NEW YORK STOCKS AND BONDS

Market Recovers from Last Week's Slight Reaction, but Trading is Dull.

AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS AT PORTSMOUTH

Final Hour is the Most Inactive of the Day and the Closing is Irregular.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—General reaction from last week's slight reaction was the rule in the stock market today, but trading was dull. For want of some better excuse the street attributed the falling off to the latest developments at Portsmouth.

At the low point, which was reached near the close of the session, prices rallied to the extent of 1/2c. The market was generally inactive throughout the session.

The market for oats was weak from the opening. The market for wheat was also weak. The market for corn was steady.
