This circumstance coupled with the fact that Bridget had $1,000 insurance on his household effects and only occupied the lower floor of the dwelling arrused the suspicions of Chief Nicholson and he requested that the matter be investigated by the police.

Returns from Three-Fourths of Counties Now in Show Decrease in Population.

NO REPORTS YET FROM THE CITIE

Rapid Growth of Urban Communities Will Probably Have Effect of Showing Small Net

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, July 23 .- (Special.)-With the official census figures given out up to this time there are fifty-four counties in all reported and of these forty-two, or more than three-fourths, show a loss in population. There is now little doubt that the total population of the state will show a decrease. The only possible chance for an increase in the population to be shown is in the fact that the counties containing large cities, such as Des Moines, Council Bluffs, Sioux City, Davenport, Dubuque and Clinton, have not yet been officially reported. It is hardly possible that the gain of the cities will be sufficient to offset the decrease in the population of the rural counties. In the counties reported there are forty-four cities of various sizes in the thousands and of these thirty-one show a gain and thirteen a loss.

Will Test Homestead Laws. A test of a question affecting the home stead laws is to be made in the case of William O. Rice against J. H. Burkhart and Sheriff W. C. Youel of Benton county according to the argument of the attorney for Rice. Rice for many years made his nome with his father, James Rice, in Benon county, on a forty-acre homestead of the father. The family of William Rice also ived at the same place and he cared for his father in his old age. By will he gave the homestead to the son and Burkhart seeks to collect a judgment of $43 from the farm. Rice claims that the farm is ex empt as being his homestead. According to he attorneys for Rice the particular phase of the homestead laws has never been before the supreme court before. Section 2005. of the code says, after providing for the homestead passing from the husband to the wife or the opposite, provides that in case the husband or wife is not survived by the other the property shall descend to the next of issue according to the ordinary rules of such matters, "unless otherwise directed by will, and is to be held by such issue exempt from any antecedent debts of their parents or their own, except those of the owner thereof contracted prior to its acquisition." It is the claim of the attorneys for Rice that the clause "unless otherwise directed by will," in this case operates to exempt the property as the homestead of Rice.

Horse Case in Court. The famous case from Muscatine of the state against William H. Moore is to be tried in the next term of the supreme court. The last of the pleadings have been filed with the clerk of the supreme court and the issues are ready to be made up. Moore got a horse to catch a runaway horse. A neighbor, J. C. The meeting was entirely by accident, Chaplain McCague coming to the governor's office without knowing that Major Carper was there. Major Carper recruited the chaplain for the Fiftieth Illinois and when the chaplain was shot in the breast and wrist and received a bayonet wound in the side all in one engagement and at practically the same time in the battle of Shiloh he was carried back to the hospital, and the two men met again

Taylor sent $200 to Gaar, Scott & Co., at their Indiana office to pay off a mortgage on an engine. He received the release on the mortgage and the canceled mortgage and went and recorded the release. He had to sue to get the note canceled, as that was not sent. Then the company sued to collect the money, claiming it had never been paid and that the sending of the mortgage and release was a mistake. Taylor has nothing to show that he sent the money. In the lower court, however, he won. Taylor lived at
