WOMAN GOES TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. W. E. Tompkins of Marcy Street Deceased from Months of Neglect.

HUSBAND SUBMITS HIS SIDE OF CASE

Man Declares He Was Devoted to Wife Whose Mental Condition Is Thought to Be Unsound.

Mrs. W. E. Tompkins of 1516 Marcy street, paralyzed and slightly demented and reported by neighbors to the police as having been grossly neglected for several months, has been removed from her home to the county hospital at the instigation of City Physician Ralph. It is believed the woman's mental condition will be investigated. Neighbors declare the woman has been much neglected and many have expressed a willingness to go on the witness stand and testify to the same. Mr. Tompkins declares he has done the best he could for his unfortunate wife and relates a pathetic tale of domestic trouble extending over a period of sixteen years.

Thursday afternoon neighbors notified the police station of the woman's condition, the police authorities in order referring the matter to the city physician, who ordered the woman removed. The woman was removed during the absence of the husband, who is employed at a tin shop on Howard street.

Mrs. John Reavis, who occupies the lower part of the Tompkins home, says she has carried food and water to the helpless woman on a number of recent occasions, and while the Reavis woman was slow to volunteer any information on the subject she would not deny that the woman's condition has been deplorable. Mrs. Sarah Bellows, Miss Hattie Lunsford and Mrs. Emily Brown, living next door to the Tompkins home, were much outspoken and emphatic in their denunciation of the husband of Mrs. Tompkins. They say they have heard Mrs. Tompkins hammering on the inside of her door from half to an hour at a time trying to get out for a drink of water. They have also carried her food and helped her arrange her clothes and wash her face. The woman, they say, has been almost helpless for some time and on some days could barely articulate to be understood.

Husband's Side of the Case.
On the other hand, the husband maintains he has been much more sinned against than sinning in the matter.

"My wife became so bad some time ago that the police told me to keep her off the street. At that time I moved from Seventeenth and Leavenworth streets to our present place, so as to be away from the public street. I saw Dr. Tilden on the matter of my wife's sanity and the doctor told me to go home, that I was insane myself. For some time I have placed a board over the outside door, but this would not have prevented my wife from getting out if she wished. I have worked every day and gone home as often as I could to look after her. I would shed the last drop of blood for her. She was once dear to me.

"During my sixteen years' residence in Omaha I have had a run of hard luck. Both my children have been taken away from me by some legal process I cannot understand. John, my 15-year-old boy, is now in Colorado, while my 18-year-old daughter is with a family in Lincoln. I have spent nearly $5,000 trying to keep my children with me. My home, which I once owned, had to be given up and for some time I have been on the 'pig train.' My wife's sickness dates back sixteen years ago, when the boy was born. The authorities had no right to take my wife away from me. I attribute the whole thing to a couple of irresponsible women, neighbors of ours."

Last winter Mrs. Tompkins was brought to the police station on a charge of being demented, but she was taken home in a carriage by her husband at that time. The Tompkins have lived at their present address about four years.

AMENITIES IN COURT ROOM

Attorney Breckenridge Suggests that Court Muzzle Attorney Andrews.

"I would suggest that the court muzzle the counsel," said Attorney Ralph W. Breckenridge to Judge Kennedy Friday afternoon, as he gazed with disapproval at Counselor J. R. Andrews. The latter was smilingly ignoring objections offered to his questions by his brother counsel and could hardly hear the court, apparently, when admonished to wait a minute for a ruling on the objections.

Judge Andrews heard Mr. Breckenridge, however, when he used the word muzzle, and retorted: "Counsel does not need a muzzle and is doing very well, thank you."

"Counsel on both sides will please forego their side remarks," said Judge Kennedy as sternly as it is possible for him to speak when any badinage is surcharging the court room with the joy that lightens the heavy legal atmosphere.

With this the gentlemen again plunged into the trial of the case of John Berger against the Carpenter Paper company. Plaintiff asks $2,000 damages for alleged personal injuries sustained by falling into an elevator opening while in the employ of defendants. But as the case went on ever and anon the lawyers would pass to each other various more or less courteous observations, just to show they were not conceding anything to anybody who wouldn't concede anything to them.

Goes to Federal Court.
On application of Attorney C. C. Smith against the Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Omaha Packing companies and the Jetter Brewing company by Guy C. Barton, Calvin H. Grege and Charles E. Smith has been ordered transferred to the circuit court of the United States. The plaintiffs are suing to secure the abatement of an alleged nuisance caused by the defendants allowing effluent and other objectionable stuff to flow into a certain sewer in South Omaha.

FIRST WARD UP IN REVOLT

Residents Do Not Want the Juvenile Detention School.

PLEAS FOR ITS LOCATION GO UNHEEDED

Officers and Board of Visitors Set Forth Its Purpose, but Fail to Convince the Men in Opposition.

The South Side Improvement club has host last night to a large number of citizens who had assembled to protest against the establishment of the Juvenile Detention Home at Tenth and Dorcas streets, as contemplated by the Board of County Commissioners on the recommendation of the visiting board of the juvenile court. Sheriff John Power presided. Moe Bernstein, juvenile court officer; Mrs. Towle, assistant probation officer; Mrs. Draper Smith, Miss McCarty, Rome Miller and H. W. Pennock, members of the visiting board of the juvenile court, were present.

Addresses were delivered by members of the board upon the purpose of the Detention Home and the reasons why the Tenth street property was selected. Mrs. Smith said no location was too good for such a school, especially in view of its purposes. The environment of such a school should be of the best, and she gave a brief account of her recent visit to the detention schools in other cities, which are invariably in the best locations of the cities. The school is in no sense a prison or reformatory, and should not be classed as such. She wished that it were possible to secure a location for the school on Park avenue, near her own home.

Miss McCarty spoke in a similar strain, and in response to the suggestion that the parents and relatives of such children as might be detained in the school would be undesirable visitors to the neighborhood, she said that from the fact that very few of the parents of children of the public schools take the pains to visit the public schools, it is not probable that the parents of children in the detention school would inflict many visits on that school.

Will Not Be a Mob.

Rome Miller spoke at length upon the general purpose of the detention school and resented the assertion that the children detained in the juvenile detention school for short periods would constitute "a howling mob." He did not believe that children, as a rule, made many mistakes before they are 14 years of age, the maximum age of the children who will be detained at the school. He was not battling for the location of the school on South Tenth street, but wanted to see the school established regardless of its location, and that as soon as possible.

Mr. Pennock said he lived near the Good Shepherd home and could see no objection to the establishment of such an institution in any neighborhood.

Moe Bernstein said it was not the intention to send incorrigibles to the school. Of the 30 cases already looked after by him the juvenile court, the other 23 being taken care of without the aid of the court and a number of these had been found homes in good families where they would be brought up under moral surroundings.

Mrs. Towle spoke in a similar strain and related several pathetic incidents of destitute orphan children who had been taken from distressing environment and placed in good homes.

Truant Officer Parker related some of his experiences with children who would naturally come under the influence of the detention school, and commended the excellence of the proposed work.

Opposition to the Location.

Mr. Power favored a detention school for juveniles, but did not think that the residents of the First ward cared to have the school located in their midst. He did not think that there could be any means adopted to prevent the undesirable relatives of these children from visiting the school. They would do it, as he had learned from his experience as sheriff for the past six years. He believed that the best location for the school would be on the county poor farm, where they could be as well cared for, if a suitable building could be provided or erected for that purpose.

County Commissioner Brunning told of the difficulty the board had in securing a location for the school. He favored the county poor farm grounds, but the Tenth street location had been decided upon pursuant to the recommendation of the visiting board of the juvenile court.

Several others spoke in opposition and a motion finally prevailed that the South Side Improvement club go on record as opposed to the location of the Juvenile Detention school on South Tenth street, which was supplemented with the appointment of a committee of five, Dr. Ford, Sherlock, Connolly, Power and Scott to meet with the visiting committee of the juvenile court and the county commissioners this morning and enter a formal protest against the establishment of the school on Tenth street.

Improvement Club Business.

The South Side Improvement club held its regular meeting last night and adopted a resolution condemning the street railway for its refusal to extend the street car line to Riverview park; commending the proposition of the Grand View Improvement club for the extension of the Harney street line on Sixth street to Center street, and asking the city council to compel the removal of unused street car tracks from the streets.

A committee consisting of Dr. Ford, Sam Scott and John Power was appointed to meet with a like committee from the Grand View club to have a conference with the street car officials relative to the street car extensions desired in the south part of the city.

The club then adjourned to Friday evening, June 18.

SUSPECTS CHASED AND TAKEN

Detectives Have Lively Run for Men Wanted on Mere Suspicion.

A run up Tenth street from Capitol avenue to Dodge with two officers in hot pursuit, two revolver shots fired after them, a leap into a rapidly moving car and a final arrest by Detectives McCarthy and Murphy, were the experiences of Virgil G. Henshaw and S. W. Smith, two suspects who were seen by the officers while attempting to work a "con" game on an Iowa farmer at a saloon at Tenth and Capitol avenue about 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. Henshaw and Smith had engaged one Nels Samuelson, a farmer who claims to work about eight miles east of Council Bluffs, in a conversation pertaining to his work on the Iowa farm, when the officers drove in sight. Immediately upon seeing the detectives the fugitives ran to Dodge street, a block away, with McCarthy and Murphy in hot pursuit, and upon reaching the car line boarded a rapidly moving car. The two officers were as swift of foot as the culprits, and they were taken to the station, charged with being suspicious characters. Samuelson is being held as a complaining witness. Henshaw gave his address as Wilson, Ia., and Smith claims to have come from Norton, Kan.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Live Stock Exchange Members Prepare to Test Tax Cases.

ATTORNEYS TAKE PRELIMINARY STEPS

Service of Distress Warrants Merely Intended to Establish Rights in the Case Without any Animosity.

The distress warrants served by Personal Tax Collector Ridgeway on a number of the members of the South Omaha Live Stock exchange has brought about the desired result. Friday afternoon those interested held a meeting and employed an attorney to take the matter in charge. E. L. Howe, the city treasurer, said on the topic: "What we want to know is if it is legal for us to assess memberships in the exchange. There is where the whole thing rests. I have been led to believe that a membership in the exchange can be assessed and the assessment has been made for the years 1903 and 1904. There seems to be some dispute about my right to make such an assessment and I therefore suggested that distress warrants be issued and a friendly suit be started to have the courts decide just where the city stands in this matter." Some of the members of the exchange have been assessed on membership certificates complain of over-valuation, but assert that they are willing to pay the city the taxes on what the membership cost them.

The attorney employed by the commission men asked over the tax records yesterday, after holding a consultation with the city attorney and then talked for some time with representatives of the city treasurer. "There is no animosity in the matter at all," declared City Treasurer Howe. "The taxes stand on my books and I want to have the courts hand down a decision. The best of feeling prevails between the treasurer's office and those on whom the distress warrants were served. All we want is a test case."

It is expected that by Monday the personal property supposed to have been levied on by the issuing of distress warrants will be replenished and then the cases will have a standing in the courts.

Stealing Dog Tags.

Reports are made almost daily to the city clerk about dog tags being stolen. When such a report is made the number of the stolen tag and the purchaser is reported to Poundmaster McGill. A memorandum is kept and if dogs that had worn tags are impounded there will be no charge for the release. This is, of course, providing that a report is made. McGill had an experience yesterday over in Good Luck addition. He sent a wagon over there and rounded up nine dogs without tags. Some of the women in the neighborhood took after the wagon, threw bricks and missiles of various kinds, and it was only by the hardest kind of driving that the dogs were landed in the pound. Four dog catcher wagons are now at work and no part of the city is escaping from the vigilance of the dog catchers.

McCrath Quits Packing House.

After having been employed in packing houses for about twenty-seven years Councilman William McCrath has quit the killing floors to engage in business for himself. Mr. McCrath proposes going into the building and contracting business soon. Those who are acquainted with the genial councilman wish him the best of luck in his new venture. It is understood that McCrath is to take a partner into the business and will make an effort to secure some of the government contracts at Omaha barracks.

climan wish him the best of luck in his new venture. It is understood that McCrath is to take a partner into the business and will make an effort to secure some of the government contracts at Omaha barracks.

Sheep Shipments Falling Off.

There was only one car of sheep on the South Omaha market Friday and this car was consigned direct to a packer. Consequently there was no market. Sheep salesmen feel that the market is soon to have an upward tendency on account of the seeming scarcity of good stock. Some salesmen remarked Friday afternoon that they would not be surprised if good shorn lambs would sell as high as $5.00 next week if any are sent to this market. So far this year 65,346 sheep have been received at this market. This is an increase over the same date last year of 30,201.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

There is much activity among the members of the woman's auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian association, who are arranging large plans for their work this year. They are expecting the co-operation of every woman in the city and hope to add several hundred dollars to their building fund before the year is out. They will meet with Mrs. Canfield Tuesday next. At the tennis courts there will be a schedule of basket ball games played, commencing with next week. This game will be played on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

There will be an important meeting of the board of directors Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Music City Gossip.

The Eastern Star will meet tonight at 8 o'clock. Joseph Koutsky is expected home tonight from his farm, where he spent the week. Mrs. George Schuler, Twenty-fourth and 13th streets, has gone to Kansas to visit relatives for a month. Sunday evening at the First Methodist Episcopal church Dr. Methodist will deliver a pictorial lecture on the Holy Land. Children's day will be observed at the First Presbyterian church Sunday forenoon. A lengthy program has been prepared.

Today Hydock had a trial in police court Friday afternoon on the charge of resisting an officer. Hydock was discharged by Judge King.

Albert Russell is reported to be doing nicely at the South Omaha hospital and he played last night that there is a good chance now for recovery.

The president of the high school class of '06 desires to meet the pupils at the high school this evening for the purpose of disposing of the funds received from the class play.

CHURCH CONCERT A SUCCESS

Brotherhood of Hanson Park Methodist Scores at Its Entertainment.

Under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Hanson Park Methodist Episcopal church Friday evening a very interesting literary and musical program was given at the church, Twenty-ninth and Woolworth avenues. The program had been arranged by the Brotherhood for the purpose of enlarging the bank account of the general church fund, and the efforts in this line were very successful.

Among the numbers on the program was a reading, by George C. Metcalf, formerly of Omaha, and now located in St. Louis. Mr. Metcalf's selection was "When Pa Was a Boy." Master LeRoy Scott also gave a reading, entitled, "Advice to Young Men," which took well. The piano solo of John G. Jones, "Masurka No. 2," by Godard, was also noteworthy and appreciated by the audience. For a grand finale the members of the Brotherhood sang the "Stars and Stripes." Sousa's famous piece.

Teachers Were Embarrassed. Through a misunderstanding an item in The Bee of Wednesday evening caused some embarrassment to Miss Powell, principal of the Walnut Hill school. A contribution of handsome flowers was made to the school by an unknown donor to be given to the best room in the school. The item had it that the flowers were sent to the best managed school, which the principal and teachers of the Walnut Hill school desire to have corrected. It has been learned that their professional modesty has caused them considerable mental pain since the appearance of the item alluded to. But the school did get the flowers and feels very proud of the fact.

Order in Receivership.

On application of Frank J. Dennison, Judge Beers has issued an order to Thomas H. McCague to show cause on Monday, June 12, why he, as receiver of the Western Anchor Fence company, should not dispose of all the property in his hands belonging to said company to the highest bidder or for the best price obtainable. Plaintiff Dennison sets out that he has a claim against the company for $1,725.75 and the total claims against the company amount to $20,000 or over. The assets are alleged to consist of about $1,500 worth of property and the patent on a fence which the company manufactured.

Disturbed Performance at Krug.

John McCarty took on board several drinks Friday night and then proceeded to the Krug theater, where he got a seat in the gallery and proceeded to have some fun with the audience as well as the players. He persisted in raising a disturbance and trying to imitate the actors, when a policeman was called and McCarty was taken to the station, charged with disturbing the peace.

COMPARE Hospe's Pianos

With All The Rest

A man reads an advertisement in the newspapers about cheap pianos. He goes to a sliding-scale house, and finds a $400 (7) piano, reduced in price with one stroke to $300. He buys because he cannot resist the $100 reduction. The next day he finds that he has a poorly constructed and miserably thin toned piano, and growing suspicious, he goes to the Hospe "One Price Store" and finds a much better piano at a flat price of $275, no more asked, no more or no less accepted.

Moral: Keep Your Eyes Open and Try the HOSPE PLAN

You'll never know how really good a HOSPE PIANO is until you compare it with the rest. You'll never know how well the Hospe plan of piano selling will suit you until you look into it. The Hospe plan is just, because it's right, Right, because it's just.

It saves you money, saves your nerves and your patience.
