NO TALK BUT SEVERAL SIGNS

Stanley Nor Church People Will Speak of Affairs at the First Methodist.

Neither Ben Stanley, former organist and choirleader at the First Methodist church, nor the trustees who have the matter in charge, will talk about the present status of affairs regarding Mr. Stanley, the choir and the ecclesiastical music which is promised next Sunday. It was intimated, however, that something may be given out Saturday. Negotiations are said to be pending that may result in Mr. Stanley resuming charge of things in and around the pipe organ. Those speaking with authority say that the report that Mr. Stanley was paid only $1,200 a year when he contracted for $1,500 is erroneous, and that the choirmaster received $1,500 and never said anything to the contrary.

SEVERE STORM AT LEXINGTON

Houses Are Unroofed, Trees Blown Down and Cars Moved.

LEXINGTON, Neb., June 23.—(Special Telegram)—A terrific rain and electrical storm passed over this city between 10 and 11 o'clock last night, doing an immense amount of damage to property. The East Ward school building, Smith's opera house, Gilmore's pharmacy and other buildings were unroofed and partially wrecked. Wooden stairways, awnings, chimneys, fences, trees and windmills were blown all a direction. Two freight cars standing at a switch west of the depot were blown eastward nearly a half mile and dented.

ENCHANTMENT DOING BETTER

Larger Attendance Enjoys a Smoother Performance of the Pretty Spectacle.

TOKIO, June 23.—The following dispatch has been received today from the headquarters of the Japanese armies in Manchuria:

In the vicinity of Yingcheng, June 21, a thousand of the enemy's infantry, pressing our rear and cutting off our lines of communication, were repulsed by the force of the Weiyuanpao.

After our force, which occupied Yangmullatai, had completely destroyed the enemy's communication lines, we captured the heights and pursued him.

The enemy, consisting of three battalions and four squadrons, with twelve guns, advanced through the eastern districts of the Kaoping mountains on the 21st of June. At 11:30 in the morning his infantry gradually appeared on the heights between Changpang and Liechtuan and his artillery posted on the heights of Liechtuan shelled the northern heights of Nantcheny.

Our force, which occupied Yangmullatai, had completely destroyed the enemy's communication lines, we captured the heights and pursued him.

Otherwise the situation is unchanged.

GUINSHU PASS, Manchuria, June 23.—The Japanese are no longer pressing the Russians on the south and no doubt is now entertained as to whether the weak offensive is the precursor of a big battle or a diplomatic bluff.

Belief in the prompt conclusion of peace is weakening. The heat is intolerable, even the nights affording little relief.

German Warship Present.

MANILA, June 23.—An officer of a British steamer advises the Associated Press from Hong Kong that when the Russian auxiliary cruiser Dneper captured the British steamer Oldhamia, the Puerto Bismarck was present, mingling with the vessels of Admiral Rojestsvensky's fleet, and later accompanied the prize and its escort in the direction of Vladivostok.

The Oldhamia, laden with a cargo of kerosene for Yokohama, was captured by the Dneper on May 19, but on May 27 was recaptured by Japanese warships and taken to Saibei.

The Puerto Bismarck was purchased by the Russian government, transformed into an auxiliary cruiser and renamed the Don.

Doubt as to Oyama's Plan.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.—A. P. m.—According to today's news from the front the Japanese, after driving in the Russian advance posts, pushed yesterday and doubt seems to exist as to whether Field Marshal Oyama has yet gotten his column in position to strike or is assuming a false offensive for effect on the peace negotiations.

In consequence of British representations, British warships will be dispatched to convey orders to the Russian auxiliary cruisers Dneper and Rion to cease interference with shipping and to return immediately.

You may allow Russian admirals to embark their sick and wounded officers and men on Russian hospital ship, daily expected, upon their giving parole not to engage in hostilities during the war. You may also allow them to bring from Shanghai material for repairing damaged ships, but you must prohibit the use of such material for military purposes.

Language Professor Insane.

Missing Member of Leland Stanford Faculty Found Working in Small Cafe in New York.

NEW YORK, June 23.—M. M. Ramsey, professor of languages of Leland Stanford university, California, a graduate of Columbia, a fellow of Johns Hopkins university, member of the American Philological association and the Linguistic Society of America, was arrested today on a charge of insanity, which was later changed to insanity.

Ramsey was taken to Bellevue to await the arrival of two physicians from Baltimore, who were interested in recovering his whereabouts in New York. The only reference Ramsey made to his plight was to remark: "This is all a farce; all a farce."

Ramsey left California three months ago. Since then his friends lost all trace of him. His wife was Agnes E. Ramsey, chief translator of the international American conference, whom he married in 1899. He had little money when he reached New York. Since he has been here he has worked in various small restaurants and cafes on the east side as waiter.

BANKER SURRENDERS HIMSELF

Cashier of Defunct New York Concern Will Be Tried for False Entry.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 23.—Fred R. Green, cashier of the Fredonia National bank of Fredonia, N. Y., for the arrest of whom a warrant had been issued, today surrendered himself and gave bail for hearing on Monday. The bank was closed by the comptroller of the currency on Monday.

The warrant issued against Green charges him with making a false entry on the effect that the Fredonia National bank had a credit in the State bank of Forestville when such credit does not exist.

It is alleged that the books of the Fredonia National bank show that the State bank of Forestville is indebted to the Fredonia institution to the amount of $2,212.75, whereas the books of the Forestville institution show that that bank has $14,000 due it from the Fredonia National bank.

Auditors for Standard Company Go Over Books of Alleged Independent Concerns.

MISSOURI DIVIDED INTO SECTIONS

When an Order is Received by One Company from Another's Territory It is Sent Over.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 23.—The testimony at today's session of the hearing before Special Auditor Anshutz of the suit instituted in the state supreme court by Attorney General Hadley of Missouri to revoke the charters of the Standard Oil company, the Waters-Pierce Oil company and the Republic Oil company, tended to show the close relations existing between the Standard and Waters-Pierce companies.

George N. Hendricks testified that from 1890 to 1904 he was an employee of the Waters-Pierce company. He stated that the "standard auditor" in 1904 audited the books of the Waters-Pierce company in St. Louis and that since that time the books were audited by a man named Backus whom the witness declared he knew was employed by the Standard company.

Mr. Hendricks also testified that Missouri was divided into sections by the Standard and Waters-Pierce companies and stated that when an order was received by the Waters-Pierce concern from a customer in the Standard's territory it was sent to the nearest Standard Oil agency.

The cross-examination of Mr. Hendricks was conducted by Attorney Johnson, representing the Waters-Pierce company. In reply to questions the witness said it was customary for clerks employed by the Waters-Pierce company to caution each other to be careful in their work, as the "standard auditor" was coming.

When asked how the coming of the auditor was known, Mr. Hendricks said that information was sent to the St. Louis office from No. 36 Broadway, New York City, and that officers of the company would speak about the approaching visit of the auditor.

During the cross-examination Mr. Hendricks stated that oil was received in East St. Louis, Ill., in Union Tank Line cars, pumped across the Mississippi river and shipped west in Waters-Pierce tank cars.

Mr. Hendricks also testified that he left the employ of the Waters-Pierce company after a service of twenty-four years, and had not been told, nor could he learn the reason.

WATERS-PIERCE OFFICIALS RECALK

Announcement was made tonight that President Andrew Finlay and Vice President R. B. Tinsley of the Waters-Pierce Oil company had tendered their resignations, which had been accepted and the corporation had been reorganized with Clay A. Pierce, son of H. Clay Pierce, as president. While it is intimated that the reorganization is owing to the present state of investigation, both officers and attorneys in no way responsible and the fact that President Finlay was yesterday subpoenaed as a state's witness was not considered. It was stated that Mr. Finlay would remain with the company as vice president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Vice President Tinsley and that he had resigned the presidency because of ill health.

BANK BOOKS ARE EXAMINED

Official Records Are Investigated by Order Issued by United States Judge Carland.

Pursuant to an order issued by Judge John E. Carland at the February term of the United States circuit court held in this city, an examination of the books and accounts of the defunct Bank of Overton, Davess county, in the instance of S. L. Hardinger, is being held before United States Circuit Court Clerk George H. Thummler as special referee.

The Bank of Overton went into voluntary liquidation three or more years ago, being practically absorbed by the bank at Lexington, Neb. S. L. Hardinger of Missouri was a stockholder in the Bank of Overton, or at least was an owner of a considerable block of stock in the bank at the time of its liquidation. S. L. Hardinger, a relative of S. Hardinger, was cashier of the bank, and held also some of the stock in the bank.

Cashier Hardinger went to Chicago some time before the bank went into liquidation and his body was shortly thereafter found in Lincoln park, where evidently he had committed suicide. Whether his suicide had anything to do with the subsequent action of the bank's going into liquidation is not clear. However, S. L. Hardinger brought suit against the bank and its directors for his share of the proceeds or dividends of the bank, representing the amount he had invested therein. The case has been tried in various forms in the United States courts for two or three years past, one feature of the case being its introduction into the United States circuit court of appeals. However, the present proceedings are for an accounting and examination of the records of the bank held at the instance of S. L. Hardinger to ascertain his rights in the matter.
