POLITICIANS GETTING BUSY

Aspiring Office Seekers Find Plenty to Interest in Supreme Court Decision.

CALL OF STATE COMMITTEE COMES FIRST

After State Committee Leads the Way It Will Be in Order for County Committee to Follow On.

The decision of the supreme court that an election will be held this fall to choose county and state officers, in spite of the law passed by the last legislature postponing it a year, has worked a sudden transformation in the local political firmament. The streets have been dotted with more groups of gossiping politicians today than for many a moon, although sufficient time has not yet elapsed to crystallize the programs of the various nascent candidates. "The first thing to come," said an active republican who is in close touch with the party organization, "is a call for a meeting of the state committee. It will be useless for the local committees to get together or try to do anything until they know when and where the state convention is to be held and what representation they are to have in it. The state republican headquarters have been removed to Lincoln, so that the meeting will probably take place there in the course of ten days or two weeks. As the state convention will be a comparatively unimportant one, there will probably be a little contention over it. "After the state committee leads the way it will be in order for the county committee to establish the rules of the game as it is to be played here in Douglas county. We will for the first time operate under the new primary election law, which requires for direct nominations by all parties. The very fact that the law is a new one leaves several points obscure and open to different interpretations.

Intention of Lawmakers. "The intention of the lawmakers was to have the primary election and the first registration day in one, but the bill changing the date of registration fell by the wayside. The law contemplates the use of last year's registration as the roll of voters, but the redistricting of the city into new wards promises to complicate this side of it. There has even been talk that the primary election law is a questionable constitutionality, but I do not know of any who would care to test it." The decision of the court affects the democrats and populists the same as it does the republicans, and here in Douglas county they will all be subject to the primary law. The democrats expect to have their state committee called together soon, but nothing has been heard from the populists.

Drexel is Gratified. County Clerk Drexel expresses gratification over the decision of the supreme court knocking out the biennial election law. "It will," says Mr. Drexel, "give the democrats a better chance to win, as the election will be held in an off year." But in another direction the county clerk sees trouble ahead for his office. This is in the matter of preparing for the election. He thinks there will be some difficulty in getting all the preliminaries ready on time, especially on account of the delay on the part of the city council in dividing the newly arranged wards into primary districts.

"All of these precincts must be arranged," says Mr. Drexel, "and the voting places fixed upon, so that they can be announced in the proclamation of the county clerk calling for a primary election. As this must be published about July 20, it will take some swift work by the council. This office will proceed just as if everything was fixed, and if we should be brought up against the kind of a problem I have indicated, we will simply appeal to the legal authorities to straighten out any tangle." Under the new primary law, the primary is to be held on Tuesday, seven weeks preceding the general election, which would make the date Tuesday, September 26. At least sixty days before this date the clerk must publish a notice once a week for three consecutive weeks in at least two newspapers. He must also post, in each precinct, notices of the time and place where the primaries will be held.

Filing of Applications. Candidates who desire to be voted for at the primaries must file their applications for place on the ballot with the clerk thirty days before the date for the primary, and before doing so must deposit with the county treasurer 1 per cent of the total emoluments of the office they seek for the term. For instance, in the case of a candidate for county clerk, salary $2,500 a year, the fee will be $25, 1 per cent on $2,500. The county treasurer's receipt will be the clerk's warrant for placing a man's name on the primary ballot. No fee will be less than $10 under the law. Men who want to be delegates to a convention must pay a filing fee of 50 cents.

Political parties having representation on the last general election ballot shall be entitled to a separate primary ballot if they polled 1 per cent of the total vote. The clerk must group all the candidates of one party on a separate ballot; of these samples must be conspicuously posted. All ballots will be uniform in size and color. Rotation of the names of candidates for any office is also provided for, this being a detail of the printing, so that each man's name shall appear an equal number of times at the top. After being thus printed the ballots will be laid off in piles, one at a time, to maintain the regularity of this provision. Polls for the primary are to be open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Incidentally it may be stated the conducting of a primary election will cost the county about $18,000, according to Mr. Drexel, and fees will be but a small part of this.

COMES UP FROM THE OZARKS

Frank Field, Old Omaha Boy, Visits Friends After Many Years' Absence.

Frank Field, manager of several sawmills in Arkansas and Indian Territory, is in the city for a few days, returning from St. Paul. Mr. Field graduated from the Omaha High school in 1888 and afterwards went to Dartmouth. After graduation from college Mr. Field went to Arkansas to engage in the hardwood lumber business, locating at Fayetteville, in the Ozark mountains, and the seat of the Arkansas State university. He said he had moved from Fayetteville about 100 miles west into the Indian Territory where there was more hard wood and where everything was booming. Land is on the jump and everything is making money who has any land at all. Fayetteville is the center of the apple growing country of the south and the Ozark mountains are especially adapted to apple orchards.

WIZARD GOES TO PORTLAND

Kilpatrick, One-Legged Cyclist, Passes Through Omaha on Way to Exposition. Charles G. Kilpatrick, originator and rider of sensationalism, who made the ride for life with his bicycle and one leg at Krur park last summer, passed through the city Friday morning enroute to the Portland exposition, where he will put on his new stunt. This consists of riding an auto at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour up a steep incline, turning it around on a sixteen-foot platform, and then making the ride down the incline again. He is famous for his capital steps ride, spiral loop-the-loop, cycle darts, leaping the gap, aerial loop-the-loop, flying machines and other death-producing equipments which he operates, although he has but one leg left.

INTEREST NOT UP TO CITY

Proceeds on Claims of Outside Persons Not Chargeable to Municipality.

SUCH IS DECISION OF MR. BREEN

Demand for Opinion on Subject Grows Out of Refusal of Grant to Accept Warrants, Face Value.

City Attorney Breen has given the city treasurer a written opinion in which he lays down the rule that the city cannot be held responsible for interest on claims which have been held up by litigation, started by outside persons. The demand for an opinion on the subject grew out of the refusal of John Grant, general manager for the Nebraska Bitulithic company, to accept the face value of the warrants for paving and having repairs in 1904, just released under an agreement among the warring paving contractors. Grant requested $642 interest, or at the rate of 7 per cent on all the warrants, and the treasurer promptly refused to pay it. The matter was immediately taken up with the legal department and the city attorney lost no time in expressing his views. He says positively that there is no warrant or authority for holding the city liable for the interest in such cases, which grew out of the bitter fight between Grant and the Barber Asphalt company. Using one case as an example, he shows that a warrant for $2,200 for 1904 paving repair work was ready for payment September 21, 1904, the claim having been allowed by the council. A competing contractor, Charles E. Fanning, filed notice of an appeal from the allowance of the claim and carried the matter into court. The city was restrained from paying over the money, although it had the cash on hand to do so. Whereas the Barber company had about $10,000 worth of Grant's claims tied up, the latter got the bars put up on over $2,000 owing to the former. Matters hung this way until the other day, when it was agreed to dismiss the cases and let the money get into circulation. The Barber work was ready for payment September 21, 1904, the claim having been allowed by the council. A competing contractor, Charles E. Fanning, filed notice of an appeal from the allowance of the claim and carried the matter into court. The city was restrained from paying over the money, although it had the cash on hand to do so.

DATES FOR THE ORPHANS' FAIR

Debt Raising Benefit for St. James Orphanage Scheduled for Next Fall.

The projected fair for the benefit of St. James' orphanage will be held at the Auditorium October 19 to 23, inclusive. This much of the plans was settled at a meeting of the managers Thursday evening, and the Auditorium was engaged for these dates. The object of the fair is to materially reduce the $20,000 debt standing against the orphanage and enable the institution to more effectively carry on its mission of providing a home for the homeless little ones and educating them for the duties of life.

BERKA SPRINGS A NEW ONE

Police Judge Holds Man in Balloon Has Visible Means of Support.

Judge Berka has ruled that a man who makes balloon ascensions has visible means of support, although the balloon may not be visible at times to the unclothed optic. The occasion for the police magistrate's latest ruling was the arraignment of John Rigby and Charles Rukerts, who were arrested on charges of vagrancy. The men offered to make an ascension in the court room to satisfy the judge, but the magistrate was satisfied when Billy Roberts came forward and said Rigby and Rukerts had been working for him as aeronauts.

Health Commissioner Says Publication of Alleged Typhoid Epidemic is Criminal.

CANNOT BE TOO STRONGLY CONDEMNED

No Such Conditions Existed and Story of Fake Newspaper Was Entirely Without Foundation in Fact.

"It is little less than criminal for a newspaper to print a story to the effect that Omaha has a typhoid epidemic," said Health Commissioner Ralph. "Language is hardly strong enough to denounce the falsity of statements to this effect recently made. There is no typhoid epidemic in Omaha and the city water supply is perfectly pure and wholesome, according to the best expert chemical and bacteriological examinations we can get. Since it was reported that we had an epidemic here inquiries have been coming to this office, not only from citizens, but from other states and towns, asking for the facts. The idea of alarming the people who live here and giving the city's general health condition a black eye is utterly reprehensible. "It is true that for the first five months of the year sixty-two cases of alleged typhoid, or more than was reported in 1903 or 1904, were reported to this office, but this does not mean an increase. It is due to the fact that last winter I went before the Douglas County Medical association and urged that all typhoid cases be reported, stating that if the doctors did not comply with the law in this respect arrests would follow. The reasons I presented for reporting the cases made a marked impression on

Hotel Clerks Meeting

President Anderson of the Hotel Clerks' association announces that the date of the meeting of the Hotel Clerks' association announced for July 2, at Council Bluffs, has been changed to the evening of June 30. The meeting will be held on that evening at the Grand hotel, Council Bluffs, the association being the invited guests of the proprietor of that hotel. The members will meet at the Millard hotel, this city, at 8:30 on the evening of June 30, and will take the Council Bluffs car from that point.

Excursion Dates Changed.

The next trade excursion of the Commercial club will be July 19, 20, 21 and 22, instead of July 12, 13, 14 and 15, as heretofore proposed. The change was decided on at a meeting Friday of the trade extension committee of the club. It was learned by the committee that the majority of the business men of the city found it more convenient to go on the later date.
