SOME TALK OF CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS

Medical Student Punished for Cheating in Examination for Certificate to Practice Medicine.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Aug. 9 .- (Special.) - It became known this afternoon through an authoritative source that Attorney General Norris Brown and former Chief Justice Sullivan have prepared formal complaints to be filed against grain men violating the order of court. This action, it is understood, was prepared to fall back on criminal prosecutions any time that it may be necessary to resort to such methods to keep an open market for the grain which is now being sold. The attorney general has not stated what provisions of the statute will be rebut it is believed that the Junkin net and the special statute against grain and elevator combinations will be invoked. Both provide for the imposition of heavy fines and imprisonment for violations of their provisions. The attorney general has declared his several weeks ago. firm purpose to have the cases brought to a speedy conclusion and violations of the order of the court in the meantime will be visited with the penalties necessary to provide an efficient deterrent. It is underhe will desist from the institution of conconcomitant means for the accomplishment of the supreme end, which is to wind up the grain dealers' combination and insure the farmers against such combinations in Medical Student Expelled. This afternoon student No. 8, who was taking an examination for a certificate before the Board of Medican Secretaries, was expelled from the room in disgrace for using printed notes as aids in answering questions. Dr. Brash, secretary of the board, discovered that the man was using a pony and he stepped behind his deak to make sure that the man was cheating. The student, whose name is given as G. A. Angus of Lincoln, was told to leave the representative chamber where the examination was being held and the notes were confiscated. The man is a graduate of a local medical school and once before failed to pass an examination. The discovery of his use of the pony will disqualify him with the present board. The man kept the pony, which consisted of several printed sheets, carefully indexed, in the front of his shirt where he tould reach them handily. When Dr. Brash mw what he was using he asked to see them, but the man hid them and the secsnatched them from him. Angus turned white with suppressed agitation when he was ordered from the room. An examination of his paper showed that the second question he answered was to describe a dislocation, and among the printed pages was found a technical statement answering the query, which tallied with his written reply to the question. The man's fee of $10 was forfeited and the notes and papers will be kept in the archives of the board. Secretary Brash said that Angus had been practicing, alsome zacklough no license had been issued to him. teen other medical students are being exampled for certificates today.

In every part of the state where the state still has school lands a large fraction of the value is lost, he says, because of the Today the attorney general and Judge fact that the county commissioners who appraise it in the first instance invariably place the land at a figure below its real value in order to favor the buyer. He says that there is an evident desire to defraud the state school fund of the true value in the interest of the individual. They do not scruple to act in that manner because they are required to use their best judgment and they always allow that faculty to side with the individual, as against the state. During his term, and that of his predecessor, George M. Follmer, the appraisements were in many instances subjected to review and new appraisers were chosen from the freeholders with the result that a large sum was saved to the school fund, although it was not what it would have been if the land had been ap-

Under the conditions which prevail, Eaton regards this practical fraud on the school fund as one of the greatest problems with which he has to contend. He has found that the local people who appraise land have apparently no conscience which would intervene in behalf of the general interests of the schools of the state.

FALLS CITY-Richardson county has had one of the best wheat crops this year that the county has harvested in a good many years. The farmers planted about the usual acreage of wheat and the crop avercages all over the county between thirty and thirty-five bushels to the acre of No. 2 hard wheat. There has been considerable grain marketed, but none of it was sold under 80 cents and lots beught 88 and 87 cents a bushel. The farmes of Richardson county do not have to sell a crop as soon as it is gathered at the most of them are holding the wheat for a higher market. The oats crop is light, but a very fine quality of grain, but the acreage is small and there will not be much placed on the market as the producers will hold the grain for their own feeding. There has not been for a good many years as good prospects for a monster corn crop as there is this year. The wet weather in the early spring made some of the seed rot and necessitated a great deal of replanting, but in spite of that the corn has done well and Richardson county will have a monster crop. There was a severe hallstorm last Saturday night over a small strip of territory north of Falls City that destroyed some few fields of corn, but not many and not enough to reduce the total crop much.

It has been generally understood from the start that the elevator is to be a public institution-that is, it will store grain for anyone. What will be the policy with regard to transfer charges has never been stated and in fact a decision regarding the final details of this matter has not been made. The expectation among grain men is that the elevator will handle grain without charge to the shipper in order to get the business for the Great Western Many elevators are now handling grain without charge to the shippers, the rallroads which get the traffic paying the elevators 1% cents for handling each way.
