WELCOME BY GOVERNOR AND CHANCELLOR

Commercial Club of Tekamah Participates and Members Are Entertained by the Lincoln Commercial Club.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., June 8.-(Special.)-Governor Mickey, the state officials, Chancellor Andrews of the state university and Mayor Brown of this city today extended an enthusiastic greeting to one of the most unique excursions that ever visited the city. A crowd of 1,500 citizens of Burt county came to Lincoln. Most of them were school children. County Superintendent Brookings had charge of the excursionists and the object of the trip was to enlarge the views of the young people in regard to the state and its institutions.

The first section of the excursion reached the Northwestern depot at 10 o'clock. There were 600 in the party and the Tekamah brass band headed the procession. Street cars were waiting and without money and without price the visitors were taken to the state farm.

Governor Mickey welcomed the visitors the city and outlined the educational advantages open to the young people of

"I want to see all you young folks well ducated," said he, "for if we can have nore educated farmers we will have less use for the lawyers and their many attendant evils."

Chancellor Andrews and Mayor Brown made speeches. Dr. Seward of Oakland made an eloquent response, The Commercial club of Tekamah participated in the excursion, and many of the financiers from that town were entertained by the Lincoln business men at lunch at the Commercial club rooms this noon. It was the intention that before the afternoon ended the entire delegation should be led through most of the principal business houses of Lincoln. The crowd was guided on all its wanderings by a corps of nearly twenty university

In the afternoon the asylum, the penitentiary, the state house and the state university were visited. Tonight the party left for Burt county. Fair weather greeted the visitors, but rain made the last part of the trip unpleasant.

The Tekamah quartet, comprising W. H. Van Cleve, E. W. Harding, F. C. Harding and F. E. Rinquist, supplied the musical feature of the brief program. The university people served many big tubs of homemade lemonade and pots of coffee to the visitors during the noon hour.

Medical Institute Decision. While the supreme court holds that the State Electro Medical institute of Omaha cannot be licensed to practice medicine as a corporation, the corporation may make contracts with licensed physicians to conduct its business and can collect for its services. Suit was begun in Douglas county to prevent the institute from doing business in this state. The defense was that the institute does not assume to practice medicine, but that its business is conducted solely by licensed physicians.

On the evening of August 9, 1900, while young Schroeder was going ome on horseback he was shot at from a clump of willows by the roadside. He testified that he saw Blum's pony standing there and saw a man with a white handkerchief around his neck in the bushes. Blum admitted that he wore a white handkerchief around his neck that night. Schroeder caused the arrest of Blum on the charge that he had discharged the gun at him. Without the knowledge or consent of Schroeder the case was dismissed by one of the county attorneys of Douglas county and Blum discharged. Blum then brought an action against Schroeder for maticious prosecution and secured a verdict and judgnent in his favor.
