COURT HAS WATER RATE CASE

Judge Munger Hears Argument of Board and Company on Injunction.

NO DECISION DUE FOR SEVERAL DAYS

John L. Webster Contends Board Had Right to Fix Schedules Under the Contract with Corporation.

The arguments in the Omaha Water company injunction case in the United States circuit court were resumed Friday morning. The first speaker was John L. Webster, associate attorney for the water board. Mr. Webster's contention was that the water board had the perfect right to establish rates under the contract with the water company under its franchise and that the city had never for a moment relinquished its right to do so. He showed alleged discrimination in rates practiced by the board and cited the rates charged by other cities in comparison with Omaha. Reference also was made to the rates allowed the South Omaha stock yards, the Union Pacific Railroad company and the smelter company, in comparison with the rates charged other Omaha consumers of water. Mr. Webster talked along the lines indicated in the answer of the water board to the water company's application for a temporary injunction and fortified his remarks with citations from numerous authorities giving the water board the right to fix rates.

Woolworth Closes Argument.
Judge J. M. Woolworth delivered the final argument for the water company. His argument bore more particularly upon the legal phases of the case; the ultimate confusion that would result from a multiplicity of suits against the water company should the injunction be dissolved. He dwelt upon the impossibility of striking a fair average rate for water as applied to all consumers, because of the great quantities that some corporations and manufacturers use and the small amount used by numerous consumers. He said the service to the small consumer required the same care in proportion as to the large consumer of water and for this reason rates had to be charged in conformity to the amount of water consumed by the individual. Judge Woolworth closed his argument for an hour during the afternoon and the case was finally taken under advisement by Judge Munger. A decision in the matter is not looked for for several days.

NEGRO ROBS HI'S MISTRESS

Employed as Conductor, Pretending to Be a German, He Loots a Fortune.

Ed Scoggins, a colored individual living in the north part of the city, was landed in jail early last evening on a charge of being a suspicious character. About a week ago there appeared in an Omaha paper an advertisement by a prominent woman living on South Tenth street for a cookman and a general man servant, the advertisement stipulating that a German was preferred. Scoggins, who looks so much like a white man that a second look and sometimes even a third is required to identify the negro blood which flows through his veins, was one of the many applicants for the position, and, being unable to speak German, told his prospective woman employer that his father was a German and begged that he might not lose the position on that account. He was employed. Yesterday morning, when the woman was preparing to go out, she found that about $30 out of $75 was missing from her handbag, and upon thinking the matter over remembered that she had left the new coachman in the kitchen while she went to a neighbor's for only a few moments. A further investigation showed that the drawer where the purse had been was disturbed. The police station was called and Detectives Paulino and Horne were detailed on the case and the arrest of the coachman followed.

HOLDS FOR FOURTH DAY

City Attorney Brown Says All Voters Must Register Before Going in Primaries.

MUST STAY WITH PARTY LAST SUPPORTED

Refers to the Dodge Bill as "Worst Balled Up Legislation Ever Turned Out at Lincoln."

Although he is not yet quite committed to it, City Attorney Brown gives it as his opinion that under the Dodge primary law all voters must register before they participate in the primary, thus establishing a fourth day of registration, as the statute seems to contemplate. He says, however, that the voter will be required to participate in the affairs of the party with which he affiliated at the last general registration before, and not according to his new declaration of party allegiance, provided he changes. Following out this theory, a man who registered as a democrat last fall might come to the primaries intent on becoming a republican, so register, but be refused a republican ticket and compelled to select his candidates for nomination from among those on the democratic lists.

"I hold that no one can take part in the primaries without first registering," says the city attorney, "and that the registration of the first day is to be used as the basis for determining party affiliation at the next succeeding primary, and so on. Further, I contend that the primary registration day is the only one upon which a voter can officially affiliate with a party and place himself in a position to select its candidates. The three other registration days are for the purpose of recording the voter's qualifications only, and he will not be allowed or required to give his party affiliations. Therefore every voter must come out on primary day and register his qualifications and party affiliation if he wants to participate in any primary at the next election."

No matter which way he rules, City Clerk Elbourn has promised to take the matter into the district court and get a decision from the bench for according registration rights to voters on the primary day. At the city hall and court house the sentiments about the new primary law are summed up in the city attorney's expression: "The worst balled-up piece of legislation that was ever turned out of Lincoln."

SHINGLES SAIL ON THE WIND

One of the Freaks of the Storm of Thursday Night as Told by the Victim.

A peculiar freak was perpetrated by the storm Thursday night at the residence of J. P. Yost, thirty-second and Corby streets. The shingles from almost the entire east side of the roof were torn off and the chimney demolished, but the west side of the roof was unharmed. Even the sheeting of the roof on the east side was not materially damaged, but the shingles were sent in every direction. One of the shingles was blown through a pane of glass of a nearby residence and demolished the lamp sitting on a table. The occupants of that house thought it was struck by lightning and hiked out into the storm to await results, but no further results materializing the family returned to their domicile and repaired the damage wrought by the shingle.
