Fall Millinery

The Leaders and Leaderettes of Fall Fashions in 1905 Millinery are on Reception Display—Monday. My lady naturally looks to "Sinclair Millinery" for reliable pointers on early fall fashions. Competition will as naturally take its cue from "Sinclair Millinery." Everybody is heartily invited to avail himself and herself of the many absolutely dependable pointers on fall styles that we are so qualified to give. The new fall styles give most promise of popularity. "Sinclair" pronounces them a little more graceful—less blocky—than the spring styles.

LOW TAX FOR THE FATHERS

Scheme of Cutting Assessment Per Baby Advocated by Electrician Michaelson.

Would tend to increase population. Mayor Moore says "Let Her Go," but Assistant City Attorney Ellick asserts "Not by Law."

Premiums for babies and children under 10 years of age when it comes to making the assessment of the married man is a scheme advocated by City Electrician Michaelson to equalize the difference between the burdens of the husband who is a father and the husband who is not. Mr. Michaelson admits that the subject has nothing to do with electricity, but he has a little black-eyed girl at his home, and he thinks the plan may do a great deal toward carrying out the Rooseveltian doctrine.

"The idea is not mine," says Michaelson, "taxing authorities in Chicago have been trying to do with electricity, but I am merely an advocate of the thing and I must say I think it is a good one. Fix up a scale of from $20 to $100 each for infants so more can be knocked off the assessment of the poor man than from that of him who is in comfortable circumstances. The system should not be used with the heavy taxpayers, but the raising of children ought to be awarded with the man of limited income. Give every poor father an offset for every child. It is costing him enough to bring up the baby in good shape and morals. But for the man who is doing nothing for his country and his race—let him feel the full brunt of all the taxes that can be soaked on him."

Ellick Blocks the Game. "Absolutely illegal," is the way Second Assistant City Attorney Ellick disposed of the proposition. "The Nebraska constitution says that all property must be taxed. There is no warrant in making deductions on account of babies in the family. I wish there was. For some months I have been a happy father myself. Of course I don't mind being an assessor or deputy from carefully inquiring as to the number of infants in the family and quietly making up his figures with rebates for the kids. But he might get into trouble."

"The scheme has features that might make it a city of 200,000 within a few years," said Mayor Moore. "By all means let it be put in operation if possible. Give the poor man a chance."

For some reason the idea didn't seem to appeal to President Zimmerman of the council. Despite the contrivances of the fair sex Zimmerman still keeps bachelor's hall. But he has something to offer in substitute.

Go After the Bachelors. "Every single male more than 21 years of age and less than 60 ought to be taxed horizontally at the rate of $10 a year," said he. "Young and old bachelors in Omaha who do not own real estate do not pay a fair share of taxes. The legal machinery is not devised so as to require them to do so. I know that I do not pay as much taxes on my personal property as

OMAHA EAGLES WIN PRAISE

Free Entertainment by Local Aeris is to Be Remembered.

NEXT PROBABLE HEAD OF ORDER TALKS

Deputy Grand Worthing Vice President

Joe Ellis Says Omaha Can Get Convention When Hotels Are Enlarged.

That Omaha needs a new hotel or two of 1000 capacity would seem to be indicated by the comments of members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles who have passed through this city in the last week on their return from the Denver convention. Aside from all the talk relating to Eagle politics, wherein the Omaha series was a loser, the delegates from the east and the west have expressed a friendly feeling for Omaha—but—and there's the rub. They say that this city has not the facilities for housing a big crowd of money-spenders who never count their money and want the best accommodations that are to be had.

As an instance, the delegates of the various series of the country are allowed $10 to $15 a day for expense money. That is to pay hotel expenses, for it is figured in this order that a delegate will want to take his mother, wife or sister with him on his pilgrimage to the grand aeris. His personal expenses and the incidental expenses of the women of his family are outside of the aeris appropriation, and with such a large order these amount to a decidedly substantial sum. At Denver, as at other places where the grand aeris has met, it is a common expression that the Knights Templar alone spend more money than the Eagles in their convention city.

Next in Line Talks.

Hon. Joseph A. Ellis of Minneapolis, an influential politician and from its inception a leading member of the Eagle order, had this to say, in Omaha Friday:

"While we had to fight Omaha's candidates for grand worthy president this time, and while we felt impelled to give the next convention of the order to Milwaukee, I want to say that there is not a member of the order who is not proud of and feels under obligation to Omaha aeris. No. 28. The members of the Omaha aeris entertained absolutely without cost 1200 of our people going to Denver, as well as a good many coming back. These hundreds of men and women who were treated to automobile, carriage and trolley rides about your picturesque and attractive city, and who were fed without cost to themselves at the hotels and restaurants of Omaha will, as you can readily realize, be walking advertisements for your grand and generous city."

"I want to say frankly that, while I appreciate it, and every member of the order does, we know the cost of this entertainment must have put an awful crimp in the aeris of the city, and your men Tut-hill, Althaus, Ritchie, Greer, McDermott, Hunsicker and the others made a bit at Denver by their conduct after they were beaten. They fought fair and they fought hard for the Kansas City aeris chief, but the fates were against them. It is entirely safe to say, however, that the grand aeris of the Eagles is going to meet in Omaha before the order is much older."

As "Joe" Ellis has been the Minnesota deputy for several years, and is at present grand worthy vice president, in line for the principal position next year at Milwaukee, his views are of interest to Omaha boomers at this time. It is true that the local aeris has depleted its emergency fund by its liberality in entertaining the traveling delegates and their female contingent; but it is equally true that not one Eagle who passed this way but will sing the praises of Omaha wherever he lives, east or west.

Eagles Behaved Well.

The Denver Post thus quotes John A. Tut-hill of Omaha, and is in line with the old saying that one must go away from home to hear the news:

"Chairman J. A. Tut-hill of the credentials committee of the grand aeris of the Eagles leaves this afternoon with his wife and niece, Miss Edna Gwynne, for their home in Omaha. 'I have attended the last five national conventions of our order, and believe this one has been the best,' said he, 'and it shows that the organization is rising to a higher plane. Eagles have had the reputation of being heavy drinkers and 'rounders,' but the Denver chief of police has told me that he has not had occasion to arrest a single Eagle during the last week.'"

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gerke and son, Walter, returned to their home in Omaha with the Tut-hill party today. Mr. Gerke is a trustee of the Omaha aeris and has been market master of his home town. While here his friends started a campaign for him for alderman. A new ward, the Eleventh, was recently formed in Omaha, and Mr. Gerke hopes to be its first representative in the city council. He is a young man and a native of the district that was formed into the Eleventh ward."

Pelletier is Philoposical.

In the Kansas City Star of recent date appears the following interview with John F. Pelletier of that town, who was defeated for re-election:

"I have no regret at having lost. Henry G. Davis, my successor, is a fine man and will make a worthy leader. Kansas City won the two banners for the best unit in the national headquarters located here permanently, a suitable building to be erected for the purpose. The sentiment appeared so strongly against the building of a national home, however, that this project was not broached."

Police Rings Down Curtain.

According to a report at the police station, Matthew McIntosh was playing the heavy role of "Young-Man-Afraid-of-Himself" in a Douglas street saloon Friday evening, when Officer Fleck rang down the curtain and told McIntosh to go to the city jail and get his time check.

It is that McIntosh was trying to evict all the occupants of the saloon and take charge of the bar himself, which was against the rules. McIntosh was assessed $10 and costs in police court Saturday morning.

TEACHERS READY FOR WORK

Summer Vacation Has Been Improved in Study and Reorganization.

ENROLLMENT PROMISES TO BE LARGE

Preparations About Complete for Beginning of New Term in the Public Schools and the Specialty Colleges.

Teachers in small droves, with eyes brightened and complexions improved by the summer vacation, are appearing in Superintendent Davidson's office and announcing that they are ready to begin work again with the opening of school on Tuesday, September 5. Many, however, will not report until Monday at the general meetings, but so far as known the entire corps will be on hand for the first tap of the bell. The force this year will not exceed by more than half a dozen that of last year.

The new Beals school will afford three additional rooms there, and all will probably be used, as will another room at the Monmouth Park school. The old Beals school was badly crowded for several years and many of the children had to walk long distances to other buildings. A two-room annex has been provided for the Central Park school by moving the old Monmouth Park frame building to Thirty-sixth and Kansas avenue. It is likely that the number of pupils tributary to the annex will require no more than one room and one teacher. At the Pacific school two rooms will be given up to the new manual training department, which will be in charge of an instructor employed for the purpose.

The two two-room additions to the Clifton Hill school will not be completed until well along in the fall.

At the high school there will be no material changes in faculty or curriculum.

Larger Enrollment Promised.

All of the public and private colleges and academies and the parochial schools are preparing to open for the fall term. Every report indicates of an enrollment greater than ever before. One absolutely new college, the Creighton Dental school, will open its doors for the first time. It will be located in the new $50,000 Creighton institute building on Eighteenth street, between Farman and Douglas. This structure will house, also, the Creighton Law school, which began last year. Registrar McCarty says that many inquiries from prospective students have been received and that the outlook is remarkably good for big enrollments. The law school will open September 26 and the new dental school October 2. The Creighton Medical college will start the year's work September 19 with a promise of the biggest year in its history. The classical and art schools of Creighton university will begin the grind Tuesday, September 4.

New Deena at Brownell.

At Brownell Hall, the Episcopal school for girls, where sessions begin Wednesday, September 20, several important changes in the faculty will take place, including the installation of a new dean. The new dean is Miss Elizabeth Taylor, from the First State Normal school of Pennsylvania. Dean Taylor has the name in the east of being an educator of the highest rank. She will succeed Miss Humphreys, who plans to spend a year or more in travel in the western United States to gain needed rest and recreation. Miss Alice M. Libby, a Wellesley graduate and fresh from a year's study at Oxford, will have charge of the English department, vice Miss Miller, who will take the same kind of a vacation as the former dean. Miss Genevieve Stuart, who has spent much time studying abroad, will be the new instructor in French, and Miss Elizabeth Parker, a woman of wide experience, will teach the sciences. The outlook for a big year is described as "perfectly splendid."

Specialty Colleges Booming.

A record-breaking year is anticipated by the Omaha Medical and Dental colleges, which will proceed with important changes in the faculties. The medical school opens September 19 and the dental October 2.

The commercial colleges will resume the grain Monday, September 4, disregarding the claims of
