Atlantic fleet and placed under the command of Rear Admiral Sigsbee to escort

mander-in-chief of the French northern squadren. The passage of the warships was made at an average speed of twelve knots in all weather, nearly the entire run being in an area of low barometric pressure, with consequent thick and rainy weather. The squadron maintained its formation in column throughout, stopping only once, and then only to transfer some men from the Tacoma to the Brooklyn.

Wireless Telegraph Experiments. The Brooklyn communicated by wireless telegraph with the Hamburg-American line steamer Deutschland, eastward bound, late last Monday, and with the American line steamer New York, westbound, at about the same time.

Under the management of the bureau of equipment, interesting experiments were made in wireless telegraphy, various types of receivers being installed on board the Brooklyn A message from Cape Cod was received 140 miles at sea, although the weather conditions were not favorable During the voyage Rear Admiral Sigsbee communicated by signal to the squadron all details of the landing of a guard of honor as an escort to the remains from Paris to Cherbourg. This escort will include more than 500 men under arms. On board the Brooklyn a catafalque was constructed on the port side of the gun deck, immediately forward of the admiral's cabin. The casket will rest on a wooden dais. Mourning curtains are draped in double folds and the canopy on the inside is decorated with French and Russian ensigns and an American jack, representing the three naval services in which Admiral Jones held command. The casket will be draped with an American ensign

Official Reports from Russia.

WASHINGTON, June 30 .- A dispatch received at the State department over night from Consul Heenan at Odessa says in substance

Six officers of the Potemkine killed, eigh liberated, remainder prisoners. The fleet has not arrived at Odessa. Harbor largely destroyed by fire. Fifty rioters killed and many Russian steamers burned.

Another dispatch from the same source, timed Odessa, 6:10 p. m., says:

"Boat firing on town. No fleet." A cablegram also has been received from

Ambassador Meyer at St. Petersburg, which says:

Information from Odessa that 500 rioters have been killed. The harbor largely de-stroyed by fire and a battleship firing on the town. Fleet not arrived. Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador at of marines are reported to have mutinied were surrounded by artillery and infantry

Despite all of the discouragement and ob-stacles which have surrounded this work, as the secretary knows and has practically stated in his letter. I endeavored to faith-fully and vikorously perform the duties of my office and have never complained or criticised my superiors or any one con-nected with the work, and, as stated in the secretary's communication. I have never requested additional emoluments or asked any favors of a personal nature, and any suggestions which I have made, as his statement will bear me out, have been made because I considered them necessary for the increased efficiency of the work. The reorganization of the work in April was not considered ideal, but as it was such a decided improvement over the exist-ing condition of affairs and seemed to be all that could be done under existing laws. I gave it my hearty approval. I have no criticism of personnel or in-dividuals, but I do believe that the ob-stacles due to the governmental methods required by existing laws are so serious that they will have to be eliminated if the American people are to see the Panama canal constructed in a reasonable time and at a moderate cost. My only desire in this statement has been and some of the marines surrendered. It is further stated that the indications are that

Statement of August Belmont.

When asked today if it was true that the Interborough Rapid Transit company had engaged John F. Wallace, formerly chief engineer of the Panama canal, resulting in his resignation from the canal position. August Belmont, president of the Interborough company, said:
