Session.

The joint board meeting of the supervisors of Harrison and Pottawattamie counties resumed its sessions Thursday morning with Chairman Brandes presiding, and Supervisors Hall, Hasbrook and Murray of Harrison county and Supervisors Baker, Bullis, Spencer and Setz of Pottawattamie ounty present.

C. W. Kellogg, attorney for C. D. Butorfield of Missouri Valley, appeared before the board and presented a claim of $1,000 for land taken by the Harrison-Pottawattamie drainage ditch. The claim was made that Butterfield had no notice of the proposed ditch being put through his land, whereby about fifteen acres are appropria ted, and hence he could not file a claim in time for the board meeting.

The claim was referred to County Atorney Haas, who shortly thereafter reported recommending the rejection of the claim on the ground that sufficient formal otice had been given by publication and that the claimant had slept on his rights. The report and recommendation of County Attorney Haas was adopted and the Butterfield claim disullowed.

Mesers. S. C. Eshelman of Harrison county and Henry Weise of Pottawattamie county were appointed as the commissioners, but ...e apsointment of a consulting engined as the third member of the committee was deferred until Thursday morning.

In addition to the foregoing committee, constructing engineer is also to be appointed, who will have charge of all the surveys and construction work of the drainage ditch. The selection of this engineer is also left until the meeting of Thursday morning. An effort will be made to secure the services of Seth Dean of Glenwood, a well known drainage engineer of the state.

About 70,000 acres of land will be reclaimed by the ditch. The land comprises some of the most fertile in the Missouri valley. The name of C. L. Huff of Logan, Ia., was proposed as consulting engineer for the ditch work, but he was defeated by a vote of 3 to 5. The Harrison county comnissioners only voting for him.

All sections of the country have gone forward, expanding in commercial strength, but nowhere is there to be found more remarkable growth than we witness in the territory which is tributary to the St. Mary's canal. The tonnage passing through this canal has risen from an average of 12,000 tons per anrisen from an average of 12,000 tons per annum in the first decade to 25,000,000 tons per annum in the ten years ending in 1901. Last year more than 18,000 vessels passed through these locks, carrying more than 21,500,000 tons of freight, valued at over $340,000,000.

Commerce Will Increase. The maximum has not yet been reached. Chicago, Milweukee, Duluth, Detroit, Toisdo, Claveland, Buffalo and other cities which sit in majesty and power upon the shores of the Great Lakes are rapidly inwhich sit in majesty and power upon the shores of the Great Lakes are rapidly increasing in population and in commercial importance. The great mines are pouring their wealth of cheap material into the channels of trade in rapidly increasing degree. The fertile agricultural regions are sending their vast surplus to feed millions in the east and beyond the Atlantic.

The commerce of the United States has increased beyond the dreams of the most optimistic of a half century ago. Our forcign commerce has, with rapidly, attained a vast volume. It is insignificant, however, in amount gait value when compared with our internal commerce. Railways are taxed to their utmost capacity and our ships upon come by an invesistible law of commercial gravity. It will come because of our increased productive capcity, because of our insuperior ability to supply the needs of others, because of the illimitable resources of our farms, mines and factories; because of multiplied methods and enlarged facilities of cheap transportation from the centers of production down to the seabcard. We take pride in our commerce because it tends to lift the country to a higher and better level. It tends to equalize conditions. It enlarges the opportunity of labor and capital and gives our people more boness and fils them with more of the comforts of life. It brings communities and trade centers together in common interest. A higher civilization follows in its pathway.

Commerce a Means, Not an End.

While we are a commercial people, we are not subservient to commercialism. We are not subservient to commercialism. We seek to expand commerce as a means, not as an end. We seek its conquests that we may minister to those high aspirations which are the birthright of the Anglo-Saxon race.

It is a well recognized maxim of trade that commerce will follow the lines of least resistance. The great lakes afford cheap transportation for the vast commerce tributary thereto. The control by the government of the Sault Ste. Marie canal, its enlargement and improvement, has resulted in stimulating traffic. The United States has been liberal in advancing the interests of commerce. It a vast area and will become, as the y of our population increases and as expands, of incalculable importance future.

How Trade Was

How Trade Was Developed. Second in importance, perhaps, to the address of the vice president, was that made by Hon. Peter White of Marquette, president of the committee, which had in charge the celebration and the most widely known man in the upper peninsula of Michigan. Mr. White's topic was "The Development of the Lake Superior Region." Mr. White is a pioneer in the upper peninsula and is an authority on the history of that part of the state, and its development from an unexplored wilderness to its present importance as a mining center. Mr. White described the development of the mining industry, both copper and iron, in the upper peninsula, and the marvelous growth of the lake marine traffic since the opening of the first 350-foot locks here fifty years ugo. Other addresses were made by Congress-man T. D. Burton of Ohio, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee louse of representatives; Hon. Roldolphe Lemleux, solicitor general of the Dominion of Canada; Governor Fred M. Warner of Michigan on "The State of Michigan and the Building of the St. Mary's Canal;" United States Senator J. C. Burrows on "The Future of American Commerce," and Hon William Livingstone, president of the Lake Carriers' association, on "The Navigaion of the Great Lakes." A number of impromptu addresses were ade by other prominent guests. The ommemoration exercises were so lengthy that they were divided into a morning and afternoon program, the speakers and disinguished guests being entertained during he interval at luncheon at Le Sault de Ste. Marie club.
