Attendance Much Better Than Expected During Rainy Weather.

CITY WELL FILLED UP WITH VISITORS

With Clearing Weather for the Closing Days the Management Expects to See the Grounds Filled to Overflowing.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Sept. 6 - (Special.) - At the state fair tomorrow there will be races of it clears up. Incidentally, while this rain has fallen on the just and the unjust alike are urged to come and get their money and it has bespatiered the race track the The checks for the payment of the same the enthusiasm of thousands of Nebraska's prosperous citizens who are here to see the fair. They are seeing it, too. The motor cars and the Burlington trains to the grounds were crowded just the same as though there hadn't been any rain. No race program was pulled off at the grounds, but the exhibits were there and so were the shows, and it was fun for the thousands who dragged real estate along with their boots from one show to another. It is a good-natured, money spending, heroto crowd that's here and its members are having the time of their lives. The state house, the asylum, the penitentiary, the big stores and the little stores are full of the visitors.

What came near being a serious, if not fatal, accident happened at the state house this morning, in which an Omaha man, who escaped without leaving his name on the register, was the hero. The man had gone to the dome of the capitol, the mecca for all visitors, and coming down con cluded he was strong enough to walk across the glass skylight on the third floor. He climbed over the board enclosure and made a step onto the glass. The glass is divided into small panes, and one pane went out and Mr. Man made a leap for safety, struck another glass which broke and then by almost superhuman effort he made the other side with no loss, except considerable skin from his shins. When he reached safety he was too frightened to elaim any credit for his feat.

While the members of the fair board of course regret that Mr. Loveland and Mr. Welch have seen fit to send down this rain they are not the least discouraged Every train to Lincoln is still bringing in hundreds, and if the sun shines tomorrow there will be a record-breaking crowd. The people are in town and only need a little sunshine to move to the fair grounds. The crowd today surpassed all expectations.

Today's attendance at the fair totals 10,274, paid admissions 8,280, Tonight every train brought in fresh recruits and the indications are that tomorow's crowd will come up to the attendance of the good day of last year. Among state treasurer to a nice little cold shoulder at one time recently. That was the time when there was a question of the validity of the treasurer's guarantee bond and it was desired that the big banks go on the bond of the treasurer. This proposition the Omaha banks turned down cold. The United States National bank of Omaha has more money than it is entitled to, but it intends to put up a larger bond so Treasurer Mortensen let the Institution have the larger amount.

Police Are Wrathy. The air around the police station is a hazy blue today all because the county officials allowed a half dozen of Jim Majone's pet confidence men that he worked a year or more in capturing, to escape. It was discovered this morning that the men dug the hole through the wall from the inside and that evidently they had been working at it for some days. One attache of the jail said he heard some one sawing iron yesterday but supposed it was a mechanic working around the jail and did not in-Detective Malone caused the arrest of the men during the last few months, consequently he is wrathy. Likely there will be an investigation. In the meantime Malone will send no more prisoners to the county jail.

A number of the Spanish war veterans have called at the office of the adjutant general and received what was coming to all descriptions, if it doesn't rain, and if then from their Uncle Samuel. All of the veterans who are here attending the fair same as O street, it has failed to dampen are drawn by Adjutant General Culver and signed by Governor Mickey, Intercede for Gregg.

> A number of prominent citizens have called upon Governor Mickey during the last few days to talk with him regarding C. H. Gregg, member of the State Normal board, who, as president of the Kearney Hardware company was a beneficiary under a contract let to the company by the board. Chairman Ludden of the board explained to the governor that there was nothing wrong with the manner in which Mr. Gregg got the contract, as the company which Mr. Gregg and others bought out had the contract already and that Gregg merely succeeded to the contract. The explanation Gregg will have to make to Governor Mickey is why he asked that the contract be transferred from the Lincoln Hardware company to the Stoddard company, which was succeeded by the Kearney company. It is understood that the governor will insist upon this explana-

Hurts Appointed Electrician. The fight between Mayor Brown and Water Commissioner Deffenbaugh over the appointment of a city electrician, the ordinance providing that the mayor shall appoint upon the recommendation of the water commissioner has ended. Last night the mayor appointed L. E. Hurtz of Lincoln, until recently an employe of the gas company. The mayor and the water commissioner got together before the meeting of the council and fixed up the matter,

The State Board of Secretaries of the Board of Veterinary Surgeons concluded the examination of applications to praclice veterinary surgery in Nebraska late this afternoon. In all seventy candidates took the examination and, according to Dr. Peters, all of them will pass. The examinations were held at this time because of the low rates on the railroads. Omaha Banks and State Money.

The intimation from Omaha that the banks of that city were not getting their share of the state money which is deposited in banks, is easily explained. The banks of Nebraska in which state money is deposited are required to put up a bond in amount equal to twice the amount of the state money on deposit. Under this rule, the Omaha banks are getting about all that is coming to them and the deposits there compare fayorably with the Lincoln banks and the amount to which each is entitled under its bend:

School Without a Principal.

NORFOLK, Neb., Sept. 6.-(Special.)-The Norfolk high school has started out this week in a headless way, the principal's chair being vacant as the result of a series of misfortunes, the last of which was a queer bit of acting by a South Dakota tutor. The position was made vacant by the tragic drowning of R. C. Powers, who went over the dam here one night during the summer with Miss Annie McBride, a primary teacher. Mr. Powers, Norfolk graduate and later a Nebraska university man, had been re-elected for the third term. Later a Chicago man was found who wanted the place but who, when time for the contract came, wired that he couldn't take it. Then J. C. Walker of Keystone, S. D., a town near Deadwood, was located. He was anxious to and came, but went away again. Two days after he reached home, Mr. Walker wired that he couldn't come. School started before this telegram came and the headless high school is now searching for a teacher who can teach.

York Corn Looks Good. YORK, Neb., Sept. 6,-(Special.)-Corn is onsiderably advanced and is uniformly good. It is estimated by the middle of this month over one-half of the corn crop in York county will be out of the way of frost. The prospects are for another heavy crop and an excellent quality. A light frost appeared Tuesday morning on the low lands but did no damage. About 30 per cent of the cultivated acreage is plowed for winter wheat and already many hundreds of acres have been drilled in. All day yesterday and all last night rain fell thoroughly soaking he soil which is very much appreciated by the farmers, who realize that when there is considerable moisture in the fall, there seems to be a certainty of a good season for growth of crops next year. This is the experience of pioneers of this county.

Several weeks ago the girl eloped with a man named Hiram Miller. The mother traced the couple across the river to the Nebraska side and finally succeeded in locating them on the streets in this city while a street fair was in progress. Miss Downing was induced to return home upon a promise that no effort would be made to prosecute Miller. Yesterday was the day set and the Dodge county board was ready, but the Saunders county fathers did not show up. An adjournment was taken to this morning, but no Saunders county officers appeared, and it looks very much as though Dodge county would have to go into court again to reap some fruits of the decision of the supreme court in its favor on the bridge question.

One more elevator is to be built this all to help care for Omaha's grain trade. will be erected by the Von Dorn Grain mpany, successors to the George A. Adams Grain company. Council Bluffs has been chosen as the site, since better trackage facilities it is claimed were to be found there than could be had in Omaha with the property available.

The elevator will have a storage capacity of 50,000 bushels and will have an extra large handling capacity for its size. Plans are being drawn and the elevator will be built this fall. The Von Dorn Grain company has option on two sites, and on which one of these the structure will be placed has not been determined.

Only the grain of the company will be handled. In this connection J. E. Von Dorn said: "I am putting up this elevator because it is the only way I can do a satisfactory business. The grain dealer here who owns no elevator has a hard time of it, as the big elevator will not take his grain. They want to buy it themselves and therefore hamper the dealer by refusing to care for it. Now that we will have an elevator we expect to have enough grain of our own to keep it busy."

Change in the Firm. The Von Dorn Grain company began business under its new name Wednesday. It was formerly the George A. Adams Grain company, of which George A. Adams of Kansas City was president and J. E. Von Dorn of Omaha was vice-president. Mr. Von Dorn is now owner of the Omaha business and has given up his intersts in company's business at Kansas City and other places. The company has been in the Board of Trade building for three years. Mr. Von Dorn was reared in Omaha. A few years ago he was a telegrapher, for four years he was a partner in the Floyd Campbell Grain company and before that oncern went out of business he became identified with the George A. Adams Grain company.
