The state's commission at Portland has the matter in hand, and the invitations are issued by it. The personnel of the governor's party has not been anunced, but he will not take his military staff because it is necessary to leave for the exposition before the encampment work is attended to, and that would prevent the attendance of Adjutant General Culver.

Folk of Tennessee, who is in New York with the officials of five other states, hose states may examine into the condition of local companies. When Mr. Pierce left Lincoln for the east, he denied knowledge of any special investigation into the affairs of the Nebraska companies, saying that they were examined as often as the means at the command of the department would permit. For some time a report has been quietly circulated among local insurance men that some action on the part of the state official was pending.

While no definite action was taken by Auditor Searle, who is the official head of he department, it is understood that Pierce intends to discuss the plan of work with his fellow officials, and then leave Accountant Wiggins to do the actual work.
