UNCLE SAM'S BIG PRISON

Mortimer Stuart, Formerly of Nebraska Tells of Bilbid Penitentiary.

FIVE THOUSAND PRISONERS NOW HELD

Prisoners Made to Learn Trades and a Branch Out of Doors is Established by Government.

NORFOLK, Neb., June 17.—(Special.)

Touring America on a six months' vacation from behind the walls of the biggest prison in the world—Bilbid—the penitentiary of the Philippine islands, located at Manila—Mortimer Stuart, formerly a prominent Nebraskan, with residence at Lincoln and Norfolk, arrived in this city enroute to New York, and in an interview gave some rather astonishing details concerning the new dominion of the United States in the far east, and particularly regarding the immense prison in which he is the first assistant warden.
 Five thousand, three hundred men and women—all of them men excepting 100 womanly feminine creatures—occupy this prison in Manila, which is under control of the United States. None of the prisoners is in for less than two years, as those who are sent up for crimes that punish by less terms than that, are confined in the village jails. Bilbid is the only penitentiary in all the islands. It occupies a space of sixteen acres, and consists of thirty-three one-story buildings erected on the plan of the local cottage systems for insane asylums. There are no cells such as we have in America, as the prisoners in each building all sleep together in one room. They are counted each morning and night, just as in America, and they wear stripes during a portion of their service, just as here. The bunks or beds of the prison are like those in a circus car for employes—made in tiers up the sides of the wall, and of bamboo.

Some Americans Held.

Of the entire 5,300 prisoners there are only 130 Americans serving time. These are in, mostly, for pure vagrancy, which is considered a serious crime. The sentence under the Spanish code, which is still in operation throughout the islands, are more severe than they are here in America. Murder is punished according to the aggravation, the worst form paying the penalty of death. There were sixteen murderers to swing in their doom in the Bilbid prison last year. While Bigelow, the banker here, has just been sent to prison for ten years on a charge of embezzling more than $1,000,000, the highest penalty in Manila for embezzlement, and only a few dollars need be taken, is twelve years, while the more serious cases get twenty years behind the bars.

All of the prisoners are made to work and learn trades. They are put at working on American machinery, too, and every day they are made to learn the names of American articles, going through a school of instruction in regard to the terms, so that they fast get to call every wheel or bolt, or belt by the right American term. They make furniture, wagons, clothing, robes and the like, and their "shop English" is very superior. They learn English more readily, it is said, than do the English learn their language. English is taught in all of the schools in the islands. The prisoners eat a vast amount of food, as the following consumption per day shows: Eighteen thousand loaves of bread daily, 2,500 pounds of beef daily, 4,000 pounds of potatoes. They drink no coffee, preferring ginger tea, made from the native ginger root. They are given enough of church services to make them good, there being two chaplains in the prison and services every Sunday.

Cost is Cheap.

The healthful conditions of the prison are remarkably good when it is considered that in the five years that Mr. Stuart has been in the prison not one single American, used to strange climate, has died. The cost of running the prison, per capita, is less than that of any other prison in the world. The cost is 15c cents per day, while in many states of this country it amounts to 50 cents. The proceeds from the manufactured goods go to the government. Each prisoner gets seventy-two cigarettes each week—three packages containing twenty-four each.

The prison was formerly a Spanish institution and is made of stone walls with iron bars. There are guards with guns patrolling the walls at all hours—part of the guards being Americans and the others natives.
 A system of striped clothing that is unique has been adopted for the prisoners. There are three classes of these people. The first class is the best, and these do not wear stripes and get better treatment. The second class, in which a man is placed for six months at entrance, wears stripes and is given better treatment than the third, which is made up of the bad ones.
 A new system of imprisonment has been adopted on the islands in the nature of a colony to which the penitents are sent. As a reward for good conduct prisoners are sent to the island of Parago and are given each an allotment of land, a house and implements with which to work. This was established eight months ago and has worked in a most satisfactory manner. There have been 300 already sent to this colony, where they are under control of a superintendent, but have no guards. As soon as their time expires they are allowed to retain the land during good behavior, and their families are then allowed to join them. There has been no trouble whatever since this system was started and it is going to be a success.
 One thousand prisoners have been sent to the island of Mindanao under General Wood to build roads and 500 to Albal, guarded by soldiers.
 Many of these inmates of the biggest of the world's prisons today have been led into crime by not fully understanding the conditions. Many who were not punished under the Spanish regime are being arrested and sentenced by Uncle Sam. The story that the natives are treated merely to get them into prison, so that they may learn a trade, is said by Mr. Stuart to be untrue. They are given all of the fairness in the world in their trials. They may appeal to the supreme court, if not satisfied with their own sentence, and if they have no money the state provides for their appealing attorney.

 Many of the judges are native Filipinos, as is the justice of the supreme court.

ALL SAINTS CHOIR PICNICS

Annual Outing with Some Features in Progress at Lake Manawa.

Contrary to the predictions of Forecasters a storm of unusual severity is raging in the vicinity of Omaha. The storm center is Lake Manawa, and the immediate cause is the third annual outing of the choir members of All Saints' church, who, being absolutely independent of climatic conditions, are capable of raising a storm anywhere and on the shortest notice. At the time of going to press the members of the choir were rather enjoying themselves, but all the other craft on and around the lake had taken to shelter.
 During the picnic in the storm various sports were being indulged in. The committee on arrangements failed to provide all the accessories of the basket race, and as a lunch basket had to be called into requisition Brother Cramer sailed in and won that. Last year the prize for the biggest that was carried off by Miss Riggs, so to prevent a repetition Miss Barr showed up wearing an inverted clothes basket. Last year Organist Simms lost out somewhere and as a penalty had to officiate at the pump the following Sunday, while the sexton played. The congregation was so well pleased with the change that a committee has been appointed to cripple Simms up in some way to make him lose again. On the start from Omaha Simms was just a little beligerent and wanted to change the committee's plans and go to Hanson park, presumably on account of there being so much water at Manawa. Guild Brother Cramer sailed in and won that. Last year the prize for the biggest that was carried off by Miss Riggs, so to prevent a repetition Miss Barr showed up wearing an inverted clothes basket. Iowa and Nebraska Association Promises Five Hundred Delegates at Omaha Convention.

It is now believed that about 500 members of the Coal Dealers' Association of Iowa and Nebraska will assemble at Omaha June 22 and 23, when the annual convention of the association will be held.
