Patent Beverage Reg. Patent Beverage Reg.

Letters patent have just been granted Leo Baroch of Omaha for a patent beverage seg. The device consists of a siphon attachment to a beverage keg whereby its contents may be siphoned out without occasioning a loss of strength to them. It is peculiarly applicable to beer kegs of any capacity from one to five or more gallons and is designed to preserve the contents of kegs in all their strength and pursty. The keg and attachment can also be utilized for domestic and picnic purposes, as well as asloon purposes, thus preventing the escape of the living gases and leaving the last contents as pure and fresh as the first. Mr. Baroch is figuring with one of the leading brewers of Omaha with a view to availing of the patent keg and attachment.
