YOU WANT THE BEST

For the least---so do we---but are you sure you get it?

Watching the price and the deceptive ads of others will prove an expensive ordeal. There are today on the tables of supposedly reputable Omaha clothiers-vast quantities of "mercerized cotton fabrics," which are rich in appearance at first -but wear them, give them active service, and you soon discover the deception.

The Berg-Swanson label assures chemically tested all wool fabrics. The small thing to look for-the big thing to find.

MILWAUKEE PROTESTS AN ASSESSMENT

Members of Board Intimate Plainly They Do Not Agree with Contention of the Representative of Company.

LINCOLN, June 2 .- (Special.)-Tomorrow the body of ex-Governor Robert W. Furnas, who died last night, will lie in state at the Masonic temple, with a funeral guard watching over it, and tomorrow night shortly before midnight it will be removed to St. Paul's church, where the Ecottish Rite Masons will hold the Knight Kadosh funeral services in all their impressive solemnity. The deceased had been a past grand commander and a past grand master. The Masonic order, which has undertaken to conduct the funeral services, will pay the greatest possible token of respect and tribute. The friends of the dead pioneer will be admitted by cards, to be secured of local members of the order. This afternoon at 4 o'clock services were held over the body at the parlors of the Lindell hotel. Rev. H. C. Swearingen of the First Presbyterian church spoke briefly. Governor Mickey represented the state. The flag on the capital is at half-staff. These services were held at the request of Mrs. Furnas. The pallbearers, this afternoon, were the following friends and associates of the former governor; W. R. Mellor, Loup City; H. L. Cook, St. Paul; C. H. Rudge, Lincoln; S. C. Bassett, Gibbon; J. B. Dinsmore, Sutton; J. H. Barrett, Lincoln; Prof. C. E. Bessey and Prof.

Milwaukee Protest of No Avail. Today the State Board of Equalization granted a special hearing to Tax Commissioner Dudley of the Milwaukee, who protested against the assessment of its trackage facilities at Omaha on the ground that the statute fails to grant that power to the board. At the conclusion of his argument he was informed by Governor Mickey that the road comes into the state to get its business and that it should be taxed in fairness to the other railways and the taxpayers. Dudley filed a statement under protest and the members of the board intimated that the assessment would be based on the rolling stock used on the 6.13 miles over which the road operates in Nebraska. Dudley took the ground that the action of the board in assessing a road with bare trackage rights would revolutionize the taxation of railways in the state. He insisted that if the board considered trackage the same as mileage owned and operated within the meaning of the statute it would be required to allow all the Nebraska roads to report their trackage rights in other states, thus lessening the proportion of the total value to be credited to this state. Another argument on which he relied was the claim that the legislature failed to provide any method for the distribution of the assessment where a road has mere trackage rights, since the basis of distribution fixed by the statutes is the mileage of main line track in each district. He contended that trackage was a different thing and that there is no way in which the distribution can be effected. He con- Commissioner Eaton, who are members of

It is contended that the main purpose of the convention was to provide for the forthcoming election and not to set up a fixed rule for the future. Still another contention is that the will build one of their own, courts are bound to allow the legislature to construe the political sections of the

As to the claim that the bill would extend office, the brief sets out that with the exeption of the regents and judges the offices July celebration are created by the legislature and therefore subject to its control. With reference to the constitutional offices, it is urged that they would be simply holding over until their successors were chosen, the word term being understood as covering not tervening until a successor is named. As turned to Lincoln Friday afternoon, after a only the six-year period, but the time into the judges, it is claimed that the meaning of the constitution was that the legislature should provide for their election at the expiration of the terms of those first chosen, whether it came in an odd or an even-numbered year. As to the regents, it is argued that the constitution commanded that they be chosen at the first election following the adoption of the constitution, which took place in 1875. In this respect it is claimed that the biennial law is a return to the ideas of the constitution framers, who had not intended to have the regents elected when the constitution which provided for their election was submitted to the electors.
