WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

If other state federation presidents follow the example of Mrs. James Jackson of the Georgia Federation, Mr. Cleveland will victim of an enforced education regarding women's clubs. Mrs. Jackson has proposed that every state president send him a copy of the state year book. She explains thus: "Mr. Cleveland is an able lawyer, therefore knows that any person or body of persons attacked, no matter how insignificant, has the right of defense. We are told he is a just man, therefore, in all fairness, he will read the evidence on the side of the party attacked. The records of the accomplishments of the club women of the country are contained in the year book of every state in the union. On these books the General Federation can afford to rest its case. However, if Mr. Cleveland is the broad-minded man we beleve him to be it will be in order for him to write his impressions after receiving information in some journal or magazine of weight read by sensible, thinking impressed itself on our minds, we continued to indulge our appetites, till at last I was prostrated for a long time with a serious illness, during which I was simply starved on 'gruel and things.' One day while in this condition I demanded Grape-Nuts, merely because I wanted something I could chew. My wish was complied with, inder protest at first, however, and then us no bad results followed, the crisp, nutty grains were allowed me in the way of numoring a harmless whim.

"To the surprise of everyone, the stomach which had persistently refused to retain the sloppy messes usually fed to sick folks, readily assimilated the Grape-Nuts, and I was soon able to take two spoonfuls three times a day, and when I got to that point my health and strength came back to me rapidly. On recovery, and taking up my work again, I adhered to Grape-Nuts food for breakfast and supper, eating a good, plain dinner at noon. In four weeks I gained 10 pounds in weight. I have constantly used Grape-Nuts food ever since and greatly to my advantage.

"My faith in Grape-Nuts was a matter of much jesting to my family, and once when my birthday came around, I was told that a special dinner would be prepared to honor the anniversary. When I entered the dining room I was surprised to 1, John E. Cronk, carrier, Maggie Cronk, find it decorated with Grape-Nuts boxes, some empty, some full, and some filled with flowers, etc., etc., and the joke was hilariously enjoyed. My time came, however, when I returned the surprise by producing a delicious Grape-Nuts pudding, and dates stuffed with rolled Grape-Nuts and cream. Then 'those who came to scoff remained to gorge themselves,' if I may be pardoned the expression, It has not been difficult since that day to win converts to Grape-Nuts." Name given by

CHICAGO, June 5 .- Cornellum P. Shea, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and leader in the strike which has existed in Chicago for the last two months, was arrested and taken to jail tonight. With him on the journey from the saloon in which he was arrested to the office of the sheriff and then to jail was Hugh McGee, president of the Truck Delegar, unless that such a step is necessary. which has existed in Chicago for the last Truck Drivers' union. Both men were taken into custody on caplases Issued on indictments charging them with conspiracy, which were voted by the grand jury that adjourned last Saturday night.

It was the understanding at the office of Sheriff Barrett that President Shea, who was aware of the indictment returned against him, would appear during the day and give bonds. He failed to do so, and Deputy Sheriffs Robert Wilson and Martin Honan were sent after him. After a short search Shea was found in the rear room of a saloon at Washington and Franklin

Mr. Shea was very angry at his arrest at the late hour and upbraided Sheriff Barrett for holding the caplases from Saturday and then serving them at a time when it would be very inconvenient to secure bonds. The sheriff responded that he had been assured that the labor leaders would come to his office during the day day it was decided to suspend the and file bonds. President Shea finally succeeded in reaching his attorneys by telephone, and one of them. Daniel Cruice, came quickly to the sheriff's office. A few minutes later the altercation between Shea and the sheriff ended by the sheriff ordering Shea and McGee locked up. They were at once taken to the county fall where they were placed in cells. After being a prisoner for a little more than two hours both Shea and McGee were released, their attorneys having procured bonds which were approved by Judge Tuthill.

Although he has been an object of search for two days. Young declared that he had not left the city and had been in frequent attendance upon labor meetings and conferences ..

Notable Decision by Grosseup. A notable decision affecting conspiracy proceedings was made today by Judge Peter S. Grosscup in the United States district court. He declared that the jailing of the two labor leaders, Bernard Mulligan and John H. Donohue, for alleged contempt of court in refusing to answer questions possibly incriminating was an "extraordinary proceeding."

Judge Grosscup's opinion, on account of its sweeping character and widespread applicability, attracted much attention. While no definite reports are at hand for the other individual states raising winter wheat, the government showing for May 1 indicated a total of 63,029,000 bushels for these states. It is expected that in its June report, which will be issued next Saturday, the government will make even a better exhibit for the states of lesser rank in wheat production.

There is not so sure a basis for estimating the spring wheat crop. But present conditions, as reported from Minnesota and the Dakotas, indicate that these three states alone will produce 32,000,000 bushels more than they did a year ago, when the total was 227,025,014 for all the states

If the estimates from Missourt, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Illinois, Indiana and the other leaders in winter wheat production are borne out by the threshing returns six weeks hence and no more serious damage is done to spring wheat than already has been inflicted, the total crop of 1906 will be exceeded by no crop in the history of American agriculture. with the exception of that of 1901, which the government figured finally at 748,450,218 bushels. It will be 118,000,000 bushels in excess of the crop of a year ago, and 33,-000,000 larger than that of 1908.

counts and we thought that it all showed such a disorganized condition, such extravagance and negligence that for a company of the magnitude of the Equitable and so connected as it was with the community by its system of insurance, there should be a change in management and we recommend that the directors should ask for the resignations of the higher officials and fill their places. The majority of the directors after hearing the report and discussing it evidently felt that our conclusions were irresistible, but to avoid direct condemnation of those officers they yourded to allow them to remain and then proceeded to decide that there should be a new office created—a chairman who should have control of all the affairs of the company, and these officers whose resignations we had asked should be subordinate to this chairman. In other words, it was like the judge who was asked to remove the man from the control of a farm because his management was bad and decided that he would still let him work and would put another man over him in charge of the farm. So they decided to allow Alexander and Hyde to still remain and work, but to put another man over them in charge of the affairs of the company. We are glad to find that the Equitable was solvent and that it had made money and increased its business in spite of its troubles and its weak management, and I think we all agree that if there can be a change of management and the one-man ownership of stock eliminated the Equitable has a great future.

The defendant having offered no evidence in rebuttal thereof, not having disputed this testimony you will be justified in concluding that the diamonds were stolen from Pollack by Morris alias Shercliffe, and I will ness to the important questions of whether the defendant received the said diamonds in Harrison county of this state.

Material Points of Case. Material Points of Case.

Upon this point the state has offered the testimony of the witness, Morris alias Shercliffe, but under his testimony this witness would be an accomplice in the crime charged herein if it was committed.

The laws of this state provide that a conviction cannot be had upon the testimony of an accomplice unless corroborated by other evidence which shall tend to connect the defendant with the commission of the defense and the co-operation shall not he defense and the co-operation shall no be sufficient if it merely show the commission of the offense or the circumstances thereof. It follows that unless the testimony of Morris is corroborated as required by this statute, the defendant must be found not guilty. It is not necessary, however, that this corroboration should be made by direct testimony, for it may be made out by circumstantial evidence, the weight and sufficiency of which will be for you to determine. On the other hand, as it is an essential element of the crime charged that the defendant received the diamonds in Harrison county, lowa, the testimony of Morris must be so corroborated as to satisfy you that he speaks the truth on that point or no conviction can be had herein. e sufficient if it merely show the com-dission of the offense or the circumstances

It is not necessary, however, that th ony of Morris should be corroborated testimony of Morris should be corroborated in every material part of his testimony, but if you find from other satisfactory and unimpeachable evidence that he speaks the truth in some material part of his testimony that bears directly on the question of whether the defendant received in Harrison county, Iowa, the diamonds when recently stolen; this may be ground for testimony that he speaks the truth in other parts as to which there is no confirmatestimony that he speaks the truth in other parts as to which there is no confirmation, but whether it is sufficient ground therefor will be for you to determine. Thus if the evidence either direct or circumstantial, other than that given by Morris, shows that the defendant did, in fact, receive diamonds recently after they were stolen this should be regarded in law as corroborating evidence, but the weight and sufficiency thereof will still remain for you sufficiency thereof will still remain for you to determine. It follows on the othe hand that even though you find the evi hand that even though you find the evidence of Morris corroborated, if you are not satisfied that the corroboration is sufficient to establish the guilt of the defendant in the manner required in these instructions he must be acquitted, and this result as a matter of course must follow should the testimony not be corroborative, in the manner above described.

Credibility of Witnesses.

because when she man from the control of a farm decided that he would still led him work and would that he would still led him work and would the farm. So they decided to allow Alexander and Hyde to still remain and work, but to put another man over them in charge of the affairs of the company. We are glad to find that the Equitable was solvent and that it had made money and increased its business in spite and I think we all agree that if there can be a change of management and the none-man ownership of stock eliminated the Equitable has a great future.

DENNISON ACQUITTED

In this connection with him and the robbery of Pollock.

Judge Smith, as an introduction to his remarks, said that the defense had, as other defendant instead of the man named in the indictment. Thus, he said, had the Civic Federation been tried, the Jeweber's Protective association and Elmer Thomas. He paid a tribute to Thomas, saying he was one of the most respected members of the bar. A number of the witnesses of the defense, he said, the prosecution had not attempted to impeach each. That, he said, had the Civic Federation been tried, the Jeweber's Protective association and Elmer Thomas. He paid a tribute to Thomas, saying he was one of the most respected members of the bar. A number of the witnesses of the defense, he said, the prosecution had not attempted to impeach because crime had already set the mark upon their faces. He said Dennison, like Sheroliffe, when he are supper in Missouri Valley, thought every man was watching him. The same emotions ran through each, That, he said, was why Dennison and Sheroliffe, he said, had fallen out because when Sheroliffe had been released from the penitentiary Dennison had submitted him this financial statement, showing Sheroliffe owed Dennison released from the penitentiary Dennison had submitted him this financial statement. Showing Sheroliffe ow fallen out because when Shercliffe had been released from the penitentiary Dennison had submitted him this financial statement, showing Shercliffe owed Dennison some 13,000 instead of giving him his share of the diamond robbery. That, he said, was why Shercliffe wanted to send Dennison to the penitentiary. He entered into a desire to obtain money out of the case or desire to obtain money out of the case or

You are further instructed that the tes-imony of Morris as to what one Byrns aid to him has been stricken out and shall not be considered by you for any pur-

The defendant has introduced evidence with reference to his general reputation for hon-sty and integrity in the city of Omaha, where he resides, and if you find that his general reputation in this respect is good you should consider this matter as bearing upon the question of whether it is likely or probable that he committed the crime charged, and if under all of the evidence, including the evidence as to his reputation for integrity and honesty, a reasonable doubt arises in your mind as to bis guilt, he should be acquitted. The defendant in the first instance is presumed to be innocent and he cannot be rightfully convicted unless each and all of the matters necessary to establish his guilt as hereinbefore set forth, are established by the evidence beyond all reasonable doubt; that is the evidence must satisfy you fully and completely that all of these matters are true. If the evidence does so satisfy you he should be convicted, otherwise he should be acquitted, even though you may suspect or believe that he had something to do with the defendant has introduced evidence even though you may suspect or believe that he had something to do with the
