The Americans made a most favorable impression by their sturdy bronzed appearance and the smartness of their movements. They were received at the milltary school by a battalion of French troops drawn up in the great court. Again the national anthems were played and salutes were exchanged. The Americans were then taken within the military school, which serves as the barracks during their stay here.

The American sailors and French soldiers were soon on the most friendly basis, frater sing, eating and chatting together while awaiting the ceremony of the delivery of Paul Jones' body at the American church on the Avenue de l'Alma at 3:30 this afternoon.

Standing Rock Agency, N. D., said: A properly equipped day school, in charge of a competent, Christian teacher and housekeeper, improves the moral condition of the camp where the school is situated and by example of a good garden shows the advantage to be derived from agricultural pursuits. In following the plan for in-dividual gardens as given in the course of study for the Indian schools, the pupil becomes interested in his garden at school, talks it over at home in the evening, the indian parents become interested and it is a common occurrence to see the pupil bring the parents to school to show them with pride the results of his labors. From these individual gardens the pupil is al-lowed to take home at least half of the produce, which not only increases the in-terest of the pupil, but by its influence has caused the parents to enlarge the gardens at hame.
