THOUSANDS GO TO CHICAGO

Big Exodus from Omaha and Nebraska on Cheap Rates.

ALL ROADS SATISFIED WITH RESULTS

Northwestern and Milwaukee Do Not Participate in Five-Dollar Rate, but Haul Large Crowds, Nevertheless.

According to railroad efficials' statements some 11,000 people took advantage today of the $5 round trip Chicago excursion rates over the Burlington, Illinois Central, Western and Rock Island. does not include those who went over the Milwaukee which adhered to the $10 fare, or those who went directly to Milwaukee to the convention of the Modern Woodmen of America, the provocation of the rate fight, over the Northwestern, which did not participate in the $5 rate. Both Milwaukee and Northwestern officials say they had all the traffic they could handle.

"Chicago or bust" seemed to be the cry of the thousands that swarmed into the stations Saturday to take advantage of the $5 rate to Chicago and return. The largest rush was at the Burlington station, when the three sections of the morning train went out. Strategy was required to fill the cars, as all seemed to want to go on the first section. By throwing box cars across the tracks to keep the people from the other sections the officials were able to load the 1.700 people whom these three trains car

W. H. Brill, district passenger agent o the Illinois Central, had a smile that will last forever. He said his road hauled 500 passengers on the early train, 500 on the special which left at 3:40 p. m. and 500 more on the evening train.

Superintendent Jones of the Illinois Central was in the city overlooking the train service and said he was proud of the showing his road had made, first because of the arge number who were accommodated in tourist cars; second, because the train started from Omaha exactly on time, and, third, because of a message he had just re- view ceived from Woodbine stating that the train was running right on the dot.

Stella Hayward, gowned in a loose robe that might have cost 13 cents at a department store bargain sale, bounced into police court Saturday morning with a smile on her face and gaily disordered hair. She quitted the room much changed in domeannor, the corners of her mouth drooping. According to police afficers, Stella filled up on the elixir of life and ran out on the streets of the burnt district, where she proceeded to demonstrate the correct execution of that Oriental dance the last legislature tried to outlaw. PORTLAND, Ore., June 17 .- (Special.)-The Nebraska pavilion and corn palace in the Agricultural building at the exposition is in reality the state headquarters for the Nebraska commission, visiting Nebraskans and sight-seers. The pavilion itself was designed by Thomas R. Kimball of Omaha, a member of the board of architects for the St. Louis exposition. It is Italian in its style of architecture, resembling a summer villa, surrounded by a colonade. The color scheme is chocolate and burnt orange, producing a striking effect. Here are to be found reception rooms for visitors, reading room with the latest newspapers from Nebraska, easy chairs and settees and all conveniences for the comfort of visitors. The center of the building is occupied by little theater, seating over 100 persons, where hourly moving picture exhibitions are given, illustrating the resources of the state. Ten sets of films are shown, each representing some industry of Nebraska. One depicts the life of the farmer from early sowing time through the corn plant-orcharding period to corn picking in the fall. Another series represents the cattle industry, from the feed lot to the stock vards, and the packing houses of South Omaha. Another series show cattle scenes upon the ranches in the western part of the state, the growth of alfalfa, the poultry and dairy life, the raising of sugar beets and manufacture of the product into sugar. A number of the films show scenes taken at the State fair and the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities at Omaha. One of the most notable pictures is that of the late President Mo-Kinley at the Transmississippi exposition at Omaha. This is one of the very few moving pictures of the late president in existence. The lease was at once signed and executed and the detention home will soon of water pumped daily, the amount of be ready to receive any children committed water furnished Omaha and South Omaha to its care. A strong protest against locating the home on South Tenth street was made by some First ward people, but it did not avail. Chairman Kennard offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that hereafter no individual commissioner shall order any supplies, repairs of unprovements. All such must come from the heads of departments, be referred to a committee and reported on in the regular way, unless danger to life or property is involved. The board reconsidered the resolution cuting down the fees of attorneys who defend pauper prisoners, but went on record as opposed to any payments in future in cases where the charges are polled. Commissioner McDonald offered and the board adopted a resolution instructing the county clerk to advertise for bids for printing the county legal notices, including delinquent tax sale notices, for one year from July 1, 1966. The notice asking for bids is to be printed once in some one newspaper and bids are to be opened on Friday, June 30.
