Operations in Three Cities Inspire Bellef that Concerted Plan is Executed by Co-Operation of Criminals.

To no small extent is it believed in police and detective circles the recent delivery of five prisoners from the Douglas county jall was accomplished either wholly or in part by outside parties-pais of some of the prisoners, who made their escape.

This opinion is held by many of the older detectives who have had years of experience in the ways of criminals and the usual methods employed in times of escape. While nothing definite can be stated re-

Eincoln and Sloux City, from which places eighteen "good" prisoners gained their liberty within a month's time, yet the authorities are more than certain that some organized effort was made in behalf of the prisoners who got away.

It is a generally accepted fact among those who have to do with the running down of criminals that this class of social parasites have organizations and stick by each other so far as the exigencies of the "profession" will permit. A more or least regular correspondence is maintained by criminals and the daily newspapers are scrutinized assiduously for the movements of pals who may get into trouble. When it known that a member of any clique or stang is in trouble a helping hand is extended in some way or other, according to circumstances.

Terrifying In Its Vastness.

"The city of London is terrifying in its astness and activity, but one is constantly shocked upon the public streets by the sight of distress and poverty stalks in misery by the side of those who ride in all the luxury of wealth. I doubt if there is any place in the world where the contrasts are so sharp and well defined.

CITY LIFE IS TOO ALLURING Adhesion More Than Paddy Kelly

Finds Himself Able to Successfully Resist.

Paddy Kelly, who is arrested about three mes every week, was Saturday morning sentenced to ten days by Police Judge Berks. Friday morning Kelly was released on a promise to leave the city of the Seven Hills of Cibola and the Kingdom of Quivers for ever and a day, but Friday afternoon he was picked up in a high state of liquid exhibaration and placed in one of the cooling rooms of the city jail. Kelly will be out of jail in time to view the parade. He told the judge he started to leave town, but the temptation to remain until after the fall festivities was more than he could withstand.
