CHILDREN OUT OF THIRD WARD

All Not Belonging There Will Be Removed by Juvenile Court.

OFFICER BERNSTEIN AND POLICE UNITE

Campaign of Investigation is to Be Waged with View of Caring for the Little Fellows.

Chief Probation Officer Bernstein is ready to open his campaign for cleaning out the Third ward. With his assistants, D. M. Haverly and Mrs. Charlotte Towle, he will this week begin a canvass of the derelict district to ascertain just how many children of tender years are living in it The circumstances of each family and their reasons for living in the district with children will be inquired into. This done, In every case where the facts will warrant the action, the parents are to be ordered to move out. If they refuse the children will be taken from them and be taken into the juvenile court.

Mr. Bernstein says a great many children are living in the Third ward who should not be there. He is going to take advantage of the provisions of the Juvenile law to take them away from their immoral surroundings. The probation officers also will give some attention to cases where whites and negroes are living together. In fact, wherever the officers find conditions which are suspicious they intend to take drastic action to rectify them. The policy department and the juvenile officers will work in harmony in the campaign, which has been planned to take the children away from the red light section of the city. The completion of the new detention home furnishes a place to put them if the parents do not comply with the orders of the juvenile court.

Boys Break Their Parole.

Fifteen small boys who are under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court on suspended sentences have broken the'r parole by failing to report to the probation officers as ordered by Judge Day. Chief Probation Officer Bernstein and his two assistants are determined to have the orders of the court respected, and to that end they will put in the next few warm days on a hot chase after the delinquent youngsters. It is proposed to place them in the detention home except in cases where some good reason can be given for not reporting. As many of the lads are averse to being confined and are on the watch for the probation officers at all times, "Mogy" and his two assistants are rather looking for an exciting hunt before they round up their nimble

WILSON TALKS TO MACHINISTS

Fourth Vice President Addresses the Local Unions on Organization and Its Benefits.

A called meeting of the local machinists unions of Omaha was held at Labor Temple Monday night to listen to an address on labor matters by T. L. Wilson of San Francisco, fourth vice president of the International Association of Machinists in charge of the western division. He spoke principally of the good results arising from the organization of the machinists on the Pacific coast, particularly the railroad machinists, and the good feeling that now prevails among them and their relations with the railroads. He said that at the time of the close of the Union Pacific strike there were but 68,000 members in the order, and that it was then predicted by the enemies of the Machinists association that it was doomed. Since that time the association has increased to 135,000 members and is growing encouragingly, and has a big fund in the treasury. The purpose of Mr. Wilson's visit is to stimulate a more active organization in this section particularly. He specially advocated the policy of a nine-hour day, with the equivalent ten hours' pay. By organization this can be effected, and he urged that all machinists outside the order be persuaded to come into it for mutual pro-

Representatives were also present at the meeting from the Label league, who urged that the Machinists union adopt the policy of buying only union made goods. A number of the special committee from that league which was canvassing the city with a view to interesting union men in the purchase of union made goods, stated that if the $5,000,000 that is spent in the city of Omaha each year by union men were applied to the purchase of union made goods that the question of strikes and boycotts would be ended. This movement he said, is spreading rapidly through the state and central west and the canvass in this interest will be pushed vigorously. At the conclusion of Mr. Wilson's address an hour was spent in asking and answering questions, and a vote of thanks was extended the speaker for his address.

'It was the second largest meeting ever held by the organization," said the super-Intendent, "and I think one of the best from all points of view. Nebraska had nearly 300 persons present and of this number Omaha contributed about sixty. So far as I know I am the only one who has returned. The others are lingering along the Atlantic coast and will spin out their vacations in these pleasant places as long as they can. This state was fairly well represented on guessed right. There is a deal on for the the programs and I think everyone enjoyed himself and herself thoroughly, in addition to gaining the information and stimulus that are a part of these gatherings."

The superintendent will put in most of the remaining vacation time in working out plans and arrangements for the local that Marshall Field, or Siegel, Cooper &
