Court Chaplain Officiates.

Dr. Dryander, the court chaplain, with nine of the cathedral clergy standing near him, began the scrvice

It is the privilege of the pastor, accordin, to the Lutheran rite, to read either one of the several admonitory addresses to the bridal couple or to make one of his own. Dr. Dryander elected to lay aside the book. taking as his subject the book of Ruth. chapter 1, verses 16 and 17, beginning: "For whither thou goest I will go," etc.

Dr. Dryander spoke briefly on the beauty of love, the large responsibilities resting on the youthful pair, their need for the support of faith and spiritual vision. The pa tor then asked his imperial highness if he took out of God's hand to have and to hold according to God's word and will, her highness, Cecilia?

The crown prince answered, "Yes." The same question was addressed to the duchess with the additional question of "and obey," to which she also answered "Yes." These were the only responses. The rings were then exchanged and the bride and groom knelt while Dr. Dryander read the liturgical prayer, closing the ceremony, which had taken precisely twenty minutes. Dr. Dryander shook hands with the crown prince and kissed the hand of the crown princess. He then presented the bridal couple with a Bible, ornamentally bound. The emperor kissed the bride on both cheeks and then kissed his son, the empress doing likewise.

Reception in White Hall,

The bridal party slowly moved out, followed by the princes and princesses, but all others waited in the chapel, which had become very hot owing to the 300 candles that had been buring for half an hour, until the reception began in the White Hall adjoining the chapel. Besides those present at the wedding, sev eral hundred others had been invited to the reception, each person bowing to the crown prince and crown princess, on either side of whom stood other royal personages. The dresses, jewels and uniforms contributed to a most brifflant picture.

After supper had been served a torchlight dance, unique practice at weddings in the house of Hohenzollern for centuries, was performed in a modified form by tweive ages, bearing thick candles about two and half feet tall.

The crown prince took the hand of the crown princess and walked slowly behind the pages, keeping step to the music, around a quadrangle formed by men and women standing ten feat apart along the sides of the drawing room, which is 165 by 50 feet, all bowing as the bridal couple passed. The emperor than led the crown princess and the crown prince led his mother around the same walk. Next the crown princess took each of the other princes and the crown prince each of the other princesses around the hall, occasionally several at a time so that precedence might be disregarded. Oned the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the Archduke Franz, Ferdinand of Austria, Grown Prince Gustaf of Sweden and the duile of Oporto

Goes Sight-Seeing in London Fog and Attends Banquet. LONDON, June 6.-King Alfonso of Spain saw the sights of the metropolis today in typical London weather. Rain fell all day long, accompanied by a chilly east wind a bedraggied and forlorn appearance. The young monarch, however, carried out a long program with evident enjoyment. After receiving the diplomatic corps at mass at the Roman Catholic cathedral at Westminster. Later he visited Westminster abbey, lunched with the duke and duchess of Connaught and was an interested spectator of the military tournament at Agricultural hall. He gave a reception to Spanish residents and to the Anglo-Spanish and American-Spanish commercial bodies of London at the Spanish embassy and paid a surprise visit to the House of Parliament. which, however, had adjourned before his arrival.

The day concluded with a state banque at Buckingham palace which was attended by members of the royal family, the diplo matic corps and practically all the notables is for less thickness of walk than called in political England.

Competition is Genuine. A rumor was circulated just before the small mountain of envelopes containing bids was attacked that the local paving interests, particularly the Nebraska Bitulithic and the Barber companies, had "tied up" in an arrangement to apportion the work. The idea that such a condition existed was induced by reports that a truce had been patched up in the war between these two firms and proceedings started whereby each might get hold of the money due on contracts for the city, which has been held up by litigation started by the other fellow. City Engineer Rosewater scouted the rumor after he had seen the bids, giving it as his opinion that genuine competition had taken place with what promised to be economical results for the city. Three firms submitted bids for sidewalk construction, as follows: Cement Brick Gradit

Zimman's Final Veto.

As his last official stroke as acting mayor, President Zimman submitted a veto to the rdinance creating the office of street commissioner at $2,000 a year, but Councilman

Many enthusiastic speeches were made by members present, including C. S. Ward, international secretary of the association. with offices in Chicago. Mr. Ward told o some of his personal experiences in raising funds for erecting association buildings cu. yd .323 .25 .40 in different parts of the country where he has been in charge, and complimented the members of the association in Omaha for their untiring work in securing the grounds on which to build. Arthur Jorgensen, secretary of the local association, presided at the meeting and acted as toastmaster.

The campaign is to begin at once and is to end by July 15, when, it is hoped, the committees will have raised sufficient funds to start work on the building.
