MR. BALDWIN BECOMES ANGRY

Influence Action of Legislature.

RAILROAD CASE IN THE FEDERAL COURT

Union Pacific Summons Omaha and Lincoln Newspaper Men in Attempt to Show Public Sentiment Was Blased.

Who were those railroad lobbyists who u say influenced legislation, I would like o know their names?" excitedly inquired John N. Baldwin, pilot of the Union Facific ship of state, of Harry T. Dobbins, managing editor of the Lincoln News, yesterday afternoon in the hearing at the federal court, where Mr. Baldwin is attempting to prove his railroad is being overtaxed. Two of them are John N. Baldwin and H. Ager," was the prompt answer of Mr. Dobbins made in a low, calm voice.

It was almost more than Mr. Baldwin could do to control his feelings; indeed, he did let them slip away once long enough to declare that "despicable wretches" had given Mr. Dobbins his information and intimating that such a thing as a ratiroad lobbyist seeking to influence legislation was unheard of in the annals of Nebraska

E. Rosewater First Witness.

The taking of testimony before Special Examiner Charles W. Pearsall in the tax injunction matter of the Union Pacific Railway company against Robert O. Fink, treasurer of Douglas county, and others, was begun Monday morning in United States court room No. 2.

The hearing is being held at the instance of the railroad company with the intent of showing that the State Board of Equalization was governed by outside influences, "public clamor and newspaper clamor," in 'unjustly and fraudulently increasing the character. railroad assessments for taxation purposes," and through which original bill of complaint the Union Pacific railroad has secured an injunction in the United States circuit court restraining the collection of the taxes against the railroads by distress warrant, execution or other arbitrary proceedings. This injunction is now pending and the present proceedings are being held as a part of the final determination Shasta Springs. From San Francisco

The witnesses summoned before Special Examiner Pearsall thus far are: E. Rose- with side trips to Catalina Islands, Pasawater, editor of The Bee; G. M. Hitchcock, of the Lincoln Journal, H. E. Opposing Counsel in Case .

Attorney John N. Baldwin of the Union Pacific is conducting the examination for the railroads, assisted by Bob Clancy, while Attorney General Norris Brown is looking after the interests of the State Board of qualization, assisted by County Attorney labaugh of Douglas county, Nebraska.

All of the witnesses named were present are wanted by Mr. Baldwin "to show how injurious assessment against the railroad

Edward Rosewater was the first witness Brown objected to the presentation of the Chicago. testimony of newspapers as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, and that the bill of particulars falled to state facts. A note was made of the objection.

Mr. Rosewater's evidence bore particularly upon editorial and other matter appearing in specific issues of The Bee relating to the question of rallway taxation and assessments. The files of The Bee for the years 1903 and 1904 were introduced in evidence, and as the specific articles were pointed out to Mr. Rosewater he acknowledged the authorship of all that he St. had written and assumed a responsibility for such articles as emanated from the correspondents of The Bee, and stated that such editorial extracts as appeared in The Bee from other papers were correct reproductions.

Confidence in Information. Asked by Mr. Baldwin if he believed the articles in The Bee on these several subjects were a statement of facts, Mr. Rosewater replied:

"I believe the information I have obtained on these matters is correct. I have made a special study of railroad statistics and have always used care in the preparaon of editorials on railway subjects. This nformation I have been gathering for

Mr. Baldwin asked for the sources of Mr. Rosewater's information relative to special favors being enjoyed by the railroads in the matter of taxation. Mr. Rosewater re-

"These special favors are shown by the action of the different boards of assessment. The railroad valuation is about oneifth of all the property of the state. I obined it also from the reports of the railands to their stockholders and the reports made to the state board, computed upon their capitalization and earnings.

W. O. Jones, editor of the Lincoln Journal, was the first witness examined in the afternoon. His evidence was similar in all young? With what sest did we sit down to the table after our play was over and eat the mush and milk our mother put before us. But as we get older it takes more to give us pleasure. Mush and milk no longer tastes good to us, and our digestion may be impaired. The best advice we can give to such a person is to tone up the stomach with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is nature's most valuable and health-giving agent—made without the use of alcohol. It contains roots, herbs and barks, and is the concentration of nature's vitality as found in the fields and woods. This remedy has a history which speaks well for it because it was given to the public by Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. V., nearly forty years ago, and has since been sold by forty years ago, and has since been sold by druggists in ever increasing quantities. Some medicines, tonics or compounds, enjoy a large sale for a few years, then disappear from the public attention, but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved such a reliable blood remedy and tonic that it often enjoys the confidence of several generations in a family, and its increased sales year by year coming from the recommendations of those who have tried it, prove its lasting merit, so that every bottle bears the stamp of public approval. Every other blood-maker and tonic for the stomach that we know of contains alcohol, but Dr. Pierce guarantees that no alcohol is contained in his "Medical Discovery."

respects to the testimony given by Mr. AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA Rosewater during the forenoon, bearing particularly upon the sources of information for news relative to the discussion of Enraged When Dobbins Says He Helped the railway tax question, its reliability and the consequent editorial comment upon the matter. He admitted a responsibility for the articles appearing both in the news and editorial columns of the Journal.

Harry J. Dobbins, managing editor of the Lincoln Evening News, testined along similar lines to those of Mr. Jones. Mr. Baldwin was manifestly elated when Mr. Dobbins stated that certain editorials were stimulated by a tremendous pressure of public sentiment. The words "tremendous pressure" seemed especially good to Mr. Baldwin, and he sought to ascertain just what that "tremendous pressure" was. Mr. Dobbins, in telling of the inspiration of an other editorial, stated that it was suggested by the active interest that railroad lobbyists had in the passage of the revenue law. Mr. Baldwin asked Mr. Dobbins to state who those rallroad lobbyists were.

"Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Ager were two of them," quietly responded Mr. Dubbins. Mr. Baldwin flushed up in a moment and indignantly denied that he was interested n the passage of the revenue law. He stated that there was but one section in the law that he was at all interested in, and that was that the railroads should be treated fairly. In the main he declared that he was opposed to the law. "It appears that much of this editorial expression of public opinion is based upon hotel gossip," and Mr. Baldwin continued n referring to the criticisms upon himself, that they are derived from the statements of despicable wretches." George Kline, Lincoln correspondent of he World-Herald, was questioned as to the authorship of certain news paragraphs appearing in that paper on the general question and admitted that they were written

No further oral testimony was taken during the afternoon, the remainder of the day being put in going over the files of the various papers for the identification of certain articles, both af an editorial and news

Council Holds Short Session.

A regular meeting of the city council was held last night and a number of matters of importance were considered. The feature of the meeting was the addresses of Henry W. Pennock and Rome Miller in the interest of the juvenile court. The request was made that the city of South Omaha set aside $1,500 each year for the support of the work now being done by the juvenile court. It was stated that Douglas county is willing to pay $5,000 and the city of Omaha $3,500. No action was taken on the city hall matter as the money for the bonds has not been received from the purchasers. The next meeting of the council will be held on June 12. Library Board Meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the South Omaha Library board was held Montickets to Asbury Park, N. J., June 29-30, and $200 was appropriated for new books. Miss Jane Abbott, librarian, in her report to the board stated that the patrons of the library now numbered nearly 1,100, while few ever 2,100. During the month of May about 2,200 books were issued and the reading rooms were patronized daily. Miss Davis, one of the assistant librarians, is reported to be doing excellent work, and Miss Abbott was directed to enter Miss Bell of Omaha as an additional apprentice. It was remarked by the members of the board that it was strange that no South Omaha young women had applied for positions as apprentices in the library. There is no salary attached to the position of apprentice, but the experience and training are worth all the time given to the work, besides opening the way to positions as library assistants. Rev. Clarkson Here

Rev. Joseph Clarkson has been assigned to South Omaha to assist Rev. James Wise, rector of St. Martin's church. Rev. Clarkson preached at St. Clement's mission Sunday night. AK-SAR-BEN READY FOR WORK Initiatory Work Tried on a Few and Pronounced Good by the Governors.

The gates of the court of King Ak-Sar-Ben XI were opened wide last evening, those attending the levee and initiation being the present and past members of the board of governors and members of the press. The togas of those in command sat lightly on their shoulders, considering that last evening was the first initiation night of the eleventh year of the reign of the famous monarch of the kingdom of Quivera. In keeping with everything that bears the trade mark of Ak-Sar-Ben last evening's initiation and reception had that up-to-date atmosphere which has marked these occasions from year to year. And yet the court officials say they are not up in their respective parts to the degree of perfection that will be shown in a week or so. They will rehearse on Thursday evening and on next Monday evening will be ready for the real business in hand, that of testing the metal of those who would claim allegiance to the throne.

Manufacturers Again Plan to Organize a Home Industry Campaign.

SENTIMENT FAVORS EDUCATIONAL EFFORT

Meeting at Commercial Club Hears the Gospel from Many Speakers and Names Committee to Form Club.

About thirty-five of the manufacturers of Omaha met Monday night at the Commercial club to talk over the proposition of the organization of a manufacturers association for the general purpose of stimulating the home patronage of home industries.

F. E. Sanborn called the meeting to order and outlined its purpose in an interesting address, and suggested that J. J. Gibson be made chairman of the evening. Mr Gibson was unanimously elected, Mr. Gibson, on taking the chair, gave an interesting account of his early experience as a manufacturer, his early fallures and his ultimate success, because he had at last produced an article of general use, manufactured exclusively in Omaha, and which was being sold in nearly every city of the United States, and many of the leading cities of Europe. He attributed his success to judicious advertising. He suggested that an exhibit of Nebraska made products be made in Omaha in the near Fred Krug was of the opinion, briefly expressed, that the business men of Omaha should get together for business and get ready to do business.

E. J. Chissell favored the immediate organization of a home patronage bureau. He said the newspapers are always with the business men of Omaha and Nebraska, and he believed in home dollars going over home counters.

F. W. Judson, chairman of the executive committee of hie Commercial club, favored the organization of a home-product exhibition during the Ak-Sar-Ben carnival week, and that the proposed association should work with that body. A. J. Vierling talked of the old Nebraska and thought that the new organization should be along that line. D. J. O'Brien thought that the chief end of the new organization should be to get at the man who buys and uses the stuff, and to interest the small dealers to handle ome products.

Manufacturers and Consumers association

All Manufacturers Should Joly, Manager Newton of the Newton Soap company was of the opinion that all state manufacturers should be asked to join in the association. F. S. Knapp of the Omaha Box company favored the local organization of manufacturers and gave out the information that boxes could be sold cheaper here in Omaha than in Chicago.

Charles Harding of the Harding Creamery company was decidedly in favor of the proposed organization and stated as an indication of the growth of the creamery in dustry in Omaha, which was relatively a young enterprise, that during the month of June the Omaha creameries would produce 350,000 pounds of butter, most of which will go to eastern markets. As a citizen of Omaha, he would do his share toward stimulating the proposed organization and help it along all he could.

A. P. Karbach, carriage manufacturer, spoke of the loyalty of the brewers of Omaha to home manufacturers and said that without exception they all had their vehicles made in Omaha. M. D. Welsh, barrel manufacturer of South Omaha, thought that the coopers of Omaha should receive some patronage from the Standard Oil company, but he was in formed that the Standard Oil company did not patronize a single Omaha industry in any manner. He cited as the loyalty of an independent oil company to Omaha that he had recently closed a contract with the independent company for 6,000 barrels

Part of the Newspapers.

Manager McCune of the Daily News and G. M. Hitchcock of the World-Herald stated that the newspapers are ready to do their share, but Mr. Hitchcock was of the opinion that the newspapers should not be expected to carry the whole burden alone The Omaha manufacturers should not clamor for home patronage alone, but with the growing opportunities they should reach out for the immense trade tributary to Omaha in the west.

Charles C. Rosewater of The Bee said the newspapers had started many kitchen fires in Omaha. He thought the consumer should not be considered lightly. This or ganization will be the means of instructing the consumer in the necessity of home patronage. With the exception of the brewers, no one class appears to appreclate the necessity of catering intelligently to the home market. The brewers Catherine Jones and Mable Jones, two colored women living near Twelfth and Capitol avenue, engaged in a quarrel about 10 o'clock Monday night, and the result was that Catherine was severely stabbed in the neck. Although the two women have the same name they claim no relationship to each other, and when the fight started it was a free-for-all affair, a number of men in the vicinity taking part in the hostilities. The two women were brought to the police station, where Drs. Kennedy and Wigton looked after Catherine's wounds, which were very severe, but not dangerous. Both women are being held on a charge of disturbing the peace.
