Field and Country Clubs Afford Haven for Those Who Stay at Home and Aid in Killing Time.

Rain and Sun. Yesterday it was raining. The skies seemed dark and low. And the east wind all complaining. But then I did not know!

Today the soft rains patter. The dear winds sing and blow. No storm can ever matter. For now, dear heart, I know!—Charles Buxton Going, in August Smart Set.

The Social Calendar. TUESDAY—Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hammer's dancing party for their daughter.

WEDNESDAY—Mrs. George E. Pritchett's luncheon. Ladies' day at the Field and Country clubs with dinner and dances in the evening.

SATURDAY—Dinner and dance at the Field and Country club.

Last week turned out all that it promised to be—dull. Wednesday was the bright spot, being ladies' day at both the Field and Country club and a dozen women availed themselves of this opportunity to entertain at luncheon.

Notwithstanding the fact that it is mid-summer there are at least a score of young women in society who are devoting a good many hours a week—some of them a day—to fancy dancing. This fact is not particularly new, it dates back to last fall and there are in consequence several women in town capable of topichoreon stunts that might surprise their friends if they but knew. It has been several years since the "dog" and the "rag" received the sanction of the really "nice" people as an accomplishment, but about the time that it was generally mastered it went out of fashion. Since then there has been little heard of it until some of the women took it up again last fall, and now the "Chicken Wing," the "Sunday Walk," the "Hoedown," and a lot more that take the feet considerably higher than the floor are common enough. This accomplishment came into good play one time last winter when a party of people returning from Chicago were stalled in the snow for two or three days over in Iowa. Among them was a prominent member of the Country club and his wife. One evening when every other means of killing time had been exhausted, a little party from the train made its way through the snow to the parlor of the hotel in the town nearby where, after exhausting the list of songs old and new, the wife of the Omaha man delighted the little company with a few "steps."

The yacht club at Okoboji held a meeting Thursday and effected a permanent organization. Officers were elected, committees appointed and enough money raised to guarantee a $2,500 club house next year. A concert at the inn Friday evening was an event of the week, the program being contributed by Miss Ethel Fries of Omaha, Miss Dovey of Plattsmouth and Miss Louise Burness of Lincoln.

Last week's yacht race was the prettiest that has been sailed at the lake this season. The Amphitrite, with Captain Laythe, Dent and Sam Slaughter and Lyman Peck as crew, won the race by half a boat's length.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell and Miss Louise Peck left for their home in Omaha Saturday. Cedric Potter, Herbert French, Hubert Potter and Ben Wood broke camp Thursday and said goodbye to Omaha beach.

The following extract from a letter written by an Omaha girl from Lake Madison, Minn., gives some idea of how the colony that goes annually to that resort from Omaha and Council Bluffs is "resting." "The Omaha people here besides ourselves are: Miss Lella Scribner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Dinning and son Robert, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dale and daughter, Mr. Horton Munger, Mr. Paul Verneher, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Van Brunt and sons Harry and George and Mr. Roy De Vol of Council Bluffs. I may as well say just here that there are about four men to every girl and you can judge for yourself what that means—quite a remarkable summer resort, don't you think? We play tennis, go fishing, swimming, walk, go auto riding as well as sailing and rowing. We dance every night except when we are doing some chafing dish stunt or are out on a picnic, and when the moon was out we were generally out on the lake until the wee sma' hours. Besides this we have had hayrack rides, coming home in the moonlight, and beakfast fires at the other end of the lake, and all through we have had the same congenial crowd."

For Miss Adair of Atlanta, Ga., who is the guest of Miss Keeline in Council Bluffs, Miss Marian Consett entertained at dinner last evening at her home, the party going later to the Field club, where they joined the dancers.
