tenants at his old address knew nothing about him or his vocation. The South American was anxious to know if it were safe to send money to Dr. Braun, and seemed to think highly both of the doctor and his plans.
