mediately Rearrested. When Barney Doran and Joe Trattner, the alleged car bandits, were brought before Justice Field yesterday morning on a change of venue from the court of Justice Gardiner, before whom an information charging them with holding up and robbing Motorman Lucch had been filed, the justice promptly ordered their discharge.

In anticipation of this action on the part of Justice Field, the authorities had filed third information against the two suspects in the superior court, charging them with holding up and robbing Conductor John Raph, one of the crew of the second car held up on the night of Sunday, July 2. A separate information was filed against Doran, charging him with perjury in connection with his obtaining a marriage license in this city on June 10. At the time of the lasuance of the license Doran took oath to the effect that he was 22 years old. but since his arrest he swears he is but 19 years old and his mother has made a similar statement.

Attorney John P. Organ, who is defending Doran and Trattner, decided not to take a change of venue from the superior court to the court of Justice Gardiner, the nearest justice, but preferred to take his chances before Judge Scott. The preliminary hearing on the robbery charge was begun right away and when court adjourned last evening, the state had intro-duced all of its evidence with the exception of one witness, who will be placed on the stand when the hearing is resumed this

The information having been filed in the superior court and the defense having elected to have Judge Scott hold the preliminary hearing Doran and Trattner are now in charge of the city marshal, and instead of being returned to the county jail were placed behind the bars at the city bastile last evening.
