Elder Gorst Dwells on Christ's Long-Enduring Patience with Man.

Presiding Elder Gorst preached at Walnut Hill Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning on the relations of God to man and the purpose of creation.

"I have no sympathy," said Elder Gorst, "with those people who pretend to believe that God could halt a moment to create the world, but that the cry of a poor woman or the necessities of a child are things too small to engage His attention. Man is the divine ideal and masterpiece of God in creation, in fashloning whom God put in His last and finest touches. I take it He had no particular in forming a world just for its own sake, or for His plaything, as a ball is the plaything of a boy. He made man in His own image and for him He made the world, a place to work out His plan. He made it, too, for man to beget sons and daughters, sentient spirits that must be linked with heaven.

"Because of what he was when God had finished His creating work, man was given dominion over himself. Like his Father, he is a free moral being to make choice over his own destintes. He has become a rebel. Man gets too far away from God the star and God looks so small.

"But God couldn't let go of man that way. To do so would be to confess failure on the part of an infinite being to create and perfect moral character. Man about two inches more than the normal is His son, a part of Him, a sentient apirit to be led to heaven, and He is going to care for what He has made and prove the perfection of His plan."

SERMON TO DEAF AT TRINITY

Rev. James H. Cloud Uses Sign Langauge to Impress His Heavers.

Rev. James H. Cloud of St. Louis, minister of St. Thomas' mission for the deaf and general missionary for the deaf in the western and northwestern diocese of the Episcopal church, conducted services Sunday afternoon for the deaf of Omaha and Council Bluffs at Trinity cathedral. Rev. Mr. Cloud has been engaged in the work of bringing the gospel to those who can not hear nor speak and holds services here every two months.

"They have Moses and their prophets; le them hear them," was the text selected by the minister yesterday afternoon. The gen eral line of thought conveyed by Rev. Mr Cloud to his audience through the medium of the sign language was that, regardless of circumstances, every person has within him or herself sufficient for salvation if opportunities are taken advantage of.
